Flood Waters Rip Through Dakota

Water Goes To Normal Area Level

Families Returning to Homes; Streams Are Resuming Regular Flow

Relief Continues

Entire Damage Survey Lacking Until Full Examination Made

Flood conditions along the Esopus creek valley rapidly diminished as the stream again returns to its banks. Except for numerous back-wash areas which have not yet drained off, conditions are again resuming normal and many of the people who were forced to flee their homes are returning to their homes to begin the process of cleaning up.

The crest of the high water in the upper Esopus creek was reached at about 4 a. m. Sunday and since then the stream has continued to drop. At the peak of the flood the water was gauged at the 15.54 foot mark at Cold Brook. Today it was at the 7-foot level, a drop of 8½ feet over the peak.

In the lower reaches of the creek high water still prevails but has receded and is expected to be well within its banks shortly.

Red Cross Continues

Meanwhile the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, which has been named by Mayor Newkirk as the disaster relief agency to aid persons who suffered loss, is continuing its program of assistance. A complete survey of the damage will not be possible until the water has receded sufficiently to ascertain just how much damage was done by the high water. The crest of the flood was about four feet under that of the March 1951 flood and damage will be considerably less.

Costello Fine $5,000; Gets 18 Months

New York, April 8 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello was fined $5,000 and sentenced to 18 months in prison today for refusing to testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Sentence was pronounced by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan who denied Costello's last-minute effort to obtain a mistrial.

The sentence will be served in a federal prison.

Served One Sentence

It will be the first time Costello, with a long career as a rackets boss, has served time behind the bars since 1915, when he spent 10 months in jail for carrying a gun.

The punishment handed out to Costello included four terms of one year each, to run concurrently, and three of six months each, also to run concurrently. The two sets of sentences are to run consecutively.

Costello, convicted last Friday on 10 counts of contempt of the Senate, could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

The big time gambler, quietly dressed in gray, stood with his arms folded, his head cocked to one side, as sentence was pronounced.

Will Appeal

Pronouncing sentence, Judge Ryan said he was "left with the definite impression" that Costello's refusal to testify before the committee was "premeditated and deliberate and that it was your purpose to delay giving testimony until others had testified."

Immediately after the sentencing Costello's attorney, Kenneth M. Spence, announced he would appeal. He said he also would ask bail for the big time gambler pending the appeal.

Has No Comment

Costello, asked if he had anything to say, replied with a "no comment."

Fires of Suspicious Origin in Ellenville

Two slight fires of suspicious origin were reported in Ellenville early today.

The first fire, discovered at 2:10 a. m., burned a small portion of the front door of the Samoglie grocery store on North Main street, firemen said. The second, which broke out 20 minutes later, was in a baby carriage at 16 Tuthill avenue, according to the report. There was no baby in the carriage at the time, and no injuries were reported.

The possibility that both fires could have been "set fires," led firement to notify state police at Wurtsboro. BCI men from that station were investigating today.

The fires were reported only hours after Ellenville's new fire chief, Edward Traphagen, took over the duties of that office. Monday night he was installed as chief, succeeding Benjamin Litchrod.

Plattekill Man Held

Danbury, Conn., April 8 (AP)—Police today claimed the solution to a $3,000 payroll robbery here two years ago with the arrest of two men and the imminent arrest of two others. Det. Capt. Eugene F. Melvin identified the two men under arrest as James M. Webb, 22, of Plattekill, N. Y., and Louis La Fountain, 26, of New Haven. Each has been charged with armed robbery and held in bonds of $5,000 for city court arraignment next week. The police official said a third man, allegedly involved in the robbery, is now in jail at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on an auto theft charge.

Swinton Pleads Guilty to Two Charges in Woodstock Case

Killed in Korea

CPL. JOHN HOFFMAN

Cpl. John A. Hoffman, 68 German street, who was killed in action in Korea on March 23, is shown above on the transport which took him overseas. It is one of the last pictures of him that his family possesses.

Cpl. Hoffman, 23, was an active participant in local sports and had a large circle of friends here.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hoffman were notified of his death by telegram received last Wednesday. A letter from Maj. Gen. William E. Bergin, adjutant general, said death was caused by shrapnel and that further details would be included in a letter from the oversea commander or chaplain.

Born in Kingston, Cpl. Hoffman graduated from St. Peter's Parochial School and attended Kingston High School. He was employed at the Fuller Shirt Company until Sept. 1, 1950, when he was appointed a member of the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D. C. He was inducted into the Army on January 10, 1951.

He was last home just before Thanksgiving last year on a furlough, following which he was shipped overseas. He served in Korea since November with the 780th Field Artillery Battalion.

Known In Athletics

An excellent baseball player, he was a member of the Subway Grill team that won the city championship several seasons ago. He also played with Cordts Hose Company, of which he was a member, and was a member of the Chez Emile basketball team. His acquaintances considered him a good, all-around athlete.

He was a member of St. Peter's Holy Name Society.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Lorraine and Carol, and two brothers, Robert and Richard.

Two Profess Innocence in Highland Robbery; Five Youths Deny Theft Series

Norman Stacy Swinton, 26, of New York, who was charged with having entered the Mill Stream Motel at Woodstock, bludgeoning the proprietor, John Thompson, and robbing him of $200, in a surprise move Monday afternoon in County court entered a plea of guilty to two of the several charges which were lodged against him.

Swinton, pleading to indictment No. 4579, changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty to burglary, third degree, and robbery, second degree, two of several counts in the indictment. He will be sentenced on Thursday, April 10, at 10 a. m. Meanwhile he was remanded to jail.

The plea came after Swinton had appeared in court before County Judge John M. Cashin and protested against his case being moved for trial today by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn. Swinton had been assigned counsel since he had no funds to engage a lawyer. His former attorney asked to be relieved from the assignment because of "non-cooperation" by Swinton. Charles Sassoman was then assigned.

Saccoman Complains

In court Monday Saccoman stated that he would be ready to go to trial today, although he felt the attitude of the defendant would not make it possible for him to do his best as defendant's attorney. He said Swinton failed to cooperate in interviews with his counsel.

Following that statement Judge Cashin told Swinton he would not assign another attorney and delay the trial. Cashin stated that Saccoman was a competent, capable attorney.

Laer after Saccoman had left court Swinton consulted with County Investigator Arthur Brown for a time and then Saccoman was called back to consult with his client. Swinton then entered his plea of guilty to the two charges and the plea was accepted by the Court and District Attorney Bruhn.

Worked for Thompson

Swinton had previously been employed by John Thompson in New York. Later Swinton became an employe of Thompson when he came to Woodstock and opened the motel. Thompson was found in his home with severe head injuries, apparently inflicted with a hatchet and Swinton was missing. About $200 was missing from the trousers of Thompson when he was found. Swinton was picked up in August in New York and returned to Ulster county to face a robbery, burglary and assault charge.

Both Sides Told Early Decision on Buses Hampered

Transportation Company Rests Case at Noon; City Asks Full Expense Report

The Kingston City Transportation Corporation rested its case at noon today in the hearing of its petition for permanent discontinuance of two local bus routes, and opponents to the curtailment of service immediately began offering their testimony after the hearing examiner warned that at the rate the hearing is dragging on there will not be an early decision.

Hearing Examiner O'Brien told counsel for both sides that "at the rate we are progressing, it is evident to me it will be a long time before the testimony is in." Although both sides have expressed a desire for a Public Service Commission decision before April 30, the examiner warned, "You're not going to have an early decision." He explained that the mechanics of reviewing the testimony and exhibits are time consuming.

April 30 is the date the P.S.C. has set to end the temporary suspension of the two bus routes in question—the Fairview-Lucas and the Wilbur avenue routes. The lines were suspended from Dec. 26, 1951, until Feb. 26 of this year by permission of the P.S.C., which subsequently authorized an extension until April 30.

This morning's hearing, held at the court house, was a continuation of the hearing which was adjourned last Wednesday.

The bus company is seeking to make the suspension of the two routes permanent, while city officials and residents are asking that the lines be restored.

Gives Revenue Figures

This morning's session was devoted mainly to direct and cross examination of Thomas Gadd, vice president and general manager of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation.

After submitting figures showing a profit of $1,730.25 in the first three months of this year, during which the Fairview-Lucas and Wilbur routes were not operated, Gadd testified that in his opinion the company could not maintain those two routes and operate at a profit.

Gadd offered evidence that the company's revenue during March of this year totaled $17,437.48, including $16,672.09 from cash fares, $739.58 from school tickets and

Alice Gray Found Dead in New York Hotel on Monday

New York, April 8 (AP)—The body of Alice R. Gray, 23-year-old language teacher, daughter of a Dr. and Mrs. Gray, of 361 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., was found yesterday on a bed in a room of the Hotel Regent. Police listed the death as suicide.

She had registered Sunday night under the name of "Ruth Rosenfeld."

Police said the teacher, who lived at 622 West 113th street, Manhattan, was found by a maid.

Identification was made by Eric Liban, of 50-04 47th street, Woodside, Queens, a cousin, who reported her missing Sunday evening when he found a note written in French in her apartment which stated in part: "Bidding adieu to Milton," police said.

A note written in French was also found in Miss Gray's hotel room yesterday, police said. The note, addressed to Milton Gold, of 622 West 113th street, a friend, asked his forgiveness and said all her possessions should go to him because "he was so good to me," according to police.

Mrs. Gray later told police her daughter had been under the care of a psychiatrist recently.

Police said the young woman might have taken an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Government May Seize Mills In Steel Strike if Necessary

Reds Are Ready To Make Trade

Hint They Will Give In on Russia as 'Neutral Nation'

Munsan, Korea, April 8 (AP)—Communist negotiators hinted today they are ready to give in on Russia as a "neutral nation" to help supervise a Korean truce if the allies would permit the Reds to repair their airfields.

The hint was indirect. It was so broad it might have been overlooked if Communist newsmen had not previously said the Reds were ready to make such a trade.

The hint came from Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang in a 3½-minute session of a subcommittee of truce negotiators. He was explaining why the Reds asked the subcommittee to take the question of truce supervision out of the hands of staff officers.

Hsieh said the purpose was "to settle" the two key questions "together."

UN command negotiators took no official notice of the hint. Hsieh did not elaborate and the meeting adjourned.

Almost simultaneously with the brief meeting, Gen. Omar Bradley, speaking in Macon, Ga., said he had great hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean war. The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff denounced as absurd the Red demand Soviet Russia help police an armistice.

"We have been meeting Soviet equipment on the ground and in the air for more than 20 months," Bradley said. "If the Soviets had not provided modern equipment, the war in Korea would never have been possible."

In the truce village of Panmunjom this is the way Hsieh hinted the Communists were willing to forget their Russian demand for a consideration:

"Since your side refused to discuss and settle the question of airfield restrictions in the staff officer meetings, we suggested the resumption of subdelegation meetings to settle the question of airfield restrictions together with the question of the nomination of neutral nations."

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior UN subcommitteeman, told reporters that the statement "was false in that the question of airfields was excluded from the staff officers meetings by agreement."

He said the Reds "have not come out with any definite proposal. I think all of us have learned there is no use trying to guess what the Communists mean by insinuation and hint."

Observers suggested the Reds might be jockeying to get the UN delegates to propose a trade. The allies are waiting for the Reds to make their moves.

Staff officers dealing with the other major bar to a truce—how to exchange prisoners—were in recess analyzing each other's positions.

Commerce Department Reported Ready for Operation on Order

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The Commerce Department today was reported ready to operate the strike-threatened steel industry in the event President Truman decides on government seizure.

Officials gave this world to reporters today on the heels of public disclosure that the President has asked Secretary of Commerce Sawyer to interrupt a mid-western tour and return here immediately.

These officials said seizure orders have been drafted for Truman's signature.

Hopes in official quarters apparently had been all but abandoned for a settlement in the industry's wage dispute with the CIO Steelworkers Union.

No Decision

However, there apparently had been no definite decision to seize the industry.

A spokesman for the Office of Defense Mobilization said Truman wanted Sawyer back to advise on government policy in the steel crisis. The spokesman described seizure as only one of several "possibilities."

Justice Department attorneys and other government lawyers have said privately in fact that they had some doubts about the legality of seizure.

Several laws, including the Selective Service Act, give the government powers to take over and operate an industry under certain conditions. The question is whether the conditions in the current steel controversy fill the legal requirements.

Would Fight

The steel industry has said government seizure and operation of

Union Has Assurance Is Charge

Steelmaker Is Calling for Taft-Hartley Act Provisions to Avert Midnight Strike

Scant Hope Held

Plants Are Closing Down and Railroads, Other Industries Lay Off

Pittsburgh, April 8 (AP)—A leading steelmaker accused government and labor leaders with making a deal on a wage increase as the final hours before a nationwide steel strike ticked away.

The charge was hurled by Ernest T. Weir, board chairman of the National Steel Corp., who told a mass news conference that the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board for settling the steel dispute followed what he bluntly termed a deal.

In Washington, the Commerce Department was reported ready to take over the steel industry if President Truman gives the order for seizure.

Charges Deal

"There must have been a deal between powers in the administration and labor leaders in which the labor leaders received assurance their demands would have support," declared Weir, adding:

"My own opinion is that there was a deal made—maybe not on a definite amount—but there was a handpicked (wage stabilization) board for the purpose of supporting whatever deal was made."

The WSB recommended the CIO United Steelworkers get a 17½ cent wage increase but turned down the union's demand for a union shop.

Weir called for use of the emergency provisions of the Taft Hartley Act to avert the midnight strike by 650,000 unionists.

Under the law, President Truman can ask the courts for an order which would delay the strike for 80 days.

Meanwhile, America's great steel industry rushed toward a complete shutdown with government, industry and labor leaders holding out scant hope of staving off the walkout.

100,000 Idle Now

Mill shutdowns already have idled more than 100,000 of the 650,000 CIO United Steelworkers ordered to strike some 98 steel producing companies scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

Allied industries, like railroads, also are laying off workers in the expectation of losing business.

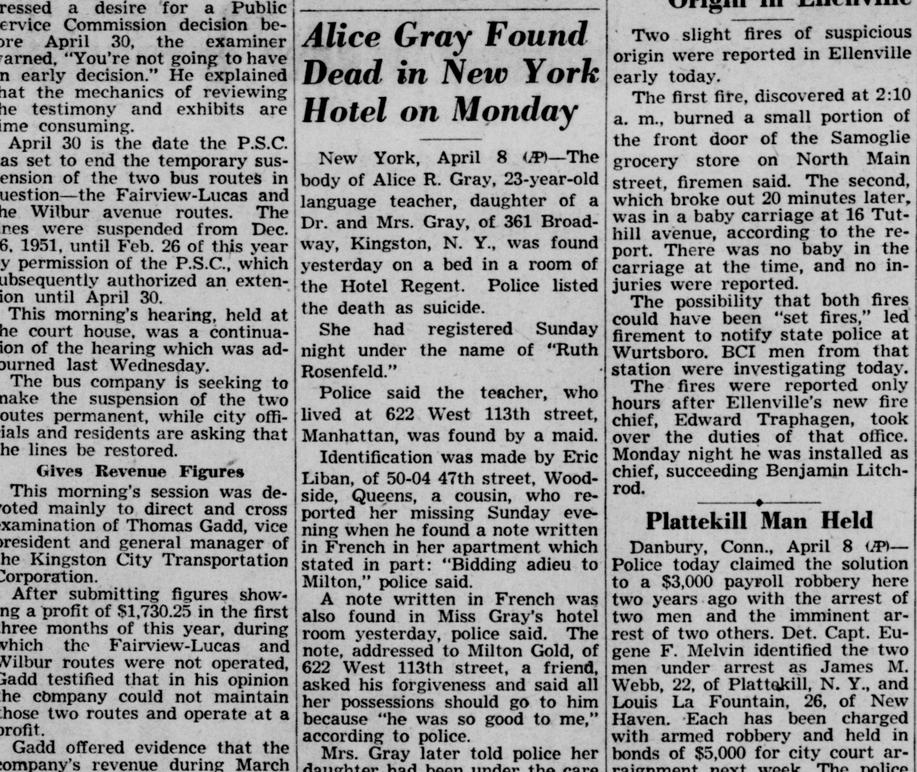

Already the walkout is on at Lone Star Steel Company in northeast Texas. Some 900 of the plant's 1,200 workers quit last midnight, said Lone Star Vice President W. R. Bond.

He said the stoppage 24 hours before the union deadline came after USW representatives rejected an 11th hour company proposal for a 7½ cents hourly wage boost retroactive to March 7, plus a 2½ cent raise in six months and a similar hike six months later. Bond said the steelworkers asked a total of about 60 cents per hour per worker.

At Ambridge, near Pittsburgh, a pre-strike walkout of 850 production workers shut down the

Docks Combed by Police In Schuster Murder Probe

New York, April 8 (AP)—Police combed more waterfront homes and hangouts today after questioning more than 100 Brooklyn longshoremen about the Arnold Schuster murder gun.

The hunt was pressed after discovery of a .38 caliber revolver used to slay the 24-year-old clothing salesmen whose tip to police brought the arrest of Willie (The Actor) Sutton.

One hundred detectives have herded in the longshoremen, who were among 400 working on a Brooklyn pier last February when the murder gun was stolen from an army shipment consigned to Europe. Many other dock workers were sought.

Police officials maintained a hush-hush policy after news leaked out early yesterday that the murder gun had been found last Wednesday. It was identified by ballistics tests.

Schuster was ambushed near his Brooklyn home on March 8. He had spotted Sutton, notorious bank robber and jail breaker, on a subway train Feb. 18.

Schuster's slayer never has been identified, and police say they don't know whether he was a psychopathic hero-worshipper of Sutton or an underworld avenger.

A second gun possibly used in the murder was sought today in sewers and other handy disposal places in the neighborhood where the .38 caliber revolver was found in a lot less than five blocks from Schuster's home.

The revolver had three discharged shells in its chambers and two unfired cartridges. The fact that Schuster was hit with four bullets suggested that two guns were used, and that two assassins committed the murder. Or it could have been a two-gun killer.

The recovered gun was traced to the pier shipment through its serial number.

Congress Would Ask Morris About McGranery Charges

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Newbold Morris' charge that James P. McGranery, attorney-general designate, "is a real whitewasher" drew swift demands in Congress today that he tell under oath the basis for his words.

McGranery's hotly-disputed nomination is before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has scheduled a full hearing in about two weeks.

Committee members said this would provide Morris an opportunity to support the whitewasher accusation if he can. Morris' statement was made in an interview yesterday in New York, where he returned after being fired as the administration's corruption-investigator.

"I'd be very much interested to know what he has to back this up," said Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.). "I don't think, personally, that he always knows what he's talking about."

Sen. Kilgore of West Virginia, the ranking Democratic member under McCarran, told a reporter.

"If a man is willing to make such grave charges in the public press, he ought to be willing to say them before a responsible body which can submit his statements to a check. I imagine in all probability we will want his testimony, whether he volunteers it or not."

Morris wrangled bitterly with Congress before Attorney General McGrath fired him last Thursday, four hours before McGrath himself was axed by President Truman. The dispute revolved around Morris' attempt to look into the

Water Goes To Normal Area Level

Families Returning to Homes; Streams Are Resuming Regular Flow

Entire Damage Survey Lacking Until Full Examination Made

Flood conditions along the Esopus creek valley rapidly diminished as the stream again returns to its banks. Except for numerous back-wash areas which have not yet drained off, conditions are again resuming normal and many of the people who were forced to flee their homes are returning to their homes to begin the process of cleaning up.

The crest of the high water in the upper Esopus creek was reached at about 4 a. m. Sunday and since then the stream has continued to drop. At the peak of the flood the water was gauged at the 15.54 foot mark at Cold Brook. Today it was at the 7-foot level, a drop of 8½ feet over the peak.

In the lower reaches of the creek high water still prevails but has receded and is expected to be well within its banks shortly.

Red Cross Continues

Meanwhile the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, which has been named by Mayor Newkirk as the disaster relief agency to aid persons who suffered loss, is continuing its program of assistance. A complete survey of the damage will not be possible until the water has receded sufficiently to ascertain just how much damage was done by the high water. The crest of the flood was about four feet under that of the March 1951 flood and damage will be considerably less.

Alice Gray Found Dead in New York Hotel on Monday

New York, April 8 (AP)—The body of Alice R. Gray, 23-year-old language teacher, daughter of a Dr. and Mrs. Gray, of 361 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., was found yesterday on a bed in a room of the Hotel Regent. Police listed the death as suicide.

She had registered Sunday night under the name of "Ruth Rosenfeld."

Police said the teacher, who lived at 622 West 113th street, Manhattan, was found by a maid.

Identification was made by Eric Liban, of 50-04 47th street, Woodside, Queens, a cousin, who reported her missing Sunday evening when he found a note written in French in her apartment which stated in part: "Bidding adieu to Milton," police said.

A note written in French was also found in Miss Gray's hotel room yesterday, police said. The note, addressed to Milton Gold, of 622 West 113th street, a friend, asked his forgiveness and said all her possessions should go to him because "he was so good to me," according to police.

Mrs. Gray later told police her daughter had been under the care of a psychiatrist recently.

Costello Fine $5,000; Gets 18 Months

New York, April 8 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello was fined $5,000 and sentenced to 18 months in prison today for refusing to testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Sentence was pronounced by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan who denied Costello's last-minute effort to obtain a mistrial.

The sentence will be served in a federal prison.

Served One Sentence

It will be the first time Costello, with a long career as a rackets boss, has served time behind the bars since 1915, when he spent 10 months in jail for carrying a gun.

The punishment handed out to Costello included four terms of one year each, to run concurrently, and three of six months each, also to run concurrently. The two sets of sentences are to run consecutively.

Costello, convicted last Friday on 10 counts of contempt of the Senate, could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

The big time gambler, quietly dressed in gray, stood with his arms folded, his head cocked to one side, as sentence was pronounced.

Will Appeal

Pronouncing sentence, Judge Ryan said he was "left with the definite impression" that Costello's refusal to testify before the committee was "premeditated and deliberate and that it was your purpose to delay giving testimony until others had testified."

Immediately after the sentencing Costello's attorney, Kenneth M. Spence, announced he would appeal. He said he also would ask bail for the big time gambler pending the appeal.

Has No Comment

Costello, asked if he had anything to say, replied with a "no comment."

Fires of Suspicious Origin in Ellenville

Two slight fires of suspicious origin were reported in Ellenville early today.

The first fire, discovered at 2:10 a. m., burned a small portion of the front door of the Samoglie grocery store on North Main street, firemen said. The second, which broke out 20 minutes later, was in a baby carriage at 16 Tuthill avenue, according to the report. There was no baby in the carriage at the time, and no injuries were reported.

The possibility that both fires could have been "set fires," led firement to notify state police at Wurtsboro. BCI men from that station were investigating today.

The fires were reported only hours after Ellenville's new fire chief, Edward Traphagen, took over the duties of that office. Monday night he was installed as chief, succeeding Benjamin Litchrod.

Plattekill Man Held

Danbury, Conn., April 8 (AP)—Police today claimed the solution to a $3,000 payroll robbery here two years ago with the arrest of two men and the imminent arrest of two others. Det. Capt. Eugene F. Melvin identified the two men under arrest as James M. Webb, 22, of Plattekill, N. Y., and Louis La Fountain, 26, of New Haven. Each has been charged with armed robbery and held in bonds of $5,000 for city court arraignment next week. The police official said a third man, allegedly involved in the robbery, is now in jail at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on an auto theft charge.

Says U. S., Labor Make Steel Deal

Union Has Assurance Is Charge

Steelmaker Is Calling for Taft-Hartley Act Provisions to Avert Midnight Strike

Scant Hope Held

Plants Are Closing Down and Railroads, Other Industries Lay Off

Pittsburgh, April 8 (AP)—A leading steelmaker accused government and labor leaders with making a deal on a wage increase as the final hours before a nationwide steel strike ticked away.

The charge was hurled by Ernest T. Weir, board chairman of the National Steel Corp., who told a mass news conference that the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board for settling the steel dispute followed what he bluntly termed a deal.

In Washington, the Commerce Department was reported ready to take over the steel industry if President Truman gives the order for seizure.

Charges Deal

"There must have been a deal between powers in the administration and labor leaders in which the labor leaders received assurance their demands would have support," declared Weir, adding:

"My own opinion is that there was a deal made—maybe not on a definite amount—but there was a handpicked (wage stabilization) board for the purpose of supporting whatever deal was made."

The WSB recommended the CIO United Steelworkers get a 17½ cent wage increase but turned down the union's demand for a union shop.

Weir called for use of the emergency provisions of the Taft Hartley Act to avert the midnight strike by 650,000 unionists.

Under the law, President Truman can ask the courts for an order which would delay the strike for 80 days.

Meanwhile, America's great steel industry rushed toward a complete shutdown with government, industry and labor leaders holding out scant hope of staving off the walkout.

100,000 Idle Now

Mill shutdowns already have idled more than 100,000 of the 650,000 CIO United Steelworkers ordered to strike some 98 steel producing companies scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

Allied industries, like railroads, also are laying off workers in the expectation of losing business.

Already the walkout is on at Lone Star Steel Company in northeast Texas. Some 900 of the plant's 1,200 workers quit last midnight, said Lone Star Vice President W. R. Bond.

He said the stoppage 24 hours before the union deadline came after USW representatives rejected an 11th hour company proposal for a 7½ cents hourly wage boost retroactive to March 7, plus a 2½ cent raise in six months and a similar hike six months later. Bond said the steelworkers asked a total of about 60 cents per hour per worker.

At Ambridge, near Pittsburgh, a pre-strike walkout of 850 production workers shut down the

Hint They Will Give In on Russia as 'Neutral Nation'

Munsan, Korea, April 8 (AP)—Communist negotiators hinted today they are ready to give in on Russia as a "neutral nation" to help supervise a Korean truce if the allies would permit the Reds to repair their airfields.

The hint was indirect. It was so broad it might have been overlooked if Communist newsmen had not previously said the Reds were ready to make such a trade.

The hint came from Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang in a 3½-minute session of a subcommittee of truce negotiators. He was explaining why the Reds asked the subcommittee to take the question of truce supervision out of the hands of staff officers.

Hsieh said the purpose was "to settle" the two key questions "together."

UN command negotiators took no official notice of the hint. Hsieh did not elaborate and the meeting adjourned.

Almost simultaneously with the brief meeting, Gen. Omar Bradley, speaking in Macon, Ga., said he had great hope for a peaceful settlement of the Korean war. The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff denounced as absurd the Red demand Soviet Russia help police an armistice.

"We have been meeting Soviet equipment on the ground and in the air for more than 20 months," Bradley said. "If the Soviets had not provided modern equipment, the war in Korea would never have been possible."

In the truce village of Panmunjom this is the way Hsieh hinted the Communists were willing to forget their Russian demand for a consideration:

"Since your side refused to discuss and settle the question of airfield restrictions in the staff officer meetings, we suggested the resumption of subdelegation meetings to settle the question of airfield restrictions together with the question of the nomination of neutral nations."

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior UN subcommitteeman, told reporters that the statement "was false in that the question of airfields was excluded from the staff officers meetings by agreement."

He said the Reds "have not come out with any definite proposal. I think all of us have learned there is no use trying to guess what the Communists mean by insinuation and hint."

Observers suggested the Reds might be jockeying to get the UN delegates to propose a trade. The allies are waiting for the Reds to make their moves.

Staff officers dealing with the other major bar to a truce—how to exchange prisoners—were in recess analyzing each other's positions.

Commerce Department Reported Ready for Operation on Order

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The Commerce Department today was reported ready to operate the strike-threatened steel industry in the event President Truman decides on government seizure.

Officials gave this world to reporters today on the heels of public disclosure that the President has asked Secretary of Commerce Sawyer to interrupt a mid-western tour and return here immediately.

These officials said seizure orders have been drafted for Truman's signature.

No Decision

However, there apparently had been no definite decision to seize the industry.

A spokesman for the Office of Defense Mobilization said Truman wanted Sawyer back to advise on government policy in the steel crisis. The spokesman described seizure as only one of several "possibilities."

Justice Department attorneys and other government lawyers have said privately in fact that they had some doubts about the legality of seizure.

Several laws, including the Selective Service Act, give the government powers to take over and operate an industry under certain conditions. The question is whether the conditions in the current steel controversy fill the legal requirements.

Would Fight

The steel industry has said government seizure and operation of

Docks Combed by Police In Schuster Murder Probe

New York, April 8 (AP)—Police combed more waterfront homes and hangouts today after questioning more than 100 Brooklyn longshoremen about the Arnold Schuster murder gun.

The hunt was pressed after discovery of a .38 caliber revolver used to slay the 24-year-old clothing salesmen whose tip to police brought the arrest of Willie (The Actor) Sutton.

One hundred detectives have herded in the longshoremen, who were among 400 working on a Brooklyn pier last February when the murder gun was stolen from an army shipment consigned to Europe. Many other dock workers were sought.

Police officials maintained a hush-hush policy after news leaked out early yesterday that the murder gun had been found last Wednesday. It was identified by ballistics tests.

Schuster was ambushed near his Brooklyn home on March 8. He had spotted Sutton, notorious bank robber and jail breaker, on a subway train Feb. 18.

Schuster's slayer never has been identified, and police say they don't know whether he was a psychopathic hero-worshipper of Sutton or an underworld avenger.

A second gun possibly used in the murder was sought today in sewers and other handy disposal places in the neighborhood where the .38 caliber revolver was found in a lot less than five blocks from Schuster's home.

The revolver had three discharged shells in its chambers and two unfired cartridges. The fact that Schuster was hit with four bullets suggested that two guns were used, and that two assassins committed the murder. Or it could have been a two-gun killer.

The recovered gun was traced to the pier shipment through its serial number.

Congress Would Ask Morris About McGranery Charges

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Newbold Morris' charge that James P. McGranery, attorney-general designate, "is a real whitewasher" drew swift demands in Congress today that he tell under oath the basis for his words.

McGranery's hotly-disputed nomination is before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has scheduled a full hearing in about two weeks.

Committee members said this would provide Morris an opportunity to support the whitewasher accusation if he can. Morris' statement was made in an interview yesterday in New York, where he returned after being fired as the administration's corruption-investigator.

"I'd be very much interested to know what he has to back this up," said Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.). "I don't think, personally, that he always knows what he's talking about."

Sen. Kilgore of West Virginia, the ranking Democratic member under McCarran, told a reporter.

"If a man is willing to make such grave charges in the public press, he ought to be willing to say them before a responsible body which can submit his statements to a check. I imagine in all probability we will want his testimony, whether he volunteers it or not."

Morris wrangled bitterly with Congress before Attorney General McGrath fired him last Thursday, four hours before McGrath himself was axed by President Truman. The dispute revolved around Morris' attempt to look into the

A similar walkout was reported at McLouth Steel Corp., whicb employs about 1,500 at Detroit.

Strike Looms

Hectic mediation efforts in New York where union and industry leaders are huddled have produced some faintly optimistic statements but nothing potent enough to slow the shutdown process.

President Philip Murray of both the CIO and the United Steelworkers took time out from New York sessions to declare over an NBC radio network:

"At midnight, the nation's production of steel will come to a halt."

Murray blamed industry for the deadlock and said steel executives "deliberatly incited a steel strike."

He added:

"Their purpose is plain, they want you to blame our union—while they roll up higher and higher profits at your expense."

Murray asserted the steel industry could grant his union's pay demands without raising prices "a single, solitary penny a ton."

The only immediate industry comment came from Ben Moreell, chairman of the board of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., who said Murray cannot dodge responsibility for this steel strike." He added:

"The companies have offered a reasonable compromise to avoid the strike. Murray still refuses to budge an inch."

Ask $12 a Ton

Other industry sources have steadily maintained they cannot meet Wage Stabilization Board recommendations for a 17½ cent hourly wage increase, union shop, and fringe benefits unless they get permission to boost their prices about $12 a ton.

No such permission has been forthcoming from the government.

Murray shows no sign of retreating from his position that acceptance of the WSB recommendations offers the only chance of avoiding a strike.

The union originally demanded an 18½ cent hourly pay boost for workers earning an average $1.88 an hour. It asked a union shop throughout the steel industry, a guaranteed annual wage and other benefits.

The companies proposed that the union forego a wage increase and industry give up hopes of getting higher prices.

Refusal of industry to join the union in accepting the WSB recommendation brought a new impasse in negotiations which began in Pittsburgh and moved to New York.

Government May

their facilities would amount to "confiscation" and that they are prepared to fight in the courts any seizure move.

Steel industry attorneys indicated they were ready to go to court to seek injunctions against government operation of their facilities, in the event the administration does decide on the step.

One possible alternative would be for the government to seek an anti-strike injunction under the Taft-Hartley law.

The T-H law permits an injunction, lasting for 80 days, against a strike which threatens the national welfare or safety.

There has been speculation, too, that Truman might simply try a public appeal first as a way of heading off a strike.

About 650,000 union members were prepared to strike at midnight tonight. The industry already was partly closed down, with furnaces and mills being gradually stopped in advance preparations for a walkout.

Financial and Commercial

By RICHARD FISKE

New York, April 8 (AP)—The stock market had an abrupt change of heart midway through the session today and prices advanced fractions to around a point.

A strike in the strategic steel industry still threatened for midnight tonight. But negotiators still strove for a last minute settlement.

The recovery began among the railroad stocks. But steels followed quickly along the upward path.

Bill for Pay Raises

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Legislation providing pay raises and increased expense allowances for district school superintendents was signed today by Governor Dewey. The measure, affecting about 155 superintendents, boosts the state-paid minimum salary from $4,715 to $5,000 a year and jumps their allowances in lieu of expenses from $900 to $1,200 annually.

Denies Robbery Attempt

New York, April 8 (AP)—William Driscoll, 27, of Attleboro, Mass., was arrested today at the home of his sister, where he had sought treatment for a bullet wound three hours after police had fired at a man fleeing a liquor store holdup. Driscoll denied participation in the robbery.

Three Granted Stays

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court today granted stays of execution to three men who were scheduled to be electrocuted in New York's Sing Sing Prison during the week of April 21. The three—Calman Cooper, Harry A. Stein and Nathan Wissner—were convicted of the fatal shooting of Andrew Petrini, a helper on a Readers Digest truck, during a holdup. The truck was carrying money bags for bank deposit at Pleasantville, N. Y. Jackson granted the stays to permit the three to file an appeal with the Supreme Court.

$25 from advertising revenue. In the same month, the company's expenses were $16,786.46, leaving a net profit of $651.02 for the month, he said.

For the three-month period ended March 31, Gadd testified, the company took in $52,533.58 and spent $50,803.33, for a profit of $1,730.25.

During cross examination, Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly took up the expenses item by item, asking Gadd what portion, if any, of the savings were attributed to the suspension of the two bus routes which are the subject of the hearing.

Gadd testified that the company reduced its staff of drivers by two when the routes were suspended, with a saving of about $85 a week for each of the two men. Savings in gas, oil and maintenance were also listed

He testified on cross examination that the company had effected certain economies not directly due to the suspension of the routes. He mentioned specifically a cut in the salary item for the corporation's general officers which he estimated at approximately $1,500 for the three months.

Asks About Advertising

Noting that the financial statement in evidence showed a total expenditure of $2 during the three months for advertising, Connelly asked whether the company had ever considered an advertising program "to acquaint the public with the advantages of bus travel." Gadd replied in the negative.

Asked by Connelly whether any attempt had been made to determine whether or not money spent for advertising would be a good investment by bringing increased returns, Gadd replied, "Why do it now, when we have never done it."

Connelly was applauded by some of the more than 50 spectators in the court room when he quipped, "In other words, it was good enough for the trolley cars, so it's good enough for us."

Noting an item under revenue of $25 a month for advertising by cards within the buses, Connelly asked whether the company had tried to increase that revenue. Gadd replied that the bus advertising was handled by an agency under a five year contract, which he believed from past experience was the best contract obtainable.

Other testimony offered by Gadd included the centention that the company will have to purchase two new buses if it is ordered to restore service on the Fairview-Lucas and Wilbur routes. Conceding that the routes prior to Dec. 26 had been operated with the present equipment, he stressed that at that time the company had two new buses on order, and that the order was canceled when permission was granted to suspend the two routes.

He also testified that there is usually a loss of revenue during summer months, when school is not in session and residents are away on vacation.

With the conclusion of Gadd's testimony, the bus company, as petitioner, rested its case at noon. Following Hearing Examiner O'Brien's statement about the slowness of the proceeding, the respondent's case was begun without recess. Corporation Counsel Connelly called as his first witness James Martin, supervisor of the Twelfth Ward.

Denies Wedding Plans

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The White House said today the latest rumor that Margaret Truman has wedding plans "is not true." Mrs. James Helm, social secretary to Mrs. Harry S. Truman, made that comment on a report from California that Miss Truman is planning to wed in the fall. "It's not true," Mrs. Helm said. "It's the same old rumor all dressed up again."

Will Start Erecting Steel Next Week

The Broadway crossing project will be ready for starting steel work next week, Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipsett Inc., the contractor, said today.

Another pour of 30 yards of concrete was made today in the north abutment of the bridge that will connect Railroad and Greenkill avenue and curb is being built along Cedar street, which is being widened.

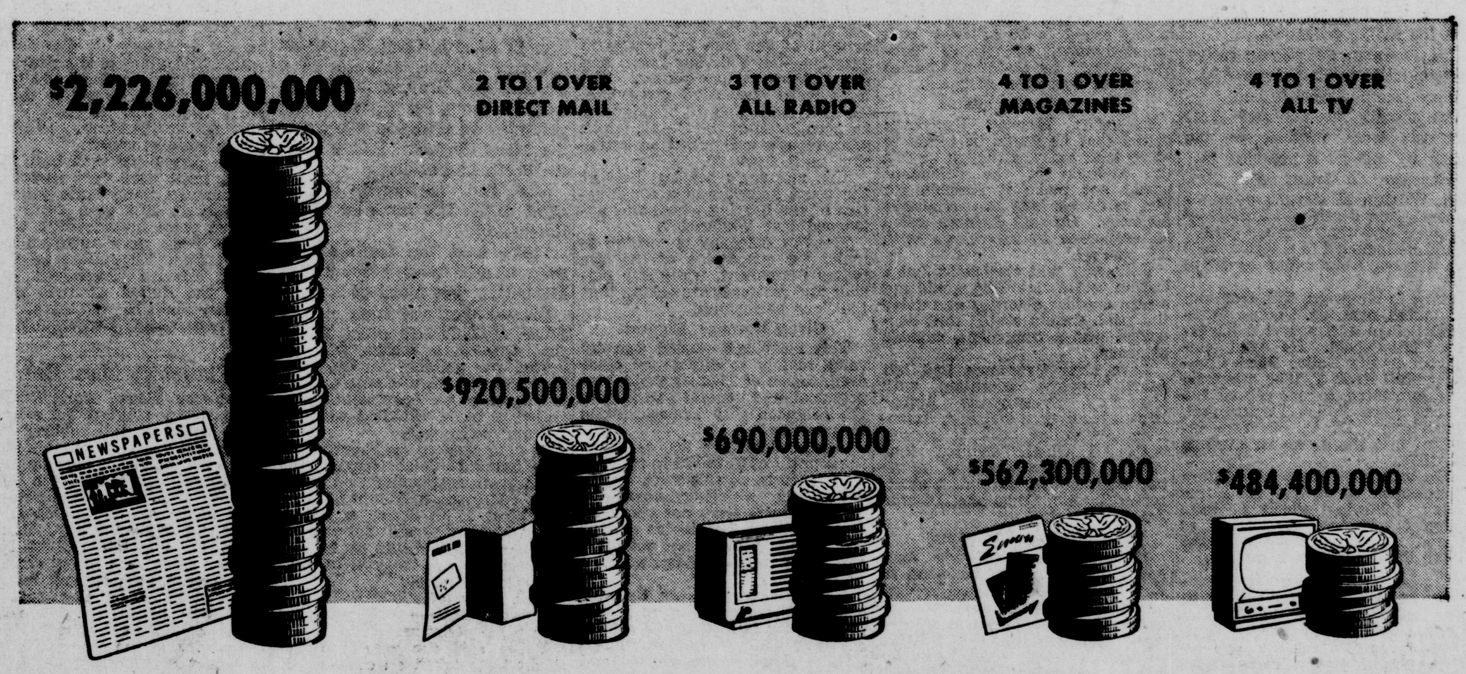

Two more pours of concrete are to be made in the south abutment of the bridge and the project will then be ready for the steel work.

It takes a lot of confidence and all kinds of people to spend two and a quarter billion dollars' worth of advertising.

It takes everybody from big VP's with heavy ad budgets to housewives with rooms to rent. It takes chain-store executives and neighborhood merchants.

It takes local business people—those who spend only their own money for ads, and those who also spend big money contributed by manufacturers.

But most of all it takes an advertising medium that can do the job—a complete job: NEWSPAPERS.

Only newspapers can give you full value for your advertising dollar because only newspapers reach everybody who can possibly buy.

If you're a retailer or wholesaler, demand newspaper advertising before you place an order.

If you're a salesman or district manager, ask your management for newspaper advertising to move out the products you sell.

And if you're a manufacturer, remember this: IN 1951 ONE-THIRD OF ALL THE ADVERTISING DOLLARS IN THE NATION WERE ENTRUSTED TO NEWSPAPERS.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Mrs. Charles Myers, who passed away twenty-one years ago, April 6, 1931.

Death is a heartache no one can heal;
Memories are keepsakes, no one can steal;
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of a wonderful mother whom we will never forget.

Kingston to Have Sale For Blind May 2-15

A sale of articles made by the blind will be held in Kingston this year from Friday, May 2, through Thursday, May 15 at 642½ Broadway. Mrs. Harris Brown is serving as general chairman of the sale, which is sponsored by the local Lions Club.

The blind make and offer for sale many practical and economical household articles. All products are carefully made and inspected.

Committees from the churches of Kingston will be in charge of the sale for specified periods. These committees, together with their chairmen and times of service, will be announced at a later date.

Says U. S., Labor

H. H. Robertson Co. Some of the men marched to two other plants and demonstrated but did not close them.

A similar walkout was reported at McLouth Steel Corp., which employs about 1,500 at Detroit.

Strike Looms

Hectic mediation efforts in New York where union and industry leaders are huddled have produced some faintly optimistic statements but nothing potent enough to slow the shutdown process.

President Philip Murray of both the CIO and the United Steelworkers took time out from New York sessions to declare over an NBC radio network:

"At midnight, the nation's production of steel will come to a halt."

Murray blamed industry for the deadlock and said steel executives "deliberatly incited a steel strike."

He added:

"Their purpose is plain, they want you to blame our union—while they roll up higher and higher profits at your expense."

Murray asserted the steel industry could grant his union's pay demands without raising prices "a single, solitary penny a ton."

The only immediate industry comment came from Ben Moreell, chairman of the board of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., who said Murray cannot dodge responsibility for this steel strike." He added:

"The companies have offered a reasonable compromise to avoid the strike. Murray still refuses to budge an inch."

Ask $12 a Ton

Other industry sources have steadily maintained they cannot meet Wage Stabilization Board recommendations for a 17½ cent hourly wage increase, union shop, and fringe benefits unless they get permission to boost their prices about $12 a ton.

No such permission has been forthcoming from the government.

Murray shows no sign of retreating from his position that acceptance of the WSB recommendations offers the only chance of avoiding a strike.

The union originally demanded an 18½ cent hourly pay boost for workers earning an average $1.88 an hour. It asked a union shop throughout the steel industry, a guaranteed annual wage and other benefits.

The companies proposed that the union forego a wage increase and industry give up hopes of getting higher prices.

Refusal of industry to join the union in accepting the WSB recommendation brought a new impasse in negotiations which began in Pittsburgh and moved to New York.

Government May

their facilities would amount to "confiscation" and that they are prepared to fight in the courts any seizure move.

Steel industry attorneys indicated they were ready to go to court to seek injunctions against government operation of their facilities, in the event the administration does decide on the step.

One possible alternative would be for the government to seek an anti-strike injunction under the Taft-Hartley law.

The T-H law permits an injunction, lasting for 80 days, against a strike which threatens the national welfare or safety.

There has been speculation, too, that Truman might simply try a public appeal first as a way of heading off a strike.

About 650,000 union members were prepared to strike at midnight tonight. The industry already was partly closed down, with furnaces and mills being gradually stopped in advance preparations for a walkout.

Rosendale 4-H Club Welcomes New Member

The regular meeting of the Rosendale Girl's 4-H Club was held last Wednesday at the Reformed Church hall under the direction of the local leader, Mrs. F. Fiedler. The club welcomed a new member, Gladys Cole.

Those attending and making fine progress with their sewing project were Barbara Barbato, Jo-Ann Bianco, Judith Cherny, Helena Erceg, Carol-Ann Fiedler, Patricia Hunter, Helen Marie Romano, Sylvia Sicheri, Maureen Judson and Cathleen O'Leary.

Holy Week Service at St. John's Episcopal

The last of the series of midweek Lenten services will be held in St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany avenue, Wednesday evening at 7:30 when the Rev. Peter Hill of Trinity Church, Saugerties, will be the guest preacher. The rector, the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, will answer the questions placed in the question box.

Good Friday the Service of the Passion will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's, beginning at 12 noon and continuing to 3 in the afternoon.

Financial and Commercial

By RICHARD FISKE

New York, April 8 (AP)—The stock market had an abrupt change of heart midway through the session today and prices advanced fractions to around a point.

A strike in the strategic steel industry still threatened for midnight tonight. But negotiators still strove for a last minute settlement.

The recovery began among the railroad stocks. But steels followed quickly along the upward path.

Bill for Pay Raises

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Legislation providing pay raises and increased expense allowances for district school superintendents was signed today by Governor Dewey. The measure, affecting about 155 superintendents, boosts the state-paid minimum salary from $4,715 to $5,000 a year and jumps their allowances in lieu of expenses from $900 to $1,200 annually.

Denies Robbery Attempt

New York, April 8 (AP)—William Driscoll, 27, of Attleboro, Mass., was arrested today at the home of his sister, where he had sought treatment for a bullet wound three hours after police had fired at a man fleeing a liquor store holdup. Driscoll denied participation in the robbery.

VETS' EARNINGS SOAR—Newschart above, based on Census Bureau report, shows that veterans of World War II have bigger and faster growing incomes than non-vets. The rapid rise in veterans' incomes is believed to be the result of better education under the GI Bill of Rights.

Three Granted Stays

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court today granted stays of execution to three men who were scheduled to be electrocuted in New York's Sing Sing Prison during the week of April 21. The three—Calman Cooper, Harry A. Stein and Nathan Wissner—were convicted of the fatal shooting of Andrew Petrini, a helper on a Readers Digest truck, during a holdup. The truck was carrying money bags for bank deposit at Pleasantville, N. Y. Jackson granted the stays to permit the three to file an appeal with the Supreme Court.

Gentlemen were permitted to smoke in church in 17th century England.

Both Sides Told

$25 from advertising revenue. In the same month, the company's expenses were $16,786.46, leaving a net profit of $651.02 for the month, he said.

For the three-month period ended March 31, Gadd testified, the company took in $52,533.58 and spent $50,803.33, for a profit of $1,730.25.

During cross examination, Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly took up the expenses item by item, asking Gadd what portion, if any, of the savings were attributed to the suspension of the two bus routes which are the subject of the hearing.

Gadd testified that the company reduced its staff of drivers by two when the routes were suspended, with a saving of about $85 a week for each of the two men. Savings in gas, oil and maintenance were also listed

He testified on cross examination that the company had effected certain economies not directly due to the suspension of the routes. He mentioned specifically a cut in the salary item for the corporation's general officers which he estimated at approximately $1,500 for the three months.

Asks About Advertising

Noting that the financial statement in evidence showed a total expenditure of $2 during the three months for advertising, Connelly asked whether the company had ever considered an advertising program "to acquaint the public with the advantages of bus travel." Gadd replied in the negative.

Asked by Connelly whether any attempt had been made to determine whether or not money spent for advertising would be a good investment by bringing increased returns, Gadd replied, "Why do it now, when we have never done it."

Connelly was applauded by some of the more than 50 spectators in the court room when he quipped, "In other words, it was good enough for the trolley cars, so it's good enough for us."

Noting an item under revenue of $25 a month for advertising by cards within the buses, Connelly asked whether the company had tried to increase that revenue. Gadd replied that the bus advertising was handled by an agency under a five year contract, which he believed from past experience was the best contract obtainable.

Other testimony offered by Gadd included the contention that the company will have to purchase two new buses if it is ordered to restore service on the Fairview-Lucas and Wilbur routes. Conceding that the routes prior to Dec. 26 had been operated with the present equipment, he stressed that at that time the company had two new buses on order, and that the order was canceled when permission was granted to suspend the two routes.

He also testified that there is usually a loss of revenue during summer months, when school is not in session and residents are away on vacation.

With the conclusion of Gadd's testimony, the bus company, as petitioner, rested its case at noon. Following Hearing Examiner O'Brien's statement about the slowness of the proceeding, the respondent's case was begun without recess. Corporation Counsel Connelly called as his first witness James Martin, supervisor of the Twelfth Ward.

Denies Wedding Plans

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The White House said today the latest rumor that Margaret Truman has wedding plans "is not true." Mrs. James Helm, social secretary to Mrs. Harry S. Truman, made that comment on a report from California that Miss Truman is planning to wed in the fall. "It's not true," Mrs. Helm said. "It's the same old rumor all dressed up again."

Will Start Erecting Steel Next Week

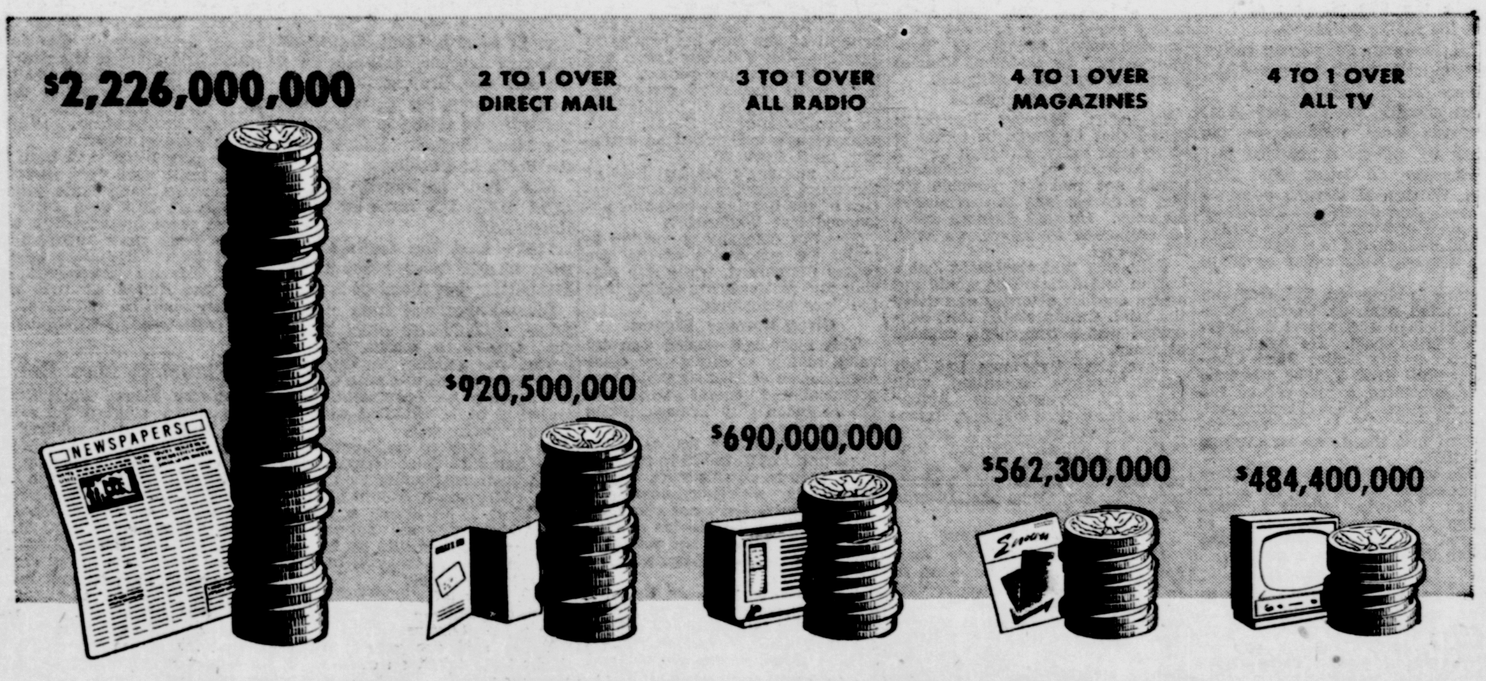

The Broadway crossing project will be ready for starting steel work next week, Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipsett Inc., the contractor, said today.

Another pour of 30 yards of concrete was made today in the north abutment of the bridge that will connect Railroad and Greenkill avenue and curb is being built along Cedar street, which is being widened.

Two more pours of concrete are to be made in the south abutment of the bridge and the project will then be ready for the steel work.

It takes a lot of confidence and all kinds of people to spend two and a quarter billion dollars' worth of advertising.

It takes everybody from big VP's with heavy ad budgets to housewives with rooms to rent. It takes chain-store executives and neighborhood merchants.

It takes local business people—those who spend only their own money for ads, and those who also spend big money contributed by manufacturers.

But most of all it takes an advertising medium that can do the job—a complete job: NEWSPAPERS.

Only newspapers can give you full value for your advertising dollar because only newspapers reach everybody who can possibly buy.

If you're a retailer or wholesaler, demand newspaper advertising before you place an order.

If you're a salesman or district manager, ask your management for newspaper advertising to move out the products you sell.

And if you're a manufacturer, remember this: IN 1951 ONE-THIRD OF ALL THE ADVERTISING DOLLARS IN THE NATION WERE ENTRUSTED TO NEWSPAPERS.

Miscellaneous media: 25.5% brings total to new high —6½ billion dollars. Figures include production costs. *Dailies only (weekday and Sundays). Source: Preliminary estimates for 1951 published by Printers' Ink, Jan. 11, 1952.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 8, 1952

KINGSTON WELCOMES A QUEEN

Through her unpretentious, democratic simplicity, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands won the admiration of the citizens of the City of Kingston and surrounding area who accorded her a sincere and spirited welcome here on Saturday. The very heavy and continuous rainfall didn't dampen the ardor of the greeting, but it did keep away thousands of visitors who planned to be here.

It is said that there is no reigning monarch who is more completely at one with her people than Queen Juliana and those who were privileged to see the gracious queen can readily understand why she is so beloved by her people.

The visit here of the first reigning monarch in the illustrious 300-year-old history of Kingston marks the first special event in the observance of the city's tercentenary. The success of this royal occasion augurs well for the remainder of the anniversary program to be held throughout the year.

The visit of the queen, which was officially under the control of the State Department, entailed a staggering amount of work by the local committee. Following acceptance by the queen to visit Kingston during her stay in the United States, the committee immediately went to work on arrangements with the officials at Washington and with The Netherlands Information Service in New York. The local program was completed and the official announcement of the plans was dispatched throughout the country. The amount of publicity given the royal visit by the press of the country and by the nationwide news services and their coverage of the event here attests to the thoroughness of the job performed by Harry Rigby, Jr., and his associates.

The citizens of Kingston are profoundly grateful to the local committees for both the quality and quantity of their endeavors.

Some of the other main events to be held this anniversary year will include a testimonial to General Robert Hasbrouck on the evening of June 5.

The Art Show to be held in the new George Washington School from July 16 to August 17.

There will be a historical pageant staged in the Municipal Stadium by 500 persons and numerous organizations are planning special events for Old Home Week.

With the continued active participation by the people of the city and especially those on the committees, Kingston's celebration of its 300th Anniversary will herald a new spirit of civic understanding and interest in the stirring events and activities that produced from a land inhabited only by savages the Kingston and Ulster County of 1952.

WARNING FROM WILSON

Charles E. Wilson has put the job of mobilization chief behind him and returned to private life. One of his last acts in office was making a report to President Truman in which he summed up the progress made in mobilization in the past year. Perhaps one of the most important parts of his report was the note of warning he injected. Our strength is growing fast, Wilson pointed out, but it may be necessary to maintain that strength for a long time.

Maintaining a large military force and keeping it equipped with the most modern weapons is an expensive task. It is impossible to predict how long the present crisis will last since Russia gives no indication of becoming easier to get along with. Americans are naturally against keeping up large armies, and once the nation's strength reaches its peak there will be a tendency to slack off and return to an easier way of living.

Yet America is a country capable of self discipline and able to do everything it needs to do to defend its freedom. If this calls for full mobilization for many years, then that is the way it will have to be. The western world wants peace. It will not initiate a war, and as long as it can remain strong it is safe from attack. The price of peace is preparedness.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE INTERREGNUM

The American method of a fixed presidential election every four years was unquestionably designed by the founders of our country to prevent anyone from being the head of the state too long without reference to the voters. In times like these, the stress of this quadrennial election can be very costly. The world does not stop because Truman desired to retire.

The United States is at present engaged in what seems to be a forgotten war; yet one that has resulted in over 106,000 casualties; it is engaged in a vast preparation for war involving a budget that approaches $100,000,000,000. The precariousness of national defense affects every citizen's living standard. None of this can be arrested because the Republicans cannot decide between Eisenhower and Taft.

Yet it is becoming clear that the authority of an administration which must stand until January 20, 1953, is already in April, 1952, so weakened that two principal officers of government, Charles E. Wilson, in charge of war mobilization of the national economy, and the attorney general, J. Howard McGrath, resign in anger and indignation. And there may be others who feel that they would prefer to be away from the center of a political earthquake.

Wilson's resignation had to do with the forthcoming steel strike, an event which, in economic terms, involves either an increased velocity of inflation or a covert capital levy on a single industry. The assumption must be that what happens to steel will happen to all American industries and therefore Wilson could not be a party to either more inflation or a capital levy. McGrath's dismissal or resignation, as you please, was related to the use of a device of investigation which, no matter how functional for a specific purpose, can invade the privacy of an unaccused, unindicted citizen and therefore place another limitation upon the guaranteed freedom of the individual.

The Wilson and McGrath instances, viewed objectively, produce the impression of desperation in government and of a lack of form and order in the Presidency. Mr. Truman may be tired; he may be distressed by the corruption and political pressures that beset him. His public quarrel with his own attorney general at an airport to which they went to receive a national guest displayed a lack of self-control and personal dignity unexpected in men of their responsibilities.

The personality of Newbold Morris, the cause of McGrath's anger, need not be considered at all. His appointment as a "clean-up man" was absurd in the first place. It was designed to offset an effective congressional investigation by a congressional committee and was never taken too seriously. When such an appointment was first proposed, Judge Thomas F. Murphy, who had made a reputation as the prosecutor of Alger Hiss, was named. It was reported at the time that he discussed the question with Judge Learned Hand, and after consideration, he declined the post. In due course, Newbold Morris, who is Judge Hand's son-in-law, was appointed by McGrath. How it all happened, Mr. Morris says that he does not know.

Morris's personality and his antics offended both the Republicans and Democrats in Washington; even those most anxious for an investigation objected to Morris's questionnaire, which many lawyers felt would not stand up if challenged in our courts. But were there no Newbold Morris, the situation would have been as complicated because the authority of the President over his administration and his party has become so weakened that, to use a phrase, he cannot hold the line.

One factor in this unfortunate situation is the President's method of announcing that he would not run from a third term. It was an abrupt announcement which threw his party into a convulsion of competitive personal politics. Perhaps no method would have been better, from the standpoint of political effectiveness, but the administrative result is that the President has loosened the reins of his own administration.

This quarrel will work itself into the campaign. Senators and representatives, running for re-election or even in primaries, are making an issue of the investigations. To take an instance, in Illinois, Congressman Harold H. Velde, of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, is in a primary fight in his district. He is stressing his career and activities on that committee because it interests his constituents and his record is good.

The desult of such campaigning will reopen the cases before congressional committees in the public mind and will further embarrass and weaken the administration. President Truman cannot prevent candidates for re-election from discussing corruption and subversion. It is the issue of 1952.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

BRONCHOSCOPE HELPS PHYSICIAN

Most of us have heard of the bronchoscope, and have read of some child who has inhaled a foreign object being saved by the instrument. It may surprise us, therefore, when we learn that the bronchoscope was developed only fifty years ago.

At the last meeting of the American Medical Association, held in Los Angeles, Dr. Chevalier Jackson lectured on the bronchoscope. He pointed out that although this valuable instrument was developed for the removal of foreign bodies from the lungs, only once in 20 cases now is the bronchoscope used to locate and remove a foreign body, and in 19 of 20 cases its use is directed toward the diagnosis and treatment of disease. Its three uses are the removal of foreign bodies, the detection of tumors and the treatment of tuberculosis. The modern management of tuberculosis requires the use of the bronchoscope to check the diagnosis and to plan treatment which depends upon the exact location and character of the lung disease present.

Dr. Jackson stated that the bronchoscope should be available in every well-equipped hospital and sanatorium. Dr. Jackson, in cooperation with Dr. John F. Heuber of Philadlephia, also demonstrated in the scientific exhibits the important anatomic factors to be considered in bronchoscopy.

We can get some idea of the usefulness of the bronchoscope when we realize that with it, the physician is able actually to see the condition of the lung tissues affected by disease, able to watch the disease progress and see whether or not the patient is fighting the disease successfully with the forces of his own body and the special treatment he is receiving.

The patient learns how the fight against the disease is going, which helps him to do his part to bring about recovery. This may require patience, more rest or perhaps exercise, and some sacrifices on his part, but he gives this whole-hearted cooperation to the physician treating him when he knows exactly how the battle is going.

Ill Wind for Senator Taft

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — James Patrick McGranery, new attorney general of the United States, has several interesting attributes. He is as honest as the day is long; he is married to one of the most beautiful and brilliant lady attorneys who ever practiced law, and he is so loyal to Harry Truman that every political whim the President has will be anticipated in advance.

Jim also knows where most of the bodies are buried in the Justice Department. And having this knowledge, he could probably dig them up—if he wants to. But the chances are he won't.

For the new attorney general also knows that the Justice Department has become the most important political arm of the Democratic Party. There was a time when the post office was the great political boodle-bag of the political party in power. But no more. Today, postmasters are largely under civil service and the postmaster general himself is a career man.

But the Justice Department, which has the power to put men in jail or save them from jail; which has the power to grant pardons, prosecute for tax frauds, compromise taxes, collect claims against corporations, settle war contracts, bring anti-trust suits against the motion-picture industry, the investment bankers, the newspapers and any other industry has become by all odds the most potent civil arm of government.

White House Friend

That's why the man who runs it must be one of the trusted friends of the White House. That's also why it took courage on Truman's part to fire Howard McGrath; for Howard McGrath; for Howard likewise knows where the bodies are buried—and might remember some of them.

Finally that's why Jim McGranery, an old and intimate friend of the President's, was picked for this all-important job.

The new attorney general is not only a friend of the President's, but almost equally important, he is the friend of Kingmaker Matt Connelly, the White House secretary, who has become one of the busiest busybodies in Washington.

Originally Connelly picked his old friend McGranery to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee, replacing Bill Boyle. Then he discovered that ex-Senator Francis Myers of Pennsylvania and Democratic committeeman David Lawrence, the mayor of Pittsburgh, were down on McGranery, so Connelly boosted Frank McKinney into the party chairmanship instead.

McGranery also is a first-hand eyewitness of the grab which the politicians made for the Justice Department one month after Harry Truman came into office. At that time Jim was assistant to the attorney general, the No. 2 spot in the Justice Department and was doing an A-1 job.

His chief, another Philadelphian, was Francis Biddle, a straight-laced Pennsylvania blue blood who gave the Justice Department an honest and forthright administration. Puritan Biddle and Irishman McGranery were an effective, efficient team.

McGranery on the Spot

Shortly after Vice President Truman became president of the United States, however, the politicians round him cast hungry eyes on the Justice Department. They decided Biddle would have to go.

But Biddle embarrassed Truman by going down to the White House, telling him he quite understood that a new president would want to have his own attorney general, reminded him that he had already submitted his resignation, and pointedly asked who his successor was going to be. Biddle was interested in having Justice Department efficiency continued.

His successor, Truman said, would be Tom Clark.

At this Biddle almost dropped dead. He had been on the verge of firing Tom Clark as chief of his criminal division. "Don't take my word for it," he told the President. "call in your friend Jim McGranery and ask him what he thinks of Clark."

McGranery did go down to the White House. But Jim is smart. He did not make a full report.

Shortly thereafter, his new boss, the man whom he did not criticize to Truman, recommended him for appointment as a federal judge in Philadelphia.

Irish Humor

The new attorney general began his political life as a refreshing new congressman during the early days of the New Deal, shocked Republican leaders in rock-ribbed Philadelphia by voting for labor, civil rights, public housing and other Roosevelt policies.

McGranery has saved his money, invested it wisely, now is moderately well-to-do. He doesn't have to worry about filling out questionnaires or a probe of his wife's mink coat. His wife, incidentally, is quite able to buy her own mink coat from her own legal fees. She has been a successful practicing attorney.

But when it comes to digging up smelly, political carcasses in an election year—well, it's not unlikely that Jim McGranery will hold his nose and be pre-occupied with other things.

As a former Justice Department official, McGranery was famous for his Irish humor. One day an ex-congressional colleague, GOP Rep. Hugh Scott of Philadelphia, telephoned to ask for a copy of the President's order pardoning Earl Browder.

"Do you want it officially as a member of Congress?" asked McGranery.

"Yes, I do," replied Scott.

"Then I can't give it to you," replied McGranery. "I'll have to quote you the ruling of Attorney General Harry Daugherty who informed Congress that it could not have access to pardons. This is a confidential matter between the man who is pardoned and the President.

"You remember Daugherty," reminded McGranery. "He was a good Republican, so his word ought to be satisfactory to you. Perhaps you'd better ask Earl Browder for a copy of the pardon."

For a moment there was silence on both ends of the phone. Then, chuckling, McGranery added:

"But if you're not asking for this officially, and since you're a friend of mine, I'll tell you what I'll do for you, Hughey. I'll send you a copy of the press release issued by the Justice Department which carried the full text of the President's pardon. It will save your looking it up in the newspapers."

Congressman Scott thanked him, but wanted more. "I also want a copy of the President's pardon of Tom Pendergast of Kansas City."

"Sorry," replied McGranery, "but I can't help you there. Pendergast was never pardoned. He served his time. A Democratic administration put Tom Pendergast in jail, and a Democratic administration kept him there until he was released by statute. Anything else we can do for you, Hughey?"

Congressman Scott said that would be all for the day.

Today in Washington

Strike Crisis Called Symbol of Planless Form of Administration in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Drifting government, planless government — that's what the American people have in Washington today in the midst of a chaotic situation on the whole industrial front.

Having stepped in to organize military defense in an emergency, the government sought and obtained wide powers from Congress to deal with economic problems. But all the laws and all the boards, commissions, mobilizers and controllers are not able to function if there's no co-ordination at the top—no sense of direction and no capacity to understand the multiple issues that arise in wage and price regulation.

A steel strike is wholly uncalled for. The wage dispute has been and is still solvable and the problem of price is also manageable. But there is no leadership here.

The spectacle of the last several days is one that emphasizes the tragedy of irresponsible government. Only in countries where a fixed tenure for the Presidency prevails could there be such indifference to the public interest, especially when the nation — through the many votes taken by its legislative representatives—reveals it has long since lost confidence in the present Chief Executive. But, unlike a parliamentary system, it cannot bring in a successor at once.

Wage stabilization is a delicate process and so is price control. All the heads of these agencies report to the President of the United States. If there's a breakdown, it is in a broad sense the President's fault and not the fault of his subordinates. For the facts about the steel situation have been known for weeks. It will avail nothing to say that this or that subordinate should have told this or that colleague early enough to prevent the debacle. The fact is the present administration allows situations like the steel controversy to develop without exerting the effort at the proper moment to avert breakdowns.

When there is a strike in an important industry, it means that the administration has failed to keep production going. It means that billions of dollars' worth of military equipment are not delivered on schedule. It means that parts needed for the assembly line don't get there on time.

Nothing can be more serious today than a breakdown of America's production line. But, as one looks around Washington, an easy-going indifference is to be observed, which seems to indicate that it doesn't matter very much whether production continues or is interrupted.

President Truman cannot possibly manage all the details of government, yet when the crisis comes he is asked to make the decisions. No man could possibly manage the whole problem of production, especially as it is affected by wages and prices. The mistake of the present administration is in delegating the task to individual officials and expecting them to solve all conflicts between management and labor. A board of impartial men, representing the public interest only, could give the facts, and public opinion would influence the decision.

Actually the issues that rise in labor disputes are not novel. They are well known and they follow established patterns. Mr. Truman has at his side John R. Steelman, an experienced mediator who is skillful in reconciling labor disputes. But he is powerless unless he can do something about prices. The theory that wages can be dealt with separately from prices is an illusion that is causing most of the trouble here. The government has not disclosed the facts on the price or wage factors in the steel controversy and their relationship is to each other.

At the moment the President is being told, in effect, that he can confiscate profits—that he can reduce the net income of companies and turn the profits over to other groups in the community without regard to the consequences that may befall the financial structures of those companies.

This represents a milestone in revolutionary doctrine. The New Deal's efforts to redistribute wealth struck a snag when World War 2 broke out, but the so-called Fair Deal now has taken up the thread of radical philosophy. Profits are supposed to be regulated only by taxes and by renegotiation. Further inroads by governmental power are not sanctioned by law.

Once the steel industry is broken down, the way will be opened to nationalization of steel—and that means eventual control of all industry by government in Washington. The whole approach here has been to force the confiscation of net corporate income in order to meet wage increases. The drift is toward confiscation and confusion.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Elmer P. Goetz loaned me Sketches of Hudson which was written back in 1862 and although it is mainly about Hudson, some of the interesting laws of the late 1700's really were something. No doubt Kingston can equal them too. One called the "Town Pump" is something. "In the year 1785, several citizens associated themselves together, for the purpose of bringing water into the city to supply themselves and such others "as might be deemed constant." Each lot-holder was entitled to a share in such association, upon payment of $25. "He had the right to take water from the main pipe which ran through Main street and "carry it into his possessions or house for the supplying of the family or 'families' which his house contained, but should not be allowed to sell water to his neighbor or any other person. Persons not shareholders were supplied upon the payment of an annual tax."

Under "Bakeries" I quote the following: "July 24, 1794. It was ordained that all bread falling short of the established weight or price, should be forfeited to the city for the use of the poor. Thomas Frothingham was appointed an inspector of bread, whose duty it was to thoroughly enforce the ordinance. The established weight and price, which was kept standing conspicuously printed at the head of the Hudson Gazette. For instance: A loaf of superfine flour, three pounds eight ounces was one shilling. Rye bread of three pounds and four ounces was 6 cents. There was one principal baker, who carried on an extensive business upon the corner of Front and Ferry streets in Hudson, supplying most of the sailing vessels. Mrs. Newberry, who kept a small shop further up on Front street was his rival of cakes and buns, most of which were sold through the streets in baskets.

On June 14, 1801 such ordinances were passed as regulating the sale of lamb preventing boys playing ball or hoop on Warren and Front streets, prohibiting the smoking of pipes or cigars in any of the streets or alleys after sunset, and providing for the killing of dogs after August 1.

Going through some of their "blue laws" or Sundays laws. July 17, 1801. "It was resolved, that no meat should be exposed for sale in the market or elsewhere in the city after the hour of 8 a. m. Sunday. That all barber shops should be shut at the hour of 10 a. m. Sunday. That the Council would aid and assist the country magistrates to suppressing all disorderly behavior on Sunday.

Those were the days before wrist watches and many other time pieces, so it seems. So that "Mr. Parkman's time piece" is mentioned often to regulate meetings. In December of 1801 a big clock was bought for $200 plus $20 labor and placed on the steeple of the Presbyterian Meeting House, so Mr. Parkman's "time piece" ceased to be the standard to go by.

But America is a country capable of self discipline and able to do everything it needs to do to defend its freedom. If this calls for full mobilization for many years, then that is the way it will have to be. The western world wants peace. It will not initiate a war, and as long as it can remain strong it is safe from attack. The price of peace is preparedness.

'These Days'

THE INTERREGNUM

The American method of a fixed presidential election every four years was unquestionably designed by the founders of our country to prevent anyone from being the head of the state too long without reference to the voters. In times like these, the stress of this quadrennial election can be very costly. The world does not stop because Truman desired to retire.

The United States is at present engaged in what seems to be a forgotten war; yet one that has resulted in over 106,000 casualties; it is engaged in a vast preparation for war involving a budget that approaches $100,000,000,000. The precariousness of national defense affects every citizen's living standard. None of this can be arrested because the Republicans cannot decide between Eisenhower and Taft.

Yet it is becoming clear that the authority of an administration which must stand until January 20, 1953, is already in April, 1952, so weakened that two principal officers of government, Charles E. Wilson, in charge of war mobilization of the national economy, and the attorney general, J. Howard McGrath, resign in anger and indignation. And there may be others who feel that they would prefer to be away from the center of a political earthquake.

Wilson's resignation had to do with the forthcoming steel strike, an event which, in economic terms, involves either an increased velocity of inflation or a covert capital levy on a single industry. The assumption must be that what happens to steel will happen to all American industries and therefore Wilson could not be a party to either more inflation or a capital levy. McGrath's dismissal or resignation, as you please, was related to the use of a device of investigation which, no matter how functional for a specific purpose, can invade the privacy of an unaccused, unindicted citizen and therefore place another limitation upon the guaranteed freedom of the individual.

The Wilson and McGrath instances, viewed objectively, produce the impression of desperation in government and of a lack of form and order in the Presidency. Mr. Truman may be tired; he may be distressed by the corruption and political pressures that beset him. His public quarrel with his own attorney general at an airport to which they went to receive a national guest displayed a lack of self-control and personal dignity unexpected in men of their responsibilities.

The personality of Newbold Morris, the cause of McGrath's anger, need not be considered at all. His appointment as a "clean-up man" was absurd in the first place. It was designed to offset an effective congressional investigation by a congressional committee and was never taken too seriously. When such an appointment was first proposed, Judge Thomas F. Murphy, who had made a reputation as the prosecutor of Alger Hiss, was named. It was reported at the time that he discussed the question with Judge Learned Hand, and after consideration, he declined the post. In due course, Newbold Morris, who is Judge Hand's son-in-law, was appointed by McGrath. How it all happened, Mr. Morris says that he does not know.

Morris's personality and his antics offended both the Republicans and Democrats in Washington; even those most anxious for an investigation objected to Morris's questionnaire, which many lawyers felt would not stand up if challenged in our courts. But were there no Newbold Morris, the situation would have been as complicated because the authority of the President over his administration and his party has become so weakened that, to use a phrase, he cannot hold the line.

One factor in this unfortunate situation is the President's method of announcing that he would not run from a third term. It was an abrupt announcement which threw his party into a convulsion of competitive personal politics. Perhaps no method would have been better, from the standpoint of political effectiveness, but the administrative result is that the President has loosened the reins of his own administration.

This quarrel will work itself into the campaign. Senators and representatives, running for re-election or even in primaries, are making an issue of the investigations. To take an instance, in Illinois, Congressman Harold H. Velde, of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, is in a primary fight in his district. He is stressing his career and activities on that committee because it interests his constituents and his record is good.

The desult of such campaigning will reopen the cases before congressional committees in the public mind and will further embarrass and weaken the administration. President Truman cannot prevent candidates for re-election from discussing corruption and subversion. It is the issue of 1952.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

BRONCHOSCOPE HELPS PHYSICIAN

Most of us have heard of the bronchoscope, and have read of some child who has inhaled a foreign object being saved by the instrument. It may surprise us, therefore, when we learn that the bronchoscope was developed only fifty years ago.

At the last meeting of the American Medical Association, held in Los Angeles, Dr. Chevalier Jackson lectured on the bronchoscope. He pointed out that although this valuable instrument was developed for the removal of foreign bodies from the lungs, only once in 20 cases now is the bronchoscope used to locate and remove a foreign body, and in 19 of 20 cases its use is directed toward the diagnosis and treatment of disease. Its three uses are the removal of foreign bodies, the detection of tumors and the treatment of tuberculosis. The modern management of tuberculosis requires the use of the bronchoscope to check the diagnosis and to plan treatment which depends upon the exact location and character of the lung disease present.

Dr. Jackson stated that the bronchoscope should be available in every well-equipped hospital and sanatorium. Dr. Jackson, in cooperation with Dr. John F. Heuber of Philadlephia, also demonstrated in the scientific exhibits the important anatomic factors to be considered in bronchoscopy.

We can get some idea of the usefulness of the bronchoscope when we realize that with it, the physician is able actually to see the condition of the lung tissues affected by disease, able to watch the disease progress and see whether or not the patient is fighting the disease successfully with the forces of his own body and the special treatment he is receiving.

The patient learns how the fight against the disease is going, which helps him to do his part to bring about recovery. This may require patience, more rest or perhaps exercise, and some sacrifices on his part, but he gives this whole-hearted cooperation to the physician treating him when he knows exactly how the battle is going.

Ill Wind for Senator Taft

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — James Patrick McGranery, new attorney general of the United States, has several interesting attributes. He is as honest as the day is long; he is married to one of the most beautiful and brilliant lady attorneys who ever practiced law, and he is so loyal to Harry Truman that every political whim the President has will be anticipated in advance.

Jim also knows where most of the bodies are buried in the Justice Department. And having this knowledge, he could probably dig them up—if he wants to. But the chances are he won't.

For the new attorney general also knows that the Justice Department has become the most important political arm of the Democratic Party. There was a time when the post office was the great political boodle-bag of the political party in power. But no more. Today, postmasters are largely under civil service and the postmaster general himself is a career man.

But the Justice Department, which has the power to put men in jail or save them from jail; which has the power to grant pardons, prosecute for tax frauds, compromise taxes, collect claims against corporations, settle war contracts, bring anti-trust suits against the motion-picture industry, the investment bankers, the newspapers and any other industry has become by all odds the most potent civil arm of government.

White House Friend

That's why the man who runs it must be one of the trusted friends of the White House. That's also why it took courage on Truman's part to fire Howard McGrath; for Howard McGrath; for Howard likewise knows where the bodies are buried—and might remember some of them.

Finally that's why Jim McGranery, an old and intimate friend of the President's, was picked for this all-important job.

The new attorney general is not only a friend of the President's, but almost equally important, he is the friend of Kingmaker Matt Connelly, the White House secretary, who has become one of the busiest busybodies in Washington.

Originally Connelly picked his old friend McGranery to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee, replacing Bill Boyle. Then he discovered that ex-Senator Francis Myers of Pennsylvania and Democratic committeeman David Lawrence, the mayor of Pittsburgh, were down on McGranery, so Connelly boosted Frank McKinney into the party chairmanship instead.

McGranery also is a first-hand eyewitness of the grab which the politicians made for the Justice Department one month after Harry Truman came into office. At that time Jim was assistant to the attorney general, the No. 2 spot in the Justice Department and was doing an A-1 job.

His chief, another Philadelphian, was Francis Biddle, a straight-laced Pennsylvania blue blood who gave the Justice Department an honest and forthright administration. Puritan Biddle and Irishman McGranery were an effective, efficient team.

McGranery on the Spot

Shortly after Vice President Truman became president of the United States, however, the politicians round him cast hungry eyes on the Justice Department. They decided Biddle would have to go.

But Biddle embarrassed Truman by going down to the White House, telling him he quite understood that a new president would want to have his own attorney general, reminded him that he had already submitted his resignation, and pointedly asked who his successor was going to be. Biddle was interested in having Justice Department efficiency continued.

His successor, Truman said, would be Tom Clark.

At this Biddle almost dropped dead. He had been on the verge of firing Tom Clark as chief of his criminal division. "Don't take my word for it," he told the President, "call in your friend Jim McGranery and ask him what he thinks of Clark."

McGranery did go down to the White House. But Jim is smart. He did not make a full report.

Shortly thereafter, his new boss, the man whom he did not criticize to Truman, recommended him for appointment as a federal judge in Philadelphia.

Irish Humor

The new attorney general began his political life as a refreshing new congressman during the early days of the New Deal, shocked Republican leaders in rock-ribbed Philadelphia by voting for labor, civil rights, public housing and other Roosevelt policies.

McGranery has saved his money, invested it wisely, now is moderately well-to-do. He doesn't have to worry about filling out questionnaires or a probe of his wife's mink coat. His wife, incidentally, is quite able to buy her own mink coat from her own legal fees. She has been a successful practicing attorney.

But when it comes to digging up smelly, political carcasses in an election year—well, it's not unlikely that Jim McGranery will hold his nose and be pre-occupied with other things.

As a former Justice Department official, McGranery was famous for his Irish humor. One day an ex-congressional colleague, GOP Rep. Hugh Scott of Philadelphia, telephoned to ask for a copy of the President's order pardoning Earl Browder.

"Do you want it officially as a member of Congress?" asked McGranery.

"Yes, I do," replied Scott.

"Then I can't give it to you," replied McGranery. "I'll have to quote you the ruling of Attorney General Harry Daugherty who informed Congress that it could not have access to pardons. This is a confidential matter between the man who is pardoned and the President.

"You remember Daugherty," reminded McGranery. "He was a good Republican, so his word ought to be satisfactory to you. Perhaps you'd better ask Earl Browder for a copy of the pardon."

For a moment there was silence on both ends of the phone. Then, chuckling, McGranery added:

"But if you're not asking for this officially, and since you're a friend of mine, I'll tell you what I'll do for you, Hughey. I'll send you a copy of the press release issued by the Justice Department which carried the full text of the President's pardon. It will save your looking it up in the newspapers."

Congressman Scott thanked him, but wanted more. "I also want a copy of the President's pardon of Tom Pendergast of Kansas City."

"Sorry," replied McGranery, "but I can't help you there. Pendergast was never pardoned. He served his time. A Democratic administration put Tom Pendergast in jail, and a Democratic administration kept him there until he was released by statute. Anything else we can do for you, Hughey?"

Congressman Scott said that would be all for the day.

Today in Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Drifting government, planless government — that's what the American people have in Washington today in the midst of a chaotic situation on the whole industrial front.

Having stepped in to organize military defense in an emergency, the government sought and obtained wide powers from Congress to deal with economic problems. But all the laws and all the boards, commissions, mobilizers and controllers are not able to function if there's no co-ordination at the top—no sense of direction and no capacity to understand the multiple issues that arise in wage and price regulation.

A steel strike is wholly uncalled for. The wage dispute has been and is still solvable and the problem of price is also manageable. But there is no leadership here.

The spectacle of the last several days is one that emphasizes the tragedy of irresponsible government. Only in countries where a fixed tenure for the Presidency prevails could there be such indifference to the public interest, especially when the nation — through the many votes taken by its legislative representatives—reveals it has long since lost confidence in the present Chief Executive. But, unlike a parliamentary system, it cannot bring in a successor at once.

Wage stabilization is a delicate process and so is price control. All the heads of these agencies report to the President of the United States. If there's a breakdown, it is in a broad sense the President's fault and not the fault of his subordinates. For the facts about the steel situation have been known for weeks. It will avail nothing to say that this or that subordinate should have told this or that colleague early enough to prevent the debacle. The fact is the present administration allows situations like the steel controversy to develop without exerting the effort at the proper moment to avert breakdowns.

When there is a strike in an important industry, it means that the administration has failed to keep production going. It means that billions of dollars' worth of military equipment are not delivered on schedule. It means that parts needed for the assembly line don't get there on time.

Nothing can be more serious today than a breakdown of America's production line. But, as one looks around Washington, an easy-going indifference is to be observed, which seems to indicate that it doesn't matter very much whether production continues or is interrupted.

President Truman cannot possibly manage all the details of government, yet when the crisis comes he is asked to make the decisions. No man could possibly manage the whole problem of production, especially as it is affected by wages and prices. The mistake of the present administration is in delegating the task to individual officials and expecting them to solve all conflicts between management and labor. A board of impartial men, representing the public interest only, could give the facts, and public opinion would influence the decision.

Actually the issues that rise in labor disputes are not novel. They are well known and they follow established patterns. Mr. Truman has at his side John R. Steelman, an experienced mediator who is skillful in reconciling labor disputes. But he is powerless unless he can do something about prices. The theory that wages can be dealt with separately from prices is an illusion that is causing most of the trouble here. The government has not disclosed the facts on the price or wage factors in the steel controversy and their relationship is to each other.

At the moment the President is being told, in effect, that he can confiscate profits—that he can reduce the net income of companies and turn the profits over to other groups in the community without regard to the consequences that may befall the financial structures of those companies.

This represents a milestone in revolutionary doctrine. The New Deal's efforts to redistribute wealth struck a snag when World War 2 broke out, but the so-called Fair Deal now has taken up the thread of radical philosophy. Profits are supposed to be regulated only by taxes and by renegotiation. Further inroads by governmental power are not sanctioned by law.

Once the steel industry is broken down, the way will be opened to nationalization of steel—and that means eventual control of all industry by government in Washington. The whole approach here has been to force the confiscation of net corporate income in order to meet wage increases. The drift is toward confiscation and confusion.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Elmer P. Goetz loaned me Sketches of Hudson which was written back in 1862 and although it is mainly about Hudson, some of the interesting laws of the late 1700's really were something. No doubt Kingston can equal them too. One called the "Town Pump" is something. "In the year 1785, several citizens associated themselves together, for the purpose of bringing water into the city to supply themselves and such others "as might be deemed constant." Each lot-holder was entitled to a share in such association, upon payment of $25. "He had the right to take water from the main pipe which ran through Main street and "carry it into his possessions or house for the supplying of the family or 'families' which his house contained, but should not be allowed to sell water to his neighbor or any other person. Persons not shareholders were supplied upon the payment of an annual tax."

Under "Bakeries" I quote the following: "July 24, 1794. It was ordained that all bread falling short of the established weight or price, should be forfeited to the city for the use of the poor. Thomas Frothingham was appointed an inspector of bread, whose duty it was to thoroughly enforce the ordinance. The established weight and price, which was kept standing conspicuously printed at the head of the Hudson Gazette. For instance: A loaf of superfine flour, three pounds eight ounces was one shilling. Rye bread of three pounds and four ounces was 6 cents. There was one principal baker, who carried on an extensive business upon the corner of Front and Ferry streets in Hudson, supplying most of the sailing vessels. Mrs. Newberry, who kept a small shop further up on Front street was his rival of cakes and buns, most of which were sold through the streets in baskets.

On June 14, 1801 such ordinances were passed as regulating the sale of lamb preventing boys playing ball or hoop on Warren and Front streets, prohibiting the smoking of pipes or cigars in any of the streets or alleys after sunset, and providing for the killing of dogs after August 1.

Going through some of their "blue laws" or Sundays laws. July 17, 1801. "It was resolved, that no meat should be exposed for sale in the market or elsewhere in the city after the hour of 8 a. m. Sunday. That all barber shops should be shut at the hour of 10 a. m. Sunday. That the Council would aid and assist the country magistrates to suppressing all disorderly behavior on Sunday.

Those were the days before wrist watches and many other time pieces, so it seems. So that "Mr. Parkman's time piece" is mentioned often to regulate meetings. In December of 1801 a big clock was bought for $200 plus $20 labor and placed on the steeple of the Presbyterian Meeting House, so Mr. Parkman's "time piece" ceased to be the standard to go by.

No Approval Given By Church to Ask Stores to Close

New York, April 8 (AP) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York said yesterday it did not approve efforts to get non-Catholic business firms to close for three hours on Good Friday.

After several Jewish storekeepers said they had been solicited by Catholic parishoners to display placards saying they were closing "in observance of the death of Christ," the chancery office issued a statement saying:

"If approval of this plan had been sought, this would not have been granted."

A branch of the Anchor Club, comprising members of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic group, said it had distributed 10,000 of the placards to storekeepers throughout the city. It said individual parishes aided in the distribution.

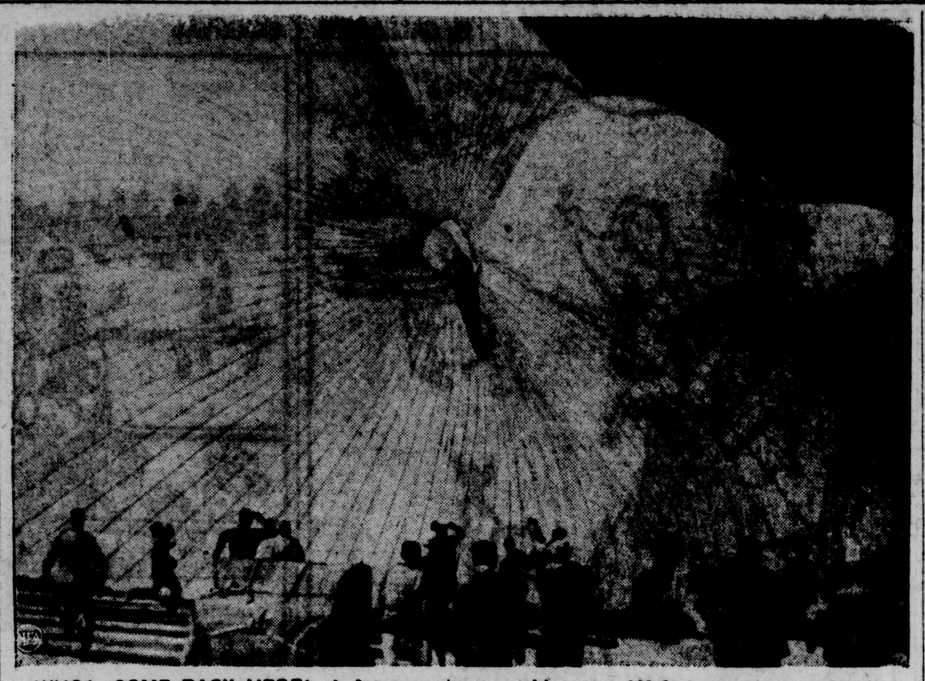

The placards state the store will close from noon to 3 p. m. Friday.

The chancery office said it "had no previous knowledge of the solicitation of non-Catholic business people to close their establishments on Good Friday, nor of the distribution of placards indicating compliance."

One Jewish businessman, who declined use of his name, said two protest meetings were held by Bronx shopkeepers, who agreed to remain open on Good Friday.

Dynamite Raises Parts Of Sunken Nazi Sub

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 8 (AP) — A dynamite blast which raised remnants of a sunken German submarine brought Danish speculation today that leading Nazis — perhaps even Hitler — tried to flee the falling Reich in a U-boat.

The sub was one of three bombed by the RAF on May 4, 1945. At least two were found sunk near the Danish coast. The fate of the third is unknown.

The dynamite charge, set off during salvage operations, broke a torpedo tube and raised huge amounts of rotting food. No corpses or skeletons have been found so far, although the blast raised a few pieces of bone. Investigation showed the U-boat was crammed with food, even in the torpedo tubes, and carried no munitions.

No papers were found to identify the occupants nor to prove the deduction the U-boat might have contained high Nazis escaping the doomed Reich. Some Danes wondered whether Hitler might have been one, although Allied investigation has indicated he probably died in a Berlin bunker as the Germans said he did.

Most of the highest Nazis were caught and tried but the fate of at least one—Hitler's last deputy, Martin Bormann—has never been established.

Sanitary Engineer Says Area Water Not Affected

The flood-swept areas of the Esopus creek valley left no serious bacteriological aftermath in water supply sources, Harry F. Edinger, county director of environmental sanitation said today.

Men from the county health department yesterday examined municipal water supply sources and about 25 privately owned wells in the town of Ulster where the Esopus had overflowed its banks and found all out of danger.

Saugerties was on the verge of trouble and the water there and in New Paltz was found turbid, but the flood brought no serious after effects in either place. The wells examined were in the Orlando street and Brabrant road areas.

Good Friday Plea

April 7, 1952
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

About this time a year ago, a campaign was conducted for a wider commemoration for the Passion and Death of Christ on Good Friday. The aim, along with the cooperation of all Christians of our community, was to have as many as possible of the merchants and shopkeepers close their place of business from noon until 3 o'clock.

The prompt and generous response of our merchants and shopkeepers and the cooperation of the people was heartening indeed. Posters were displayed in the store windows reading: "This store will be closed from 12 noon until 3 p. m. Good Friday in observance of the Death of Christ." More than 75 places of business went along with the idea and participated in the observance.

The effects of the campaign were impressively obvious, for with the stoppage of business for those three hours, men and women began to think of Christ—His suffering and death and their redemption. Protestant and Catholic Churches alike were crowded, and it was encouraging to hear from some of the shopkeepers that the public recognized their Christian spirit and that the few pennies lost during the closing hours were returned a hundred fold in the days following.

This fine response on the part of both business and the Christian element of the community last year to show the proper reverence and respect for the most solemn and sacred day on the Christian calendar, certainly calls for a like effort on Good Friday of this week.

Respectfully yours.

What Pilots Say

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Better airplanes—not bigger ones—plus government help in providing safety measures is the way to make airports safer, say the men who run them. An airport managers advisory group said plane manufacturers should stop talking about runways "three miles long" and start designing better planes able to use the shorter runways now available.

Grand Jury Checks

New York, April 8 (AP) — The new Queens county grand jury has undertaken an investigation of the crash of a cargo plane into a crowded residential section. County Judge Alfred J. Hofmann urged the jurors yesterday to investigate whether air traffic safety rules are adequate and being observed. He said Queens residents have become "terrorized." Jury Foreman Frederick I. Hamm said the judge's instructions would be followed "to the hilt." A cargo plane crashed Saturday, wrecking five houses and killing five persons — the pilot and copilot and three persons on the ground.

The sub was one of three bombed by the RAF on May 4, 1945. At least two were found sunk near the Danish coast. The fate of the third is unknown.

The dynamite charge, set off during salvage operations, broke a torpedo tube and raised huge amounts of rotting food. No corpses or skeletons have been found so far, although the blast raised a few pieces of bone. Investigation showed the U-boat was crammed with food, even in the torpedo tubes, and carried no munitions.

No papers were found to identify the occupants nor to prove the deduction the U-boat might have contained high Nazis escaping the doomed Reich. Some Danes wondered whether Hitler might have been one, although Allied investigation has indicated he probably died in a Berlin bunker as the Germans said he did.

Most of the highest Nazis were caught and tried but the fate of at least one—Hitler's last deputy, Martin Bormann—has never been established.

Sanitary Engineer Says Area Water Not Affected

The flood-swept areas of the Esopus creek valley left no serious bacteriological aftermath in water supply sources, Harry F. Edinger, county director of environmental sanitation said today.

Men from the county health department yesterday examined municipal water supply sources and about 25 privately owned wells in the town of Ulster where the Esopus had overflowed its banks and found all out of danger.

Saugerties was on the verge of trouble and the water there and in New Paltz was found turbid, but the flood brought no serious after effects in either place. The wells examined were in the Orlando street and Brabrant road areas.

Good Friday Plea

Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

About this time a year ago, a campaign was conducted for a wider commemoration for the Passion and Death of Christ on Good Friday. The aim, along with the cooperation of all Christians of our community, was to have as many as possible of the merchants and shopkeepers close their place of business from noon until 3 o'clock.

The prompt and generous response of our merchants and shopkeepers and the cooperation of the people was heartening indeed. Posters were displayed in the store windows reading: "This store will be closed from 12 noon until 3 p. m. Good Friday in observance of the Death of Christ." More than 75 places of business went along with the idea and participated in the observance.

The effects of the campaign were impressively obvious, for with the stoppage of business for those three hours, men and women began to think of Christ—His suffering and death and their redemption. Protestant and Catholic Churches alike were crowded, and it was encouraging to hear from some of the shopkeepers that the public recognized their Christian spirit and that the few pennies lost during the closing hours were returned a hundred fold in the days following.

This fine response on the part of both business and the Christian element of the community last year to show the proper reverence and respect for the most solemn and sacred day on the Christian calendar, certainly calls for a like effort on Good Friday of this week.

Respectfully yours,
REV. ARTHUR E. OUDEMOOL
REV. JOHN D. SIMMONS

What Pilots Say

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Better airplanes—not bigger ones—plus government help in providing safety measures is the way to make airports safer, say the men who run them. An airport managers advisory group said plane manufacturers should stop talking about runways "three miles long" and start designing better planes able to use the shorter runways now available.

EGG AIRLIFT—Counting their chickens before they hatch are representatives of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency, shown in Chicago with part of 70,000 hatching eggs to be flown to Korea. Left to right are Thurl Metzger, Bill Reigne, deputy director of public information for UNKRA, and Colonel Lim, UNKRA representative for the UN. Aim of the operation is to restore Korea's war-lost chicken population.

UNDER THE MARINES' WING—An American Marine protectively places his arms about two homeless Korean children, as he reads a plaque of dedication at the U. S. Marine Orphanage near Pohang, Korea. Officers and enlisted men of the First Marine Air Wing in Korea contributed over $3500 to pay for the orphanage, and the land on which it stands.

Grand Jury Checks

New York, April 8 (AP) — The new Queens county grand jury has undertaken an investigation of the crash of a cargo plane into a crowded residential section. County Judge Alfred J. Hofmann urged the jurors yesterday to investigate whether air traffic safety rules are adequate and being observed. He said Queens residents have become "terrorized." Jury Foreman Frederick I. Hamm said the judge's instructions would be followed "to the hilt." A cargo plane crashed Saturday, wrecking five houses and killing five persons — the pilot and copilot and three persons on the ground.

Bridge players as a group are highly charitable people, and the American Contract Bridge League has had great success with its nation-wide charity drive. When one of many charity tournaments was held in White Plains, New York, all of the contestants contributed handsomely to a good cause; also for good measure, many of them also contributed several tricks to their opponents.

In the hand shown today, for example, East handed the game to South on the proverbial silver platter. This was not exactly the charity that East had come there to support.

West opened the king of clubs, and South ruffed. Declarer laid down the ace of spades, entered dummy with the king of hearts, and led the seven of spades from dummy.

East played the five of spades, hoping declarer would go up with the king. Since South was a good player, however, he let the seven of spades ride—and it held the trick. The rest was then easy.

Declarer next led the jack of diamonds from the dummy, and East hopped up with the ace of diamonds in order to lead a club. South ruffed and led another diamond to knocked out West's king. East eventually got one trump trick, but he could not defeat the contract.

When the second round of trumps is led from dummy, East's correct play is to put up the jack of trumps. South wins with the king, of course, but now the contract is easily defeated.

For example, suppose South continues with the nine of trumps, forcing out East's queen. East can lay down the ace of diamonds, continue with a diamond to the king, and ruff the third round of diamonds. This sets the contract easily and quickly.

Even if East prefers not to lead diamonds, he will still set the contract. He simply returns a club, making South ruff a second time. If South now draws the last trump, he must use his own trump to do so.

He can then take the hearts, but the defenders will win the last three tricks with two top diamonds and the ace of clubs.

Coffee Mill Phones

By FRANK TRIPP

The old coffee mill telephones are almost extinct. The ones with a crank; that hung on the wall. Their exodus marks the passing of an era, and may partly account for the ever growing readership of newspapers. They were miniature networks of community gossip of no small import in their day.

I first got wise to their utility as such when on a newspaper's state desk. We had a rural correspondent who outwrote all others. No tooth could ache but she chronicled it. Finally she got to infringing on the adjoining territory of another correspondent. One day the super gal came through with a scoop; annnounced the betrothal of a couple who lived outside her parish.

She sure started something. The prospective groom proved to be the village sot and the bride elect was an old maid school teacher on the verge of retirement. The groom didn't object but the bride raised merry cain.

Forced to account for her faux pas, the industrious correspondent admitted that she heard it over her multiparty telephone. It developed that the infringed correspondent had set the trap in a framed up conversation with a friend.

A RURAL phone proprietor tells how a subscriber tried to uncover an eavesdropping neighbor who always knew all of her business. She had her station agent husband phone her that Rudolph Valentino would pass through town on the 3:30 train. Practically the whole village was at the station.

Farmer Sam Claus, we'll call him, had tried to sell his farm for two years. Plenty of prospects, but they wouldn't pay his price. One day he phones: "Hey, Joe, did you hear what's happened to Lem Lindsay, my next neighbor? They're sure there's gas on his place; he's took it off the market."

Claus was talking to Lem Lindsay himself. Before night Sam got two calls: Say, Sam, I've decided to meet your price." Within a week, Lem sold too. Funny thing about it, there turned out to be gas on both places.

WE'VE SPENT 20 summers with a coffee mill phone in the country; still have one, on an 18-party line. The conversion, though under way, hasn't reached us yet. When told that the new phones were coming, one dear old lady said: "They can take ours out; it won't be any use to me."

There's newswise disadvantage about the new over the old. Every time a subscriber gets a call on the old ones, all of the phones on the party line ring. There's a different ring for each, but everybody hears all. All get to know everybody's ring. Of a snowbound day a half dozen neighbors can have as friendly a chat as if they were together at a sewing bee.

We had a bit of a time stopping good neighbors answering incoming number-to-number long distance calls in our absence, thus causing them to become charged Upon hearing our ring, they believed it a neighborly service to learn who was calling whom, then tell that whom was not at home—but could they take the message?

YET THE SERVICE is not bad at all. The little company is obliging and conversations are clear, even on transcontinental hookups with the Bell System. The folks on these multi-party lines get to thinking of their telephones as their own private institution. Each can call the others without going through central, by turning the crank for the right ring. It's like an office intercommunicating system, yet it circles the globe.

The listeners-in become expert in removing their receivers, but they can't always control a give away; such as a child crying, a door slamming or a dog barking. On incoming calls it sometimes helps to open with, "Now that everybody is tuned in, let's all enjoy it." That may dispose of the more timid among them.

We got word from the company one time that we had been complained about. One of our party line associates wanted us moved to another circuit; even suggested that we be denied service. "He's using a private telephone for public purposes," the complaint said. Evidently our conversations prove monotonously uninteresting.

Juliana Receives RosendaleBouquet

Rosendale residents were honored Saturday afternoon when Queen Juliana and her party stopped on Main street long enough for the queen to accept a bouquet of flowers from Miss Anna DeFelicis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeFelicis of the Rosendale Florist shop.

The queen accepted the flowers directly from Miss DeFelicis through the open door of the limousine. Shaking hands with Miss DeFelicis, the gracious queen remarked upon the beauty of the flowers and expressed her disappointment in the weather conditions.

The stop made by the queen's party had been cleared through security officials with the cooperation of Rosendale's mayor, J. W. Vaughn.

Think Ike Has Asked

Paris, April 8 (AP)—Officers at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters here today seemed to think the general has asked to be released from his post as supreme allied commander in Europe, although no one wanted to be quoted. Officially there was no comment on a report published in the New York Times that a letter from Eisenhower, asked for his release, is en route to Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett in Washington.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Forced to account for her faux pas, the industrious correspondent admitted that she heard it over her multiparty telephone. It developed that the infringed correspondent had set the trap in a framed up conversation with a friend.

A RURAL phone proprietor tells how a subscriber tried to uncover an eavesdropping neighbor who always knew all of her business. She had her station agent husband phone her that Rudolph Valentino would pass through town on the 3:30 train. Practically the whole village was at the station.

Farmer Sam Claus, we'll call him, had tried to sell his farm for two years. Plenty of prospects, but they wouldn't pay his price. One day he phones: "Hey, Joe, did you hear what's happened to Lem Lindsay, my next neighbor? They're sure there's gas on his place; he's took it off the market."

Claus was talking to Lem Lindsay himself. Before night Sam got two calls: Say, Sam, I've decided to meet your price." Within a week, Lem sold too. Funny thing about it, there turned out to be gas on both places.

WE'VE SPENT 20 summers with a coffee mill phone in the country; still have one, on an 18-party line. The conversion, though under way, hasn't reached us yet. When told that the new phones were coming, one dear old lady said: "They can take ours out; it won't be any use to me."

There's newswise disadvantage about the new over the old. Every time a subscriber gets a call on the old ones, all of the phones on the party line ring. There's a different ring for each, but everybody hears all. All get to know everybody's ring. Of a snowbound day a half dozen neighbors can have as friendly a chat as if they were together at a sewing bee.

We had a bit of a time stopping good neighbors answering incoming number-to-number long distance calls in our absence, thus causing them to become charged Upon hearing our ring, they believed it a neighborly service to learn who was calling whom, then tell that whom was not at home—but could they take the message?

YET THE SERVICE is not bad at all. The little company is obliging and conversations are clear, even on transcontinental hookups with the Bell System. The folks on these multi-party lines get to thinking of their telephones as their own private institution. Each can call the others without going through central, by turning the crank for the right ring. It's like an office intercommunicating system, yet it circles the globe.

The listeners-in become expert in removing their receivers, but they can't always control a give away; such as a child crying, a door slamming or a dog barking. On incoming calls it sometimes helps to open with, "Now that everybody is tuned in, let's all enjoy it." That may dispose of the more timid among them.

We got word from the company one time that we had been complained about. One of our party line associates wanted us moved to another circuit; even suggested that we be denied service. "He's using a private telephone for public purposes," the complaint said. Evidently our conversations prove monotonously uninteresting.

Juliana Receives RosendaleBouquet

Rosendale residents were honored Saturday afternoon when Queen Juliana and her party stopped on Main street long enough for the queen to accept a bouquet of flowers from Miss Anna DeFelicis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeFelicis of the Rosendale Florist shop.

The queen accepted the flowers directly from Miss DeFelicis through the open door of the limousine. Shaking hands with Miss DeFelicis, the gracious queen remarked upon the beauty of the flowers and expressed her disappointment in the weather conditions.

The stop made by the queen's party had been cleared through security officials with the cooperation of Rosendale's mayor, J. W. Vaughn.

Think Ike Has Asked

Paris, April 8 (AP)—Officers at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters here today seemed to think the general has asked to be released from his post as supreme allied commander in Europe, although no one wanted to be quoted. Officially there was no comment on a report published in the New York Times that a letter from Eisenhower, asked for his release, is en route to Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett in Washington.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Socialism Is Here

General Motors, General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, United States Steel, duPont—five of the ranking corporations of the world—had a total tax bill during 1951 of $2,658,000,000! The common stockholders in the meantime received dividends in the amount of $952,000,000!

Thus, for every dollar that the owners of the business received for taking all the capital risks, the tax gatherers got almost three dollars. Socialism is here. Politically, America is still a democracy. But economically, we have a socialistic state.

The transition from an economic state where those whose savings go into corporate enterprise in the hope that the risks taken will be suitably rewarded, to the present status of capitalism, has taken place almost without notice. Yet it is tragic.

The tax collectors are running a heads-I-win, tails-you-lose game. A thrifty worker saves by dint of his hard work and economic sacrifice a thousand dollars. He knows that American corporate enterprise is the very life of our standard of living. So, becoming a stockholder, he puts his savings on the line.

And, during 1951, carrying all the risk, he sees the tax eaters take $3.00 while he is getting only $1.00. He says to his friends: "Who owns American corporations—the owners or the tax collectors? The stockholders are supposed to—but do they?"

On the political horizon there are good men who know how dangerous is this constant tax attrition. If, during 1952, every stockholder in America will searchingly examine the record of every candidate, local, state, national, for office as it is related to taxation and economy, he will be doing a great thing for himself, for his corporation, for his community and for the country.

Taxation is eating the economic vitals out of the United States. I wrote this a year ago. Politically, 1952 is a very important year—much more important than was 1951. Taxation has become consciousless and uneconomic. Excessive taxation dries capital up at the source; it encourages all sorts of wasteful and inefficient practices; it puts a premium on careless spending.

And at the same time when stockholders are getting about 25 per cent of the paid-out earnings of the enterprises they own, the tax collectors are setting the stage for cheap money. Those thrifty souls who won't take risks by buying common stocks have the alternative of buying low yielding bonds.

Yes, bondholders and stockholders are being batted from pillar to post.

It just isn't right.

Yet, I have enough faith in human nature to believe that there are in this great country statesmen on all levels who, recognizing the injustices of excessive taxation, will do something about it if they get into positions of political power.

Reversing present socialistic trends will take tremendous courage. Yet it must be undertaken. Stockholders should appoint themselves a committee of one to work on local, state and national levels to turn this tide.

Those who can speak publicly should do so. Those who can't can quietly go about this business in their own communities. Find out how your political representative feels about spending and taxation.

If his views smack of socialism, battle him as you can. 1952 is an important year. America's stockholders can turn the economic tide against socialism.

Warren Will Talk

New York, April 8 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren of California will address a $100-a-plate New York county (Manhattan) Republican committee dinner tonight, the first Republican presidential contender to speak in New York state. County Chairman Thomas J. Curran hailed the appearance as one that would "make headlines."

Newfoundland, once England's oldest colony, is now a province of Canada.

A BOY AT CALVARY — By Jay Heavilin and Walt Scott

Though Sakron winced with each whistling lash of the whip, Jesus' face betrayed no emotion. When at last He was scarcely able to stand, the soldiers dressed Him in a purple cloak and crown of thorns, mocking Him as King.

The sport quickly grew tiresome. Some inner grace seemed to separate Jesus from His tormentors. Returning His own robe, the Romans placed a huge wooden cross upon the Nazarene's shoulders. Through the streets of Jerusalem, toward Calvary, He tottered.

Copr. 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

Sakron followed the procession. Near the meek man who stumbled and fell beneath His load, Sakron did not feel as if he were alone in a strange city. Was it because he had been near Jesus in Bethany? Or was it something more?

Sketch and Plan Now for Your Garden Ideas

By HENRY PREE

Good lawns depend as much on regular feeding as on watering and midsummer care. A complete plant food, such as 4-12-4, 10-6-4 or 5-10-5, should be applied some time during the next three weeks.

Supplied at this time, it assures grass plants of available food when they start growing. This extra nourishment permits grass to develop quickly and crowd out the weeds.

Plant food applied during early spring does not have to be watered in for there is enough moisture from melting snows in the soil to absorb it. There is no danger of burning the grass at this time.

Use about three pounds of fertilizer for every 100 square feet of surface—and rake, broom or drag the surface so as to work the fertilizer down to the soil where it belongs.

You will spend a lot of time this month reading the many alluring catalogs which will appear in almost every mail. We all do this and become a bit intoxicated by the wonderful illustrations and many-times over-enthusiastic descriptions.

Check all the things you want; that will take the first reading of each catalog.

Go over your list a second time and hesitate long enough to visualize each plant in your garden. Does it fit in? What space have you for just this shrub, perennial, annual, or whatever it may be? Are the colors what you want?

In other words, does your garden want it and really need it? Don't forget that seeds have a way of producing plants that require a large space even though they themselves look so small.

The best time for making this spring's garden plans is now instead of when time is at a premium later in the spring. The first step in planning a garden is preparing a list of vegetables the family wants to include. It's not important to list varieties to be planted. This can wait until seed is ordered.

An actual plan, sketched on a piece of paper, according to scale, is the best way to outline a garden. Last year's garden plan can be used to furnish some ideas for the new one. If these plans are kept on hand from year to year, it makes planning much easier.

The most important point is deciding where each vegetable will be planted. In deciding this, it's important to consider the method of cultivation. If tractor equipment is to be used, plans can be made for wide rows and room at the ends of rows.

Long rows are necessary in this type arrangement, even if it means planting more than one vegetable in a row. For hand cultivation, the garden rows can be spaced from one to three feet apart, depending upon the vegetable.

Reds Trial Delayed

New York, April 8 (AP)—Trial of 16 second string Communists has been delayed for a week. Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock granted the delay yesterday. The defense said it needed more time to examine lists from which New York federal court juries are chosen.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 8, 1952. NINE

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 7 — Mary Ober Clough, who died March 29 at Glenville, is well remembered by older residents of this section who recall that she made her home in the Shokan Reformed Church parsonage during the years her husband, the Rev. C. W. Clough, held this pastorate.

Louis Thiel, is home again after having spent most of the winter with his daughter, Louise Armstrong, in New Jersey. Lou, who is in his seventies, had the misfortune to fall last week, suffering injuries to his face.

Birthdays this week include that of Floyd Glass, Ashokan school pupil, who will be 12 years old Tuesday, April 8. Floyd is one of six children of Kenneth and Juanita (Winnie) Glass and a grandson of Mrs. Julius Ryder, one of the oldest residents of the reservoir country.

Earl Elmendorf and Harry Weeks, near neighbors and former New York employes, have suffered illnesses this spring.

Eddie Secor, Tonche mountain War 2 veteran who served in Far Eastern waters on the battleship Wisconsin, is keeping 14 head of cattle this spring. Eddie is assisted in his farm work by his uncle, Edwin D. Secor, 81-year-old, one-time, Ashokan postmaster.

Robert Farrell who has been living with his grandmother, Mrs. J. McCulloch, in New Rochelle, is now with his mother, Mrs. William Short, at the latter's Shokan home. Bob, one of the county's youngest lumberjacks, is now employed by the Chase mill at Bearsville where oak railroad ties are being cut in large numbers.

This writer wrote the other day about the good luck in these parts, what with the snow going off without producing a freshet. Then, Saturday last, came the rains, a real old time gulley-washer which put every creek and brooklet on the rampage. Imagine, now, how the Esopus would have cut up if the snow hadn't gone off beforehand.

Kentucky mines produce 15 per cent of the coal mined in the United States.

THOUSANDS OF HOMES GO UP IN SMOKE!

Every year thousands of homes go up in smoke—before they are built. The cause is something we are all acquainted with . . . forest fires. The timber lost in forest fires in America each year would build all the houses in a city of a half-million population. Who is responsible for forest fires? Nine out of ten are caused by pure and simple carelessness . . . on the part of people like you. This terrible destruction must stop if we are to keep America strong. Please be careful. Remember — only you can prevent forest fires.

Gets Bronze Star

SGT. RAYMOND J. WALKER

Information has been received by the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting station that Sgt. Raymond J. Walker, husband of the former Miss Mildred Chapman of this city, has been awarded the Bronze Star for heroism in action against an armed enemy near Chungmyon, Korea. Sgt. Walker was inducted into the service in December, 1950, received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and was ordered overseas to Korea in June, 1951. He graduated from high school in Carbondale, Pa., and attended Scranton University for two and a half years prior to induction, The general order awarding the Bronze Star said: "Sergeant Walker, a medical aidman, exposed himself to great danger while moving about administering emergency aid to the wounded. When other aidmen were wounded, he vigorously attempted to carry the additional burden. Disregarding his personal safety, Sgt. Walker continued in this valiant manner until all the injured had been treated and evacuated. His courageous actions were responsible for saving the lives of several friendly soldiers and inspired his comrades to greater efforts. Sgt. Walker's heroism reflects great credit on himself and the military service." He is a member of the First Cavalry Division. Mrs. Raymond Walker is residing at 3 Charlotte Place with their son who is five months old.

Upon completion of basic training at Sampson Air Force Base he was selected to attend for five months the lithography school conducted by the Department of the Navy in Philadelphia, Pa., and after graduating from school was ordered to his new station in Idaho.

New Bridge Plans

New York, April 8 (AP)—Apartment houses and other structures in a half-block area at the Manhattan end of the George Washington Bridge will be torn down and an off-street bus station and subway connection will be built for commuters. This was disclosed Monday with an inspection of the site by city and New York Port Authority officials. The Port Authority is undertaking the project, estimated to cost $628,000. The project, earmarked for completion in the spring of 1954, will be preceded by the razing of structures on the north side of 178th street between Fort Washington avenue and Broadway. Authority spokesmen said the project will move as quickly as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and city officials approve the plans and apartments on the the site are vacated.

Headed for High Court

New York, April 8 (AP) — The Kaiser-Frazer auto firm intends to go to the U. S. Supreme Court, if necessary, to regain a $3,120,743 judgment against Otis and Co., Cleveland investment bankers. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a federal district court's award to Kaiser-Frazer for alleged breach of contract. The higher court held that the contract itself was illegal. The suit against Otis was based on Otis' alleged failure to underwrite a 10-million dollar Kaiser-Frazer common stock issue.

WALLKILL NEWS

Women's Club Given Talk on Securities

Wallkill, April 7 — E. Amory Hull of the Poughkeepsie branch office of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, stockbrokers, addressed the Wallkill Women's Club at a meeting held at the Wallkill National Bank Community Room Friday.

Choosing as his topic, A Woman and Her Money, he explained that the stock market was not to be considered too complicated or mysterious. By the use of a few time-tested rules, common sense and one's own innate conservatism, one can readily understand the selection of securities without complicated analysis of balance sheets and statistics.

The speaker pointed out that the average person should possess three things before considering investing in securities: first, sufficient money for emergencies in a savings account or United States Savings Bonds; second, complete and adequate insurance; and third, if he has a family he should in most cases either own his own home or farm or have it provided for.

The modern approach in selecting securities, Hull said, was first to select an industry which seemed favorably situated and then to select a company from within that industry. A rule-of-the-thumb was to choose one of the foremost leaders in an industry, because usually such companies have a very fine management and dividend records. It is more conservative he said to choose companies whose products are daily necessities, such as: food, electric light, dairy products and the like. During depressions such stocks stand up much better than those companies which in hard times find their markets shrinking.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ernest Bell, program chairman. In the absence of the president, Miss Anna Brown, Mrs. Ira R. Wickner, vice president, conducted a short business meeting prior to the program. Mrs. Charles E. Penney was social chairman for the afternoon.

Will Present Cantata

Wallkill, April 7—On Wednesday, at 8 p. m., the senior choir will present the Easter Cantata, The Crucifixion by Stainer, under the direction of Mrs. Hubert Hendrie with Mrs. Richard Hine at the console. Soloists will be Stephen Douglas and Ralph Nyland. Mr. Douglas, nephew of Mrs. Fred Meredith of Wallkill appeared as the baritone soloist at the Wallkill Lenten service several years ago. He starred in the musical, Carousel both on Broadway and in England. He also has appeared in operettas at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, N. J. At present he is engaged in television and radio work and sings at church services in New Jersey near his home. Mr. Nyland was the tenor soloist at the Cecelia Mass presented by the Wallkill choir last Easter. He is tenor soloist in radio on the "Big Time" program and also on the Milton Berle television broadcast. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Almack of New Hurley are assisting the choir in this presentation also. General arrangements for the program are under the supervision of Miss Margery DuBois, president of the choir.

Teaching Staff Is Voted Increase

Wallkill, April 7—At the March meeting of the board of education of Wallkill Central School, action was taken by the board members to advertise for bids for transportation of approximately 600 pupils of the district for the year 1952-53. The salary for the teaching and supervisory staff were determined for the year beginning September 1952. Increases totaling $12,500 were authorized.

The board estimated that seven buses and a station wagon would be required to do the work with most of the vehicles scheduled for two trips each at morning and night. The present contract for pupil transportation expires June 30, 1952.

Plans and requirements for converting the upstairs apartment at the Main street annex to classrooms were discussed. It is expected that the present tenant will vacate within a few weeks in order that work may begin and be completed before school opens in September. Alterations and heating, lighting, and sanitary facilities will be required. An additional first grade and a kindergarten will be held at the annex.

Concerned With Safety

The concern of several Plattekill residents for the safety of pupils required to be taught in the present lunch room there next year was expressed by Mrs. Joseph Tangredi and Anthony Puleo. The visitors were reassured that every possible precaution for the children's safety would be taken with provision made for an emergency exit from the basement classroom to the three possible means of egress from the downstairs room.

In accordance with the suggestions of the citizen's educational advisory committee, the committee was reorganized with the number of members increased to 21, with one-third of the total members to serve for a year; one-third, two years and the remainder for a three year term. Members of the present committee were asked to serve again for a one or two year term, and additional persons in the community have been asked to fill the positions of three year members. The committee has recommended to the board of education that the term of office of its members be increased to two, since half of the committee being changed in any one year was felt to destroy the effectiveness of the committee. The complete list of the reorganized committee will be made public when those appointed have accepted.

Four new teachers were added to the teaching staff for 1952-53.

Eleven students of Wallkill Central School recently took part in the fourth annual music clinic at New Paltz State Teacher's College. They were accompanied by Elizabeth Larsen, music director. Those who took part included Alice Bauman, Wilma Tucker, Ruth Cronk, Mary Jane Stoneburg, Joan Rosevelle, Gail Grimm, Manuel Mazo, Michael Hodges, Robert Benjamin, Robert Rounds and John Meyer.

The spring conference of the Ulster Educators will be held at Marlborough Central School under the directorship of the president, Janet Bracken of New Paltz. The morning session of the conference will be devoted to a business meeting and two speakers while the afternoon will consist of seven workshop groups. Hazel Ronk of Wallkill, chairman of the language arts group, will have Miss Rose Abernethy of the New Paltz State Teachers College, as the guest speaker of her group. Representatives of the districts include: Francis Connolly, Highland; Clarence Spitzkaen, Marlborough; Jeanne Brown, New Paltz; Emma Zimmerman, rural and Gerald Churchill, Wallkill. Other officers of the Association include: Eileen Germiller, Highland who is vice president; Betty Taylor, rural, who is secretary-treasurer.

A new and worthwhile organization has been established in Wallkill that is to be known as the C. P. Mother's Study Club. The group is comprised of mothers whose children have been treated at the cerebral palsy center established in 1951 at the tumor clinic building at 400 Broadway, Kingston. Thirty-five cerebral palsy patients are being treated at the clinic at the present time and new patients are being admitted each day. According to the Wallkill and vicinity mothers whose children are afflicted with the disease, there was little that could be done in their particular case until the establishment of the clinic. The purpose of establishing a club at Wallkill is intended, primarily to help in the clinic work as much as possible. At the organization's last meeting March 26, Dr. Robert Broad of Kingston was the guest speaker. He spoke of the treatment of cerebral palsy, what is being done and what is hoped can be done in the future. At the end of his talk, he answered many questions posed by the mothers from the floor.

A child health conference was conducted today by the Ulster County Health Department at the health center in Wallkill. These clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunization for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Donald Manning Broas is spending an 11-day leave with his mother, Mrs. Michael Quinn of Wallkill. He has completed training as a Navy male intern and received his diploma March 28. Following his leave, he will take up his duties at the Marine Base, Camp Lejeune, N. C.

WALLKILL NEWS

Women's Club Given Talk on Securities

Wallkill, April 7 — E. Amory Hull of the Poughkeepsie branch office of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, stockbrokers, addressed the Wallkill Women's Club at a meeting held at the Wallkill National Bank Community Room Friday.

Choosing as his topic, A Woman and Her Money, he explained that the stock market was not to be considered too complicated or mysterious. By the use of a few time-tested rules, common sense and one's own innate conservatism, one can readily understand the selection of securities without complicated analysis of balance sheets and statistics.

The speaker pointed out that the average person should possess three things before considering investing in securities: first, sufficient money for emergencies in a savings account or United States Savings Bonds; second, complete and adequate insurance; and third, if he has a family he should in most cases either own his own home or farm or have it provided for.

The modern approach in selecting securities, Hull said, was first to select an industry which seemed favorably situated and then to select a company from within that industry. A rule-of-the-thumb was to choose one of the foremost leaders in an industry, because usually such companies have a very fine management and dividend records. It is more conservative he said to choose companies whose products are daily necessities, such as: food, electric light, dairy products and the like. During depressions such stocks stand up much better than those companies which in hard times find their markets shrinking.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ernest Bell, program chairman. In the absence of the president, Miss Anna Brown, Mrs. Ira R. Wickner, vice president, conducted a short business meeting prior to the program. Mrs. Charles E. Penney was social chairman for the afternoon.

Will Present Cantata

Wallkill, April 7—On Wednesday, at 8 p. m., the senior choir will present the Easter Cantata, The Crucifixion by Stainer, under the direction of Mrs. Hubert Hendrie with Mrs. Richard Hine at the console. Soloists will be Stephen Douglas and Ralph Nyland. Mr. Douglas, nephew of Mrs. Fred Meredith of Wallkill appeared as the baritone soloist at the Wallkill Lenten service several years ago. He starred in the musical, Carousel both on Broadway and in England. He also has appeared in operettas at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, N. J. At present he is engaged in television and radio work and sings at church services in New Jersey near his home. Mr. Nyland was the tenor soloist at the Cecelia Mass presented by the Wallkill choir last Easter. He is tenor soloist in radio on the "Big Time" program and also on the Milton Berle television broadcast. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Almack of New Hurley are assisting the choir in this presentation also. General arrangements for the program are under the supervision of Miss Margery DuBois, president of the choir.

Teaching Staff Is Voted Increase

Wallkill, April 7—At the March meeting of the board of education of Wallkill Central School, action was taken by the board members to advertise for bids for transportation of approximately 600 pupils of the district for the year 1952-53. The salary for the teaching and supervisory staff were determined for the year beginning September 1952. Increases totaling $12,500 were authorized.

The board estimated that seven buses and a station wagon would be required to do the work with most of the vehicles scheduled for two trips each at morning and night. The present contract for pupil transportation expires June 30, 1952.

Plans and requirements for converting the upstairs apartment at the Main street annex to classrooms were discussed. It is expected that the present tenant will vacate within a few weeks in order that work may begin and be completed before school opens in September. Alterations and heating, lighting, and sanitary facilities will be required. An additional first grade and a kindergarten will be held at the annex.

Concerned With Safety

The concern of several Plattekill residents for the safety of pupils required to be taught in the present lunch room there next year was expressed by Mrs. Joseph Tangredi and Anthony Puleo. The visitors were reassured that every possible precaution for the children's safety would be taken with provision made for an emergency exit from the basement classroom to the three possible means of egress from the downstairs room.

In accordance with the suggestions of the citizen's educational advisory committee, the committee was reorganized with the number of members increased to 21, with one-third of the total members to serve for a year; one-third, two years and the remainder for a three year term. Members of the present committee were asked to serve again for a one or two year term, and additional persons in the community have been asked to fill the positions of three year members. The committee has recommended to the board of education that the term of office of its members be increased to two, since half of the committee being changed in any one year was felt to destroy the effectiveness of the committee. The complete list of the reorganized committee will be made public when those appointed have accepted.

Four new teachers were added to the teaching staff for 1952-53.

Eleven students of Wallkill Central School recently took part in the fourth annual music clinic at New Paltz State Teacher's College. They were accompanied by Elizabeth Larsen, music director. Those who took part included Alice Bauman, Wilma Tucker, Ruth Cronk, Mary Jane Stoneburg, Joan Rosevelle, Gail Grimm, Manuel Mazo, Michael Hodges, Robert Benjamin, Robert Rounds and John Meyer.

The spring conference of the Ulster Educators will be held at Marlborough Central School under the directorship of the president, Janet Bracken of New Paltz. The morning session of the conference will be devoted to a business meeting and two speakers while the afternoon will consist of seven workshop groups. Hazel Ronk of Wallkill, chairman of the language arts group, will have Miss Rose Abernethy of the New Paltz State Teachers College, as the guest speaker of her group. Representatives of the districts include: Francis Connolly, Highland; Clarence Spitzkaen, Marlborough; Jeanne Brown, New Paltz; Emma Zimmerman, rural and Gerald Churchill, Wallkill. Other officers of the Association include: Eileen Germiller, Highland who is vice president; Betty Taylor, rural, who is secretary-treasurer.

A new and worthwhile organization has been established in Wallkill that is to be known as the C. P. Mother's Study Club. The group is comprised of mothers whose children have been treated at the cerebral palsy center established in 1951 at the tumor clinic building at 400 Broadway, Kingston. Thirty-five cerebral palsy patients are being treated at the clinic at the present time and new patients are being admitted each day. According to the Wallkill and vicinity mothers whose children are afflicted with the disease, there was little that could be done in their particular case until the establishment of the clinic. The purpose of establishing a club at Wallkill is intended, primarily to help in the clinic work as much as possible. At the organization's last meeting March 26, Dr. Robert Broad of Kingston was the guest speaker. He spoke of the treatment of cerebral palsy, what is being done and what is hoped can be done in the future. At the end of his talk, he answered many questions posed by the mothers from the floor.

WALLKILL

Wallkill, April 8—The Mentz Potluckers held their monthly luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Emmet Conklin on Tuesday. Present were Mrs. Edna Barrowman of Forest Road, Mrs. LeRoy Masten, Mrs. George Sohn, Mrs. Daisy Gilbert, Mrs. C. E. Caswell, Mrs. Eli H. Van Wagenen, Mrs. Clifford Quick, Mrs. Jennie Bebbington, Mrs. Lulu Masten, Mrs. Edward C. Masten, and Miss Louise Geyer.

Mrs. Joseph Rupprecht, Mrs. Samuel Mason, and Miss Dora Herrington of West Nyck and Miss Merrill Lieberman of Nyack were guests over the weekend of Miss Helen M. Van Wyck. All of Miss Van Wyck's guests were members of the West Nyack Teaching Staff where Miss Van Wyck was also employed before her retirement.

The Shawangunk chapter of the Honor Society of Wallkill Central school sponsored a modern and square dance at the school gym on Friday evening. Music was furnished by the Kentucky Moonshiners and refreshments were sold. The Society will give a small scholarship to a deserving member of the senior class with the proceeds from the dance.

Members of the Wallkill Central school faculty will present an unusual play this spring for the benefit of the scholarship fund, entitled The Hill Between, by Lulu Vollmer. The play theme is centered around the Hills of Kentucky and is concerned with folklore of that area. This is a new type of play that has never been presented on local stages. The play has been scheduled for presentation on Friday and Saturday evening, May 9 and 10, with curtain at 8:15 p. m. The play is produced by special arrangements with Langbore, Green and Co.

The scholarship fund was arranged by the teachers group five years ago and each year the faculty members present a dramatic production for this cause.

Gerald Churchill's sixth grade at the Central school recently presented an assembly program consisting of two short skits each of which carried a message to those in the play and in the audience. Tommy Saunders, Bobby Gardner, Charles Cook, Nancy Wickner, Denny Simpson, Susan Thabit, Vernon Spencer and Mary Lou Van Wyck took part in the skit, When the Books Talked. The story concerned the feelings of textbooks when they receive abusive treatment by the boys and girls. Barbara Carr was the announcer for the play.

Jimmy Counts His Blessings was presented by Billy Gardner, Howard Sutton, Ida Charles, Ann Williams, Teddy Sharp, Judy Brown, Danny Terwilliger, and Charles Cruver. Jimmy, played by Billy Gardner, was shown how lucky one is if he lives in America. The announcer for this skit was Dianne Belden and Gerald Depew performed the introductory exercises.

The Knights of Pythias of Wallkill held their last card party of the season on Friday evening with a record attendance at the lodge rooms. This party, an April Fool's party was under the chairmanship of George Knutsen. Prizes and refreshments were enjoyed after games of pinochle and canasta.

The public health nursing committee held a regular meeting in the health rooms March 31 at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Joyce Kopf read the report for 1951. Mrs. Roland Baab donated a hospital bed. A mattress for this bed is needed and other equipment. The committee will have a food sale April 25 to raise money for this purpose. Besides cake, clam chowder, coffee and slices of cake will be sold. Mrs. Graham Burmeister is in charge of the sale The next Well Baby Clinic is April 7. On April 27 there will be a special X-ray clinic in the health rooms.

On Thursday evening, the Wallkill Chamber of Commerce individually sponsored a dinner in honor of the county championship varsity and junior varsity basketball teams, won by the Wallkill school under the direction of the coaches, Charles Jirinick and Charles Neff, and Vincent DeAngelis, director of athletics for this year. The dinner was held at The Willows at Maybrook and a fine dinner was enjoyed by all. Entertainment was planned and the guest speaker was Coach George Masterson of Newburgh Free Academy. This is the first time in many years Wallkill had a championship team and everyone was lauded by the Chamber president, Claude L. Decker, for their fine success of the season.

In a visit to the Wallkill State Prison Tuesday, a Red Cross bloodmobile unit received 142 pints of blood from 199 inmates who volunteered. State Commissioner of Correction Edward J. Donovan was high in his praise for both the Red Cross, with their efficiency, and the inmates for their fine cooperation for such a worthy drive.

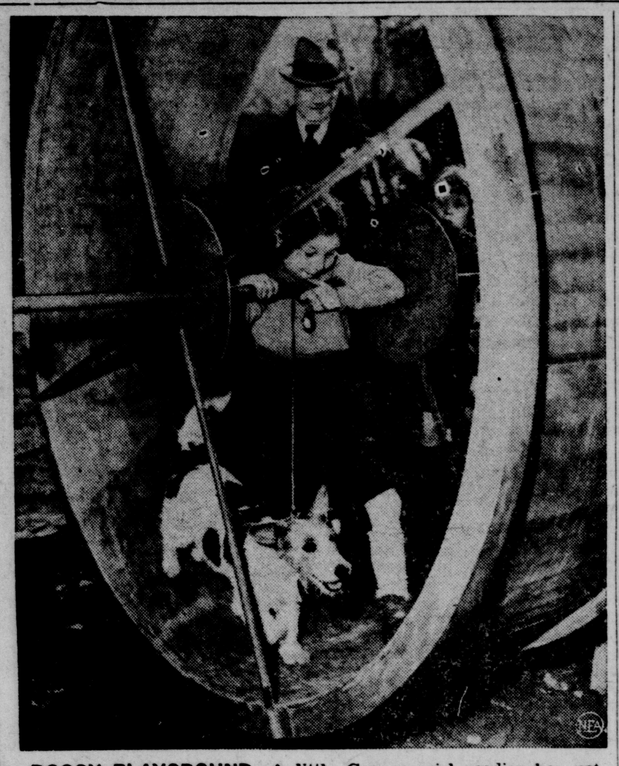

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Herbert S. DuBois. The Rev. Albert Deyo of Montgomery will be the speaker with Mrs. Louisa Parliman leader of devotions.

Mrs. Viola Jansen spent Thursday in New York city.

Mrs. Jane R. Van Wyck and Miss Helen M. Van Wyck entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morris and sons on Saturday at luncheon.

Fire on Minesweeper

Seoul, Korea, April 8 (AP)—Red artillery shells splashed all around the American minesweeper Endicott when she swept into Chongjin harbor, 70 miles from Soviet Russia, the navy reported today. Shore batteries fired 75 rounds of 120 millimeter shells at the converted destroyer, the navy said, and the Endicott was "straddled many times" by the shell bursts. The Endicott, other UN warships and planes from the U. S. aircraft carrier Philippine Sea opened up on the Red batteries and silenced them. The navy's report did not say whether the Endicott was hit.

DOGGY PLAYGROUND—A little German girl readies her pet for a treadmill "solo" at a playground especially designed for canine amusement in Frankfurt, Germany. Question is: Which rider is most amused? The park project is aimed at keeping dogs off the city's streets.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Art of Enameling Is Demonstrated

Woodstock, April 8 — Last Thursday night under the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen's educational program, Dick Chambers, instructor in design, substituted for Martha Everett, giving a demonstration in the craft of enameling on metal, before a group of twenty persons.

Using copper, Chambers first explained the process of cleaning the metal, and showed how the enamels were ground and washed to purify them, before applying them to the metal.

Chambers had brought a small kiln for the demonstration, enabling the audience to see the firing which fuses the enamels to produce the finished product. Enameling, he explained, is an ancient craft, known to have been practiced by the Egyptians, Byzantines and Chinese. Fine examples of it may be seen in the collections of many museums in this country. The contemporary American craftsman in enamels is producing charming bits of color in ash trays, pins and earrings.

Following the demonstration, seven persons evidenced enthusiasm for the craft by signing up for the class in enameling which will be organized later this spring. Anyone interested in joining the class may communicate with Mrs. Wangler at the guild, which will reopen May 3.

Set of Brokenshaw Tiles Is Completed

Woodstock, April 8 — Louise Brokenshaw, ceramic artist of Shady, has recently completed a series of tiles which have been inlaid in the fireplace of the living room in the home of Mrs. Katherine Burgevin on the Bearsville Road. The tiles which range in design from Dutch flower and tulip motifs to those bearing the formalized figures of a lion, tiger, a unicorn and a wolf, are painted in a soft green and earth red, with touches of other colors against an off-white background.

As was customary in the old use of tiles in the fireplaces, they tell a story, and blend together for style and in the size of the motifs.

Mrs. Brokenshaw's ceramics have also been included in the articles, china, glass, pottery and other pieces of craftwork, now on view at the Al Fresco Shop, which opened March 30, on Route 209, Stone Ridge.

Three New Members Join Fire Company

Woodstock, April 8—At the regular monthly meeting of the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, at the Fire Hall Monday night, three new members were voted into the company. They were Walter Gilsinger, Bearsville; Eugene Snyder and Clarence Snyder, Woodstock.

It was also voted to sign the lease of rental of the Fire Hall for a year to the Masonic Square Club.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Elwyn Directs Films For Video Programs

Woodstock, April 8 — Robert Elwyn has returned to his home here after completing work on two films which he has directed for television programs at Princeton, N. J. The first picture was an American Educational Foundation anti-Communist film, titled Backfire. The other film was made for Kimbell Glass, which Elwyn said was "purely a scientific film on volumetric glassware, a film made for laboratory use in technicolor."

Kutzschbach to Head Nominating Committee

Woodstock, April 8—At the regular meeting of American Legion Post 1026, recently, Harry Kutzschbach was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for the election of officers to serve next year. Kutzschbach will announce his committee members at the next meeting.

Albert M. Wangler, post commander, has appointed G. Alfred Nussbaum as officer of the day for the Memorial Day exercises.

Legion plans for the 4th of July fireworks display and Boys State this year will be announced later.

New Yorkers for Ike

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is a 17-to-14 presidential choice over Sen. Taft in an Associated Press poll of New Yorkers seeking election as delegates to the Republican National Convention. Thirty-six of 101 qualified candidates for delegate responded to the mail poll. Eisenhower received six second-place and six third-place "votes." Taft was the second choice on eight questionnaires and third choice on two others. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican president nominee in 1944 and 1948 and an all-out Eisenhower supporter, is expected to control a substantial, if not overwhelming majority of New York's 96 delegate votes at Chicago.

Full Impact of 'Phone Strike Not Immediately Felt

New York, April 8 (AP)—Striking CIO Communications Workers are causing few delays to telephone service across the nation, but a union official says picketing will multiply the jams starting tomorrow.

Coupled with a Western Union strike, now in its sixth day, an effective stoppage of telephone service would leave air-mail as the nation's chief means of relatively-quick, long distance communication.

A clearing of the clouded communications picture was not an immediate prospect. Federal mediators were working on both the telephone and telegraph disputes, but their efforts were fruitless.

The unique situation that caught the telephone and telegraph services simultaneously stems from union demands for wage increases, but the strikes are not related.

Some 67,000 CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA) went on strike yesterday in the dispute against American Telephone and Telegraph Company systems in four states and the Western Electric Company in 43 states. Nationwide picketing is scheduled to start tomorrow.

In the Western Union walkout, about 30,000 members of the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union (CTU) have been out since last Thursday.

Western Union claims it has restored service between 82 key cities. But the CTU says it has "the country sewed up" outside of New York, where an independent union represents employes.

The full impact of the telephone strike was not immediately felt. The CIO strikers posted few pickets at telephone exchanges, and in the four states where operators left their jobs supervisory personnel took over.

Nab Highland Man Wanted by Police In Connecticut

Michael Orphan, 26, of Highland, was arrested this morning by state police who said that he was wanted by Connecticut authorities in connection with an alleged armed robbery in Danbury, Conn., July 20, 1950.

Troopers said that on that day four men stole a payroll of $3,200 from the Danbury Transportation Company. Orphan was booked at the Ulster county jail on a fugitive from justice charge and Connecticut authorities were notified.

Troopers said that Orphan's arrest followed the arrest Monday of James Webb, 22, of Newburgh. Webb, according to troopers, is the man charged with sticking up the paymaster.

Orphan and two others remained outside in the car during the robbery, troopers said. Two are in custody, it was reported, and one is serving a sentence in the Dutchess county jail on another charge.

WALLKILL

Wallkill, April 8—The Mentz Potluckers held their monthly luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Emmet Conklin on Tuesday. Present were Mrs. Edna Barrowman of Forest Road, Mrs. LeRoy Masten, Mrs. George Sohn, Mrs. Daisy Gilbert, Mrs. C. E. Caswell, Mrs. Eli H. Van Wagenen, Mrs. Clifford Quick, Mrs. Jennie Bebbington, Mrs. Lulu Masten, Mrs. Edward C. Masten, and Miss Louise Geyer.

Mrs. Joseph Rupprecht, Mrs. Samuel Mason, and Miss Dora Herrington of West Nyck and Miss Merrill Lieberman of Nyack were guests over the weekend of Miss Helen M. Van Wyck. All of Miss Van Wyck's guests were members of the West Nyack Teaching Staff where Miss Van Wyck was also employed before her retirement.

The Shawangunk chapter of the Honor Society of Wallkill Central school sponsored a modern and square dance at the school gym on Friday evening. Music was furnished by the Kentucky Moonshiners and refreshments were sold. The Society will give a small scholarship to a deserving member of the senior class with the proceeds from the dance.

Members of the Wallkill Central school faculty will present an unusual play this spring for the benefit of the scholarship fund, entitled The Hill Between, by Lulu Vollmer. The play theme is centered around the Hills of Kentucky and is concerned with folklore of that area. This is a new type of play that has never been presented on local stages. The play has been scheduled for presentation on Friday and Saturday evening, May 9 and 10, with curtain at 8:15 p. m. The play is produced by special arrangements with Langbore, Green and Co.

The scholarship fund was arranged by the teachers group five years ago and each year the faculty members present a dramatic production for this cause.

Gerald Churchill's sixth grade at the Central school recently presented an assembly program consisting of two short skits each of which carried a message to those in the play and in the audience. Tommy Saunders, Bobby Gardner, Charles Cook, Nancy Wickner, Denny Simpson, Susan Thabit, Vernon Spencer and Mary Lou Van Wyck took part in the skit, When the Books Talked. The story concerned the feelings of textbooks when they receive abusive treatment by the boys and girls. Barbara Carr was the announcer for the play.

Jimmy Counts His Blessings was presented by Billy Gardner, Howard Sutton, Ida Charles, Ann Williams, Teddy Sharp, Judy Brown, Danny Terwilliger, and Charles Cruver. Jimmy, played by Billy Gardner, was shown how lucky one is if he lives in America. The announcer for this skit was Dianne Belden and Gerald Depew performed the introductory exercises.

The Knights of Pythias of Wallkill held their last card party of the season on Friday evening with a record attendance at the lodge rooms. This party, an April Fool's party was under the chairmanship of George Knutsen. Prizes and refreshments were enjoyed after games of pinochle and canasta.

The public health nursing committee held a regular meeting in the health rooms March 31 at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Joyce Kopf read the report for 1951. Mrs. Roland Baab donated a hospital bed. A mattress for this bed is needed and other equipment. The committee will have a food sale April 25 to raise money for this purpose. Besides cake, clam chowder, coffee and slices of cake will be sold. Mrs. Graham Burmeister is in charge of the sale The next Well Baby Clinic is April 7. On April 27 there will be a special X-ray clinic in the health rooms.

On Thursday evening, the Wallkill Chamber of Commerce individually sponsored a dinner in honor of the county championship varsity and junior varsity basketball teams, won by the Wallkill school under the direction of the coaches, Charles Jirinick and Charles Neff, and Vincent DeAngelis, director of athletics for this year. The dinner was held at The Willows at Maybrook and a fine dinner was enjoyed by all. Entertainment was planned and the guest speaker was Coach George Masterson of Newburgh Free Academy. This is the first time in many years Wallkill had a championship team and everyone was lauded by the Chamber president, Claude L. Decker, for their fine success of the season.

In a visit to the Wallkill State Prison Tuesday, a Red Cross bloodmobile unit received 142 pints of blood from 199 inmates who volunteered. State Commissioner of Correction Edward J. Donovan was high in his praise for both the Red Cross, with their efficiency, and the inmates for their fine cooperation for such a worthy drive.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Herbert S. DuBois. The Rev. Albert Deyo of Montgomery will be the speaker with Mrs. Louisa Parliman leader of devotions.

Mrs. Viola Jansen spent Thursday in New York city.

Mrs. Jane R. Van Wyck and Miss Helen M. Van Wyck entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morris and sons on Saturday at luncheon.

Fire on Minesweeper

Seoul, Korea, April 8 (AP)—Red artillery shells splashed all around the American minesweeper Endicott when she swept into Chongjin harbor, 70 miles from Soviet Russia, the navy reported today. Shore batteries fired 75 rounds of 120 millimeter shells at the converted destroyer, the navy said, and the Endicott was "straddled many times" by the shell bursts. The Endicott, other UN warships and planes from the U. S. aircraft carrier Philippine Sea opened up on the Red batteries and silenced them. The navy's report did not say whether the Endicott was hit.

Art of Enameling Is Demonstrated

Woodstock, April 8 — Last Thursday night under the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen's educational program, Dick Chambers, instructor in design, substituted for Martha Everett, giving a demonstration in the craft of enameling on metal, before a group of twenty persons.

Using copper, Chambers first explained the process of cleaning the metal, and showed how the enamels were ground and washed to purify them, before applying them to the metal.

Chambers had brought a small kiln for the demonstration, enabling the audience to see the firing which fuses the enamels to produce the finished product. Enameling, he explained, is an ancient craft, known to have been practiced by the Egyptians, Byzantines and Chinese. Fine examples of it may be seen in the collections of many museums in this country. The contemporary American craftsman in enamels is producing charming bits of color in ash trays, pins and earrings.

Following the demonstration, seven persons evidenced enthusiasm for the craft by signing up for the class in enameling which will be organized later this spring. Anyone interested in joining the class may communicate with Mrs. Wangler at the guild, which will reopen May 3.

Set of Brokenshaw Tiles Is Completed

Woodstock, April 8 — Louise Brokenshaw, ceramic artist of Shady, has recently completed a series of tiles which have been inlaid in the fireplace of the living room in the home of Mrs. Katherine Burgevin on the Bearsville Road. The tiles which range in design from Dutch flower and tulip motifs to those bearing the formalized figures of a lion, tiger, a unicorn and a wolf, are painted in a soft green and earth red, with touches of other colors against an off-white background.

As was customary in the old use of tiles in the fireplaces, they tell a story, and blend together for style and in the size of the motifs.

Mrs. Brokenshaw's ceramics have also been included in the articles, china, glass, pottery and other pieces of craftwork, now on view at the Al Fresco Shop, which opened March 30, on Route 209, Stone Ridge.

Three New Members Join Fire Company

Woodstock, April 8—At the regular monthly meeting of the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, at the Fire Hall Monday night, three new members were voted into the company. They were Walter Gilsinger, Bearsville; Eugene Snyder and Clarence Snyder, Woodstock.

It was also voted to sign the lease of rental of the Fire Hall for a year to the Masonic Square Club.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Elwyn Directs Films For Video Programs

Woodstock, April 8 — Robert Elwyn has returned to his home here after completing work on two films which he has directed for television programs at Princeton, N. J. The first picture was an American Educational Foundation anti-Communist film, titled Backfire. The other film was made for Kimbell Glass, which Elwyn said was "purely a scientific film on volumetric glassware, a film made for laboratory use in technicolor."

Kutzschbach to Head Nominating Committee

Woodstock, April 8—At the regular meeting of American Legion Post 1026, recently, Harry Kutzschbach was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for the election of officers to serve next year. Kutzschbach will announce his committee members at the next meeting.

Annual Ball, April 19, Is Foremost Topic Of Benedictine Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital was held last week at the Nurses' Home. The committee in charge of the annual Ball reported excellent progress being made. The gala social event will take place Saturday, April 19, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Auxiliary has pledged $12,000 to the hospital and the proceeds from the ball will be applied to the pledge and used to furnish two obstetrical rooms in the new wing.

Mrs. Allen Baker, general chairman, reported that patron tickets had been distributed and the usual support of local residents was anticipated.

Twenty-two new members were welcomed by Sister Berenice who described the remodeling of the entrance hall and reception room as well as the new furniture which has been added. Sister Berenice also commented upon the north wing, now in use.

Dedication

An invitation was extended to the auxiliary members and friends to attend the dedication of the new additions to the hospital on Saturday, April 26, at 2:30 p. m. His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman will officiate.

A talk on the Delaware and Hudson Canal was given by Miss Agnes Scott Smith, faculty member of the Kingston High School. Miss Smith traced the history of the canal from the time of its construction in 1828 until its closing in 1898. She recalled that streets in the city still bear names of those who were directly responsible for the canal including Wurts, Hone and McEntee streets.

The speaker contrasted the number of boats passing through the Eddyville locks in 1828, with a maximum of 15 boats daily as compared with 150 boats in 1850. The boom year of the canal was said to be 1872 when over one million tons of coal were transported.

The closing of the Rosendale Cement plants together with the speed of the railroad were given as reasons for abandoning the canal, described as "the best governed canal in the East" on November 5, 1898.

UC Federation of Women's Clubs Convenes For Luncheon Meeting at Governor Clinton

The Ulster County Federation of Women's Clubs convened Monday for a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Twentieth Century, Sorosis, Saugerties Monday and Rosendale Women's Clubs were represented.

The honored guests included Mrs. Rolland Davis, president of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, Miss Alice Scardefield, third district director, Mrs. Harry Walker, third district treasurer, and Mrs. Henry Knaust, county chairman.

Mrs. William Ochs, Sorosis president, welcomed the guests and members and introduced the speakers.

Facing Challenge

The important part women can and "must" play in combatting the forces of evil at work in the world today was stressed by Mrs. Davis. "In the year 1952, serious decisions are to be made. We are facing the greatest challenge since clubs were originated. We must not consider only the pleasant things in our associations but permit the unpleasant ones to become important."

Continuing in a serious vein, the speaker emphasized the great need for divine guidance in "these critical times." Mrs. Davis urged the women to read the constitution and the bill of rights and discuss them during at least one meeting. "The background of our country is based upon religion which has always played an important part in national government and state constitutions," she said.

Economy

The need for economy in government was touched upon by the speaker who asked the members to write to their congressman and stress this need. Of great importance, too, said the speaker, is our duty to keep an alert check on the history books being used in our schools to guard against any subversive material infiltrating therein.

Out of town guests included Mrs. William Fessenden of Long Island, past president of the local Lowell and Twentieth Century Clubs, Mrs. N. J. Mertens, Scarsdale, and Mrs. William McVey, Jr., of New York city.

Mrs. Henry Knaust, county chairman, welcomed and introduced Mrs. Grant Morse, president, Rosendale Women's Monday Club, which has become affiliated with the third district federation; Mrs. Herman Schwenk, vice-president of the Twentieth Century, and Mrs. George Duffy, Rosendale club. Greetings were given from the respective organizations by their representatives.

Brief comments were made by Mrs. Knaust. "We as a group acknowledge a power beyond us, and if we hold to that faith we shall reach our goal," she said.

Miss Scardefield urged all members to vote in the forthcoming elections. "We must have faith and work in whatever direction seems right."

Arrangements for the luncheon were in charge of the Mmes. William J. McVey, A. W. Mollott and G. C. Lasher.

Kerhonkson Art Class Will Hold Exhibition

A Future Bride

BARBARA P. JONES

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jones of 5 Jefferson Place announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara P. Jones, to Sgt. Donald M. Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Morrell Gibson of Staten Island. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Jones is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '47 and Brothers College, Drew University, Madison, N. J., class of '51. She is now employed at the Sloane-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York city.

Sgt. Gibson is a graduate of Curtis High School, Staten Island, class of '47, and Brothers College, Drew University, class of '51. He is now serving with the U. S. Army stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., where he is attending Officers Candidate School.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital was held last week at the Nurses' Home. The committee in charge of the annual Ball reported excellent progress being made. The gala social event will take place Saturday, April 19, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Auxiliary has pledged $12,000 to the hospital and the proceeds from the ball will be applied to the pledge and used to furnish two obstetrical rooms in the new wing.

Mrs. Allen Baker, general chairman, reported that patron tickets had been distributed and the usual support of local residents was anticipated.

Twenty-two new members were welcomed by Sister Berenice who described the remodeling of the entrance hall and reception room as well as the new furniture which has been added. Sister Berenice also commented upon the north wing, now in use.

Dedication

An invitation was extended to the auxiliary members and friends to attend the dedication of the new additions to the hospital on Saturday, April 26, at 2:30 p. m. His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman will officiate.

A talk on the Delaware and Hudson Canal was given by Miss Agnes Scott Smith, faculty member of the Kingston High School. Miss Smith traced the history of the canal from the time of its construction in 1828 until its closing in 1898. She recalled that streets in the city still bear names of those who were directly responsible for the canal including Wurts, Hone and McEntee streets.

The speaker contrasted the number of boats passing through the Eddyville locks in 1828, with a maximum of 15 boats daily as compared with 150 boats in 1850. The boom year of the canal was said to be 1872 when over one million tons of coal were transported.

The closing of the Rosendale Cement plants together with the speed of the railroad were given as reasons for abandoning the canal, described as "the best governed canal in the East" on November 5, 1898.

New Members

Included in the group of new auxiliary members are the Mmes. Mary Dempsey, Alice Dumond, Helen Reinhard, Kenneth Dolan, Rosalie Anderson, Marian Van Der Veer, Nancy Fox, Florence Lyons, R. A. B. Obenaus, Kelsh, Herbert Martin, George C. Rifenbary, Edward H. Remmert, Harry Kaplan, Bernard A. Culloton, Bert Bishop, Harold Reis, Albert Gruner, James Berardi, T. C. Wood, Jr., Alfred Messinger, and Miss Margaret A. Marquand.

A social hour concluded the meeting. Mrs. Andrew Murphy, III, and Mrs. Daniel H. Walter were hostesses. Mrs. Edward Dolan poured.

The practice of using the feet for kneading dough long persisted in Scotland, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

THE PRACTICAL SHOULD OVERBALANCE THE CONVENTIONAL

The following question is a very difficult one to answer: "The husband of a neighbor of mine has just died. He had been ill for a long time and I know his illness has practically drained her of their life savings. Instead of sending flowers, which are quite expensive, could I send her a check instead, or might this hurt her feelings?"

To send her money instead of flowers would be so helpful it is very hard to write against it. Therefore, if you know her very well, you could, I think, ask her, "Mary, may I send you a check instead of flowers?"

Concerning Bread and Butter Plates

Dear Mrs. Post: Last week I had some friends in to dinner. I had my table set with bread and butter plates and individual butter knives. I served hot rolls and passed them around the table along with the butter, in a butter dish, for my guests to take what they wanted to put on their own bread and butter plates. A friend of mine has criticized me for this and said that since I had bread and butter plates, I should have had the butter cut into little squares and placed on the plates. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: There is no rule about this. Either way is correct.

Where to Hang Portraits

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper to place family portraits in the living room of one's home? My sister-in-law tells me this is not fashionable. I would very much like to have your opinion.

Answer: The living room is the usual place to choose. But you may hang them wherever they look well and there is wall space. It is entirely correct to put them in the living room, drawing room, dining room or the library—or even the front hall.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to leave the paper containers around small cakes when they are served?

Answer: If you mean little fluted ones, yes, of course. But if they are not embellishing, then no!

Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel Entertains

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel was hostess to the Sisterhoods of Congregations Agudas Achim and Ahavath Israel Wednesday evening, in the social hall of the temple. Mrs. Max Maccoby, vice-chairman of family education of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, was the guest speaker.

Richard Kalish, chairman of the local Jewish Welfare Fund, gave a short resume of the purpose of the drive and asked for volunteers to assist in making it a success.

Addressing the gathering on this occasion, Mrs. Maccoby, who was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Bloom, observed that despite the difference of emphases in the various synagogues, "a common Jewish background and folk life binds us together." By repeated illustrations of custom, ceremony, attitude and mood, the speaker made a plea for ways of engendering the quality of Jewish living in the lives of the younger generation, saying that what cannot be motivated in the home must find expression in the modern family's relationship to the synagogue.

A discussion followed the talk by Mrs. Maccoby.

Mrs. Harry Gold, chairman of the committee in charge, was hostess for the evening. She was assisted by Mrs. Nathan Friedman, vice-president; Mrs. Daniel Weisberg, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Herbert Kletske.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Leone Gross, president, who urged that reservations for the public Seder be obtained through Mrs. Helen Lurie, reservation chairman.

Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Rain and Cooler Weather Due in Flooded Sectors

(By The Associated Press)

Rain and cooler weather were in prospect today for some of the flood areas in the Dakotas where hundreds are homeless by the overflows from the Missouri river and tributaries.

At Pierre, capital city of South Dakota, the Missouri threatened the worst flood in 71 years, with a possible rise to 23 or 24 feet, eight or nine feet above flood stage. Plans were made to evacuate, house and feed residents if the expected flood waters hit the city of 5,700 population.

The Missouri also was on a rampage in North Dakota and the Red river threatened. In central North Dakota some 1,000 persons were forced from their homes by the flooding Missouri.

Lowland areas in Bismarck and nearby Mandan, in North Dakota, still were inundated. Many residents were driven from their homes at Linton, 65 miles southeast of Bismarck by overflows from Beaver creek, a Missouri tributary.

The flood situation appeared easing in Sioux Falls, S. D., as the big Sioux, a Missouri tributary, continued its slow drop. About 1,100 persons were driven from their homes over the weekend by floodwaters.

The rainy weather today extended from the Dakotas and Montana southwestward over the Rocky mountains to Nevada. There were a few showers in southern California but skies were fair in other parts of the country.

Mild weather was reported from the Lake Superior region southward over the Missouri valley, the lower Mississippi valley and southern plains states. It was on the chilly side from Pennsylvania southward to northern Florida. Readings were around normal levels in other areas.

Auto Hits Pole Blocking Traffic

Traffic on Route 300 was blocked for two hours east of Wallkill after an automobile struck and broke off a utility pole at 11 p. m. Monday, state police at Highland reported.

The automobile, driven by Morris Warman, 37, of Newark, N. J., failed to make a sharp curve in the highway two miles from Wallkill, and came to rest right side up after striking the pole and continuing down the embankment, troopers said. Warman was not reported injured.

State police said the wires carried by the broken pole dropped to the highway, causing the traffic block, but did not break. Electric power service in the area was not affected.

Declares TV Makes Army of Spectators

Los Angeles, April 8 (AP)—Television is developing a nation of spectators, instead of active doers.

That comes from a leading authority on child health and recreation—Dr. Jay B. Nash, professor of education at New York University.

"I don't want kids watching things, I want them doing things," Dr. Nash told delegates yesterday at the national convention of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

He observed that a recent Crosley survey showed children spend 30 minutes more a week before a TV screen than they spend in school.

"They should be solving problems, modeling in clay, making things at a work bench, experimenting in chemistry, throwing a ball, playing a trombone, skinning a squirrel," Dr. Nash suggested.

"They should be learning skills, skills, skills. When is a person's skill-learning decade? From 4 to 14! A pattern formed in a skill during those ages is never lost. If you can skate at 6, you can skate at 60."

Dr. Nash made it plain that he does not believe TV programs are bad, or lead to gangsterism, or put other wrong ideas in the kiddies' heads. It's just that they spend too much time looking at them.

Cancer Can Be Cured

Cancer, which is wild growth of tissue, can be cured if it is removed before it spreads throughout the body, the American Cancer Society says. During the 1952 Cancer Crusade a nation-wide effort is being made to wipe out the fallacy that cancer is always incurable.

'Sin-Eaters'

In the early days of England, Scotland there were people called "sin-eaters" who would take upon themselves by means of food and drink the sins of deceased persons.

To Preach During Special Service On Good Friday

A three-hour service of devotion with meditations on the Seven Words from the Cross, will be held Good Friday, April 11, from 12 o'clock noon until 3 p. m. at the Rondout Presbyterian and Wurts Street Baptist Church, the Rev. Dr. William Carner Cain, minister, announced today.

Meditations for the day will be in charge of the Rev. Ralph Beryl Nesbitt, one of the ministers of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York.

The Rev. Mr. Nesbitt recently concluded a series of Lenten sermons on the Christian Creed which were preached at the famous "Vespers at Fifth Avenue."

In addition to the traditional Good Friday hymns for congregational use, the quartet will sing the anthems, O Come and Mourn With Me Awhile, Dykes; Is It Nothing to You, All Ye Who Pass By, Foster; and 'Tis Finished, Shaw.

Solos will include LaFarge's Before the Crucifix and the Majesty of the Divine Humilitation from Stainer's Crucifixion.

All members of the congregation and their friends are requested to participate in this sacred memorial.

Oldest Animals

Oldest living animals on the earth are the giant tortoises of the Galapagos islands. Some of them are more than four feet long, weigh nearly 400 pounds, and are said to be 300 to 400 years old.

Big Frogs

Ten-inch frogs are found in South Cameroons, Africa. Some frogs in the Solomon islands grow to be eight and one-half inches long, while the bullfrog of North America reaches a length of nearly eight inches.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

THE PRACTICAL SHOULD OVERBALANCE THE CONVENTIONAL

The following question is a very difficult one to answer: "The husband of a neighbor of mine has just died. He had been ill for a long time and I know his illness has practically drained her of their life savings. Instead of sending flowers, which are quite expensive, could I send her a check instead, or might this hurt her feelings?"

To send her money instead of flowers would be so helpful it is very hard to write against it. Therefore, if you know her very well, you could, I think, ask her, "Mary, may I send you a check instead of flowers?"

Concerning Bread and Butter Plates

Dear Mrs. Post: Last week I had some friends in to dinner. I had my table set with bread and butter plates and individual butter knives. I served hot rolls and passed them around the table along with the butter, in a butter dish, for my guests to take what they wanted to put on their own bread and butter plates. A friend of mine has criticized me for this and said that since I had bread and butter plates, I should have had the butter cut into little squares and placed on the plates. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: There is no rule about this. Either way is correct.

Where to Hang Portraits

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper to place family portraits in the living room of one's home? My sister-in-law tells me this is not fashionable. I would very much like to have your opinion.

Record Turnout Is At Flower Display For Palm Sunday

The annual Palm Sunday open house at the Valentin Burgevin, Inc., greenhouses on Pearl street attracted "well over" 5,000 visitors, Burton S. Davis, manager, reported.

The crowd was larger than ever before, Davis said. A part of the increase he attributed to the fact than many visitors had come to Kingston on Saturday for the visit of Queen Juliana and stayed overnight. Other out-of-town visitors may have been attracted from among bowlers here for the New York State Bowling Association tournament now in progress.

The firm, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary, introduced two innovations to its Palm Sunday flower showing this year. Recorded music was piped in the greenhouses, and the firm's first showroom was set up with flowers and plants.

Direct sales were greater than ever before on a Sunday, Davis revealed. A number of advance orders for Easter flowers were taken.

BOON TO WINDOW WASHERS—Window washers will ride up and down to their jobs on the 24-story Lever Brothers Building in New York. The completely air-conditioned building has sealed windows, so architects designed a trolley, above, from which is suspended an elevator which gives access to all four sides of the building. Vertical rails set into the building's side guide the car, which is under push-button control of the men riding the platform.

Tax Law Shaking

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap has called on Congress to provide money to enforce the new gambling tax law or repeal the law immediately. In fact, Dunlap said, the entire federal tax system is "balancing precariously on the brink" of collapse through lack of funds to enforce payment. Failure to enforce the gambling tax would be "the final straw," Dunlap added, and "the result will be widespread cynical contempt for all types of taxes."

Civil Service Exams

The U. S. Civil Service Commission today announced an examination scheduled for filling the positions of chemist, physicist, biologist and biochemist in the field of radioisotopes. The salary range is from $4,205 to $9,600 a year. The positions are in Veterans Administration hospitals and centers throughout the country. Information and application forms may be obtained from William P. Barry, local representative of the commission at the main post office, Kingston.

Say Harriman Is Favorite in State

Harriman, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—A group backing W. Averell Harriman claims "striking evidence" that he is New York state's "number one favorite son" for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The group met here last night. Robert J. Burkhardt, of Central Valley, chairman of the Harriman-for-President Committee, said members of his group and of the Orange County Democratic Executive Committee had met to discuss a state-wide campaign for Harriman.

Burkhardt declared:

"We are receiving increased indications that the independent voters of the state have the highest regard for Mr. Harriman. The volume of letters and telegrams urging his candidacy which we have received has more than doubled in the past few days."

Harriman, director of the European Mutual Security Program, is one of several men mentioned as possible "favorite son" choices of New York state's delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Among the others are Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and James A. Farley, former party national chairman and postmaster general.

This community was named after Harriman's family.

The American Cancer Society says the number of Americans cured of cancer last year could have been doubled through early detection and prompt treatment.

Dies After Gift

Yonkers, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—His community thought so much of John Duchinsky that it built him a home. The 36-year-old war veteran had been paralyzed by a German bullet that struck his spine during World War 2. Everyone pitched in three years ago—unions, business firms, veterans and civic groups—to provide a fine six-room house for Duchinsky and his parents. It was a happy ceremony when the gift home was presented. A different ceremony was in the making today. Duchinsky, after weeks of treatment in a veterans hospital, was dead.

Bataan Day Approved

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a resolution designating Wednesday, April 9, as Bataan Day, marking the 10th anniversary of the fall of Bataan. The measure calls for public display of the U. S. and Philippines flags, and "appropriate services" in schools and churches. The resolution, proposed by Sen. Lehman (D-Lib.-N.Y.), was approved by voice vote yesterday.

Record Turnout Is At Flower Display For Palm Sunday

The annual Palm Sunday open house at the Valentin Burgevin, Inc., greenhouses on Pearl street attracted "well over" 5,000 visitors, Burton S. Davis, manager, reported.

The crowd was larger than ever before, Davis said. A part of the increase he attributed to the fact than many visitors had come to Kingston on Saturday for the visit of Queen Juliana and stayed overnight. Other out-of-town visitors may have been attracted from among bowlers here for the New York State Bowling Association tournament now in progress.

The firm, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary, introduced two innovations to its Palm Sunday flower showing this year. Recorded music was piped in the greenhouses, and the firm's first showroom was set up with flowers and plants.

Direct sales were greater than ever before on a Sunday, Davis revealed. A number of advance orders for Easter flowers were taken.

BOON TO WINDOW WASHERS—Window washers will ride up and down to their jobs on the 24-story Lever Brothers Building in New York. Vertical rails set into the building's side guide the car, which is under push-button control of the men riding the platform.

Gets State Job

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Robert E. Robischon of Pelham, former advertising manager and counsellor, has been appointed director of the State Publicity Division in the Commerce Department. Robischon, 49, was appointed to the $12,521-a-year post yesterday. The former advertising manager for Esso Export Corp. succeeds Herbert C. Campbell, who resigned recently to open an advertising agency in Albany. The state publicity division handles publicity and advertising on New York's business and recreational opportunities.

1,400 Children Die

Rome, April 8 (AP)—"The war has not ended for Italian children," said Rome's independent newspaper Momento-Sera today, reporting that 1,400 of them were killed last year by explosions of mines and shells left by World War 2 armies.

THE LITTLE BEAR THAT BECAME FAMOUS!

They found him after a terrible forest fire in New Mexico. Just a tiny bear with burned paws, and a tear in his eye. But today that bear's name is Smokey and he is the living symbol of a great national drive to stop the shameful waste of forest fires. Won't you get behind Smokey, too, and pledge that you will be extra careful this year? Be sure to drown your campfire, crush your cigarette, break your match, use your auto ashtray . . . every time. These small things are a very important part of being a good citizen—because forest fires weaken America.

NEW ENGLAND POLITICS—What happened in 1952's first presidential primaries last month in New Hampshire turned a lot of surprised political eyes toward New England. And it stirred up politickin' around New England cracker barrels too. This typical scene is in the country store at Padanaram, near New Bedford, Mass., where they're talking about New England's only other primary, the delegate election in that state April 29. Because Massachusetts delegates traditionally run unpledged, the primary normally doesn't attract wide attention from the candidates. But after what's happened so far this year, the cracker-barrel crowd isn't counting on anything normal.

Wouldn't Defer Fathers

New York, April 8 (AP)—Becoming a father should not be a cause for automatic deferment from military service, the National Manpower Council says. The council announced yesterday it had called upon President Truman to abolish such deferments for those who become fathers after a specified future date. It made the proposal in a report on student deferment and national manpower policy. "It would indeed be unfortunate if many young men married and became fathers merely to escape military service," the [illegible] council is a non-partisan organization operated at Columbia University under a Ford Foundation grant.

Cancer Grants Reach 1,217

Since 1945 the American Cancer Society has awarded 1,217 grants to scientists to investigate the cause of cancer and to find means of controlling the disease.

Nunan Claims Illness

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Another witness subpoenaed by House tax scandal investigators reported today he was too sick to testify. That raised to half a dozen the number who asked that their scheduled appearances be put off because of illness, and Chairman King (D-Calif.) said things were assuming "epidemic proportions." Former Internal Revenue Commissioner Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., sent word through his attorney that he was in a New York hospital under doctor's orders and would be unable to appear today as scheduled before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee. King immediately dispatched a committee-appointed specialist to check on Nunan's claims.

The ancient world made extensive use of a mixture of gold and silver which was called electrum.

Gets State Job

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Robert E. Robischon of Pelham, former advertising manager and counsellor, has been appointed director of the State Publicity Division in the Commerce Department. Robischon, 49, was appointed to the $12,521-a-year post yesterday. The former advertising manager for Esso Export Corp. succeeds Herbert C. Campbell, who resigned recently to open an advertising agency in Albany. The state publicity division handles publicity and advertising on New York's business and recreational opportunities.

1,400 Children Die

Rome, April 8 (AP)—"The war has not ended for Italian children," said Rome's independent newspaper Momento-Sera today, reporting that 1,400 of them were killed last year by explosions of mines and shells left by World War 2 armies.

THE LITTLE BEAR THAT BECAME FAMOUS!

They found him after a terrible forest fire in New Mexico. Just a tiny bear with burned paws, and a tear in his eye. But today that bear's name is Smokey and he is the living symbol of a great national drive to stop the shameful waste of forest fires. Won't you get behind Smokey, too, and pledge that you will be extra careful this year? Be sure to drown your campfire, crush your cigarette, break your match, use your auto ashtray . . . every time. These small things are a very important part of being a good citizen—because forest fires weaken America.

Boy Chess Wonder

Seville, Spain (AP)—Sevillians were always proud of their bullfighters but now they claim Spain's youngest chess player, too. Andresito Garcia Quesada has not yet turned 5 and he can't read or write, but his chess playing is known throughout the country. He's the son of a local barber who taught the boy to play chess six months ago. "In seven days he learned everything I know. Since then Andresito has consistently beaten me," the barber says. Little black-eyed Andresito has defeated the top players of this city. The boy says he hopes to become world champion some day.

NEW ENGLAND POLITICS—What happened in 1952's first presidential primaries last month in New Hampshire turned a lot of surprised political eyes toward New England. And it stirred up politickin' around New England cracker barrels too. This typical scene is in the country store at Padanaram, near New Bedford, Mass., where they're talking about New England's only other primary, the delegate election in that state April 29. Because Massachusetts delegates traditionally run unpledged, the primary normally doesn't attract wide attention from the candidates. But after what's happened so far this year, the cracker-barrel crowd isn't counting on anything normal.

Wouldn't Defer Fathers

New York, April 8 (AP)—Becoming a father should not be a cause for automatic deferment from military service, the National Manpower Council says. The council announced yesterday it had called upon President Truman to abolish such deferments for those who become fathers after a specified future date. It made the proposal in a report on student deferment and national manpower policy. "It would indeed be unfortunate if many young men married and became fathers merely to escape military service," the council is a non-partisan organization operated at Columbia University under a Ford Foundation grant.

Cancer Grants Reach 1,217

Since 1945 the American Cancer Society has awarded 1,217 grants to scientists to investigate the cause of cancer and to find means of controlling the disease.

Nunan Claims Illness

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Another witness subpoenaed by House tax scandal investigators reported today he was too sick to testify. That raised to half a dozen the number who asked that their scheduled appearances be put off because of illness, and Chairman King (D-Calif.) said things were assuming "epidemic proportions." Former Internal Revenue Commissioner Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., sent word through his attorney that he was in a New York hospital under doctor's orders and would be unable to appear today as scheduled before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee. King immediately dispatched a committee-appointed specialist to check on Nunan's claims.

The ancient world made extensive use of a mixture of gold and silver which was called electrum.

PINBUSTING CREW THAT LEADS STATE TOURNAMENT

Must Beat 1363-733 In Doubles, Singles

Firmly entrenched in the five-man standings of the state bowling tournament, Kingston sharpshooters set their sights on the minor events titles in their next assault on the alleys, Wednesday and Thursday at the Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

The cream of the local crop will be in action those two days.

But in the singles, doubles and all-events, the city's "Who's Who" will find towering totals already posted on the beautiful scoreboard at the Bowlatorium.

Joe Sweeney, of New York, boosted the gross singles lead to 733 on a late Sunday squad, while Nick Svercheck, also of the Met district, has 695 in the net singles.

Sweeney reeled off 622 net and had 111 handicap. In his 695 net, Svercheck powered 236, 223 and 236.

Starts Wednesday

The initial firing in singles and doubles is scheduled Wednesday at 8:15 p. m., with 14 tandems on the line. Thursday night is "All-Major Night," with Johnny Ferraro leading the field. Ferraro is paired with his son, Jackie.

Other top local threats are Larry Weishaupt and Joe Schrowang; Clifton Quick and Randy Kelder; Hod Spaulding and Ken Williams; Charlie Manfro and Harold Broskie; John Bailey and Charlie Gildersleeve. The surprise in the minor events setup is the absence of Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer. Lew Hymes and George Robinson rate consideration as do Ad Jones and Harry Smith.

The local schedule:

(Wednesday, April 9)

8:15 p. m.

Joseph Nagy-Frank Norman.
Frank Grimaldi-Frank Spada.
Jack Parslow-Stan Colvin.
Sam Moss-J. Quigley.
Tarzan Spada-John Sangi.
Jimmy Amendola-Buster Ferraro.
Craig Plough-Roland Post.
Ed McCaffrey-Tom Graham.
John Fatum-Bill Pieper.
J. Rowland-Bill Thiel.
John Bailey-Charlie Gildersleeve.
Bill Lawrence-Chris Gallo.
Joe Bosco-Bill Hamilton.

(Thursday, April 10)

8:15 p. m.

Joe Sangi-Frank Leskie.
Mike Provenzano-Herb Van Deusen.
Ralph Garafola-Norm Niles.
Peter Keresman-Charles Tiano.
Leo Bechtold-Ken Radel.
Clifton Quick-Randy Kelder.
Larry Weishaupt-Joe Schrowang.
Charlie Manfro-Harold Broskie.
John Ferraro, Sr.-John Ferraro, Jr.
Larry Peterson-Chris Robinson.

Len Stauble-Ted Gile, Jr.
Ted Gile, Sr.-Ernie Bartroff.

SECOND PLACE TEAM IN STATE BOWLING TOURNAMENT

The Alpine squad rests in second place in both the net and gross divisions of the five-man shooting in the New York state tournament. They fird 3243 and 3075 to trail the pace setting Fromer Amocos. The team personnel, left to right: Fred Schryver, Tarzan Spada, Ken Joseph John Sangi and Frank "Boots" Leskie who set the pace with a towering 684. (Freeman Photo).

Report Willie Mays Will Be Deferred

New York, April 8 (AP)—The Daily News said today it has learned exclusively that Willie Mays, centerfielder of the New York Giants, may be deferred from the draft on the grounds of being a "hardship case."

The News said it had learned that Mays, last season's "rookie of the year," is scheduled for a special hearing tomorrow before the Alabama State draft board in Birmingham.

Since Mays is the main support of a family of nine, the News said, the Giants' outfielder may be deferred from service.

Mays is scheduled to be inducted into the armed forces May 16. His loss, plus the injury of Monte Irvin, who suffered a broken ankle last week, is a big blow to New York's pennant hopes.

Curt Simmons Discharge Near

New Brunswick, N. J., April 8 (AP)—Sgt. Curt Simmons starts down the army's mustering-out production line today with his interrupted baseball career waiting at the other end.

The 22-year-old southpaw ace will rejoin the Philadelphia Phillies as soon as he can complete his Army discharge and come to contract terms with Philadelphia owner Bob Carpenter.

Simmons flew back to the U. S. yesterday from Germany, where he had been serving with the 28th Infantry Division.

"When you've laid off as long as I have," said Simmons a little grimly, "the old control ain't what it used to be."

"I won't really know how long it will take me to get in condition until I actually start to work. It's the legs you have to work on."

The young hurler appeared a little on the heavy side and admitted he tipped the scales at 190. He hastened to add that he "had filled out a lot and can carry 185 to 190 pounds without any trouble at all."

Just how long it will be before Simmons starts training for the coming National League grind wasn't clear. It could take three days to turn him back into a civilian—or he could be pushed through in 24 hours.

Banquet Speaker

FRANK McGUIRE

Coach Frank McGuire of St. John's College basketball team will be the principal speaker at the annual Church Basketball League banquet, tonight at 7 o'clock at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

One of the country's best known "young coaches" McGuire piloted the Redmen to a 23-4 record this season. The club reached the NCAA finals.

McGuire spent several years of his youth in the Wilbur section of the city.

The banquet is being held on schedule, but a triple tie among top teams has delayed the playoffs for the 1951-52 title. The teams involved are Salvation Army B, St. Mary's A, St. Joseph's B.

Giants Take Long Shot on Wakefield; Al Lopez Believes He Can Click

Houston, Tex., April 8 (AP)—The Dick Wakefield story enters a new chapter today, perhaps the last.

Wakefield, baseball's so-called "problem child," has received another opportunity to prove he belongs in the major leagues.

The New York Giants, in dire straits due to the loss of outfielder Monte Irvin with a broken ankle and the impending induction of flychaser Willie Mays, will give Wakefield a "try out."

Manager Leo Durocher said today Wakefield "will play in the outfield someplace. I don't know, I just want to look him over and see what he's got."

Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, said:

"He can help the Giants, if he really wants to play."

Dick was the first of the big bonus babies. He received around $55,000 and a new automobile when signed by the Detroit Tigers in 1941 while attending the University of Michigan.

Wakefield started off in grand style. He led the Texas League in hitting with Beaumont in 1942 and batted .316 in his first season with Detroit in 1943.

The following season found Wakefield in the Navy but he was released in mid-season and almost slugged Detroit to the 1944 pennant, belting .355 in 78 games.

Nomadic Player

The potential star was called back into the Navy in 1945 but returned to Detroit in 1946 and has been a problem ever since.

Detroit traded Wakefield to the Yanks. He held out in the spring and the Yanks traded him to the Chicago White Sox shortly after the start of the season.

Chicago called the deal off when Wakefield demanded a $5,500 salary increase but former Commissioner A. B. Chandler voided the deal and the stormy petrel returned to the Yanks.

The Yanks finally sold him to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League. He was released by Oakland in 1951 and since has been without a job.

Perhaps Durocher is the man that can light a fire under Wakefield and tap his potential power.

The meeting of the Hurley Rod and Gun Club, scheduled Thursday, April 10, at the Hurley church basement, has been postponed until Thursday, April 17.

Jones' Comeback Stirs Phillies; Homers Feature Grapefruit Loop

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Sock a ballplayer where it hurts most—in the pocket book,—to make him toe the line," is an oft-proved adage.

Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones, the fine third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, is the latest example that there's plenty of truth in the old saying.

Jones was fined $200 by Manager Eddie Sawyer on March 17 for breaking training rules. Since then, Willie has been a ball of fire both afield and at the plate.

The "new" Jones has been especially hard on the St. Louis Cardinals.

He has smashed three home runs in the last four days against the Redbirds. Friday he clouted a two-run homer in Steve Ridzik's 3-0 no-hit triumph and fielded brilliantly.

Saturday he socked another two-run four-bagger in the Phils' 9-4 romp. Sunday he failed to hit in the Phils' 9-8 victory but starred again yesterday, as the Phils made it four straight over the Cards with a 5-4 triumph at Raleigh, N. C. Willie homered in the eighth to launch a three-run rally that won the game. Catcher Del Rice slammed a pair of homers to keep the Cards in the game.

Home runs also were plentiful at High Point, N. C., where the Philadelphia Athletics outlasted the Boston Red Sox, 12-6. Eight homers were hit with Joe Astroth, Gus Zernial and Allie Clark connecting for the A's and Dom DiMaggio, Vern Stephens, Billy Goodman, Jim Piersall and Faye Throneberry for the Sox.

Dodgers Swamp Braves

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost a 1-0 no-hitter to the Braves Sunday, pounded out 11 hits to swamp the Boston Braves, 8-4, at Lynchburg, Va.

Rookie Bill Miller and veteran Joe Ostrowski almost turned in the spring's fourth no-hit, no-run game. The lefthanders pitched the New York Yankees to a 8-0, one-hit victory over the Columbus Cardinals of the Class "A" South Atlantic League at Columbus, Ga. Bill Harris singled in the sixth to spoil the bid.

The Cleveland Indians smeared the New York Giants, 813, at San Antonio, Tex., for their ninth win in 11 starts against the National League champions. The Indians' Bob Kennedy hit a grand-slam homer.

Chicago's Cubs came up with seven runs in the fourth and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 8-6, at Shreveport, La. Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winner, was the victim of the big blast.

The Washington Senators edged the Cincinnati Reds, 8-7, at Roanoke, Va., thanks to rookie pitcher Raoul Sanchez. Sanchez took over in the ninth with none out, two runs in and two on, and retired the side.

In night games, the Chicago White Sox nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, at New Orleans and the Detroit Tigers nipped Atlanta of the Southern Association, 10-9, in ten innings at Atlanta.

Seek Candidates For Twi-League

The City Baseball League will accept applications for the important post of secretary-treasurer at its next meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the city court room at city hall. The league would also like to hear from all prospective umpires and groundkeepers. Joe Messinger, secretary in 1951, has announced his resignation because of business reasons.

Youthful Team Steals ABC Show

Milwaukee, April 8 (AP)—A 904-average team, the Crescent Florals, Grand Rapids, Mich., stole the show from such name bowlers as John Small, Joe Wilman, Joe Norris and Bill Kenet last night by posting a new team high game of 1,092 in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The "youngsters" were paced by Jimmy Busch, 26, who put together eight straight strikes for a 267 single. Busch, who works in a bowling alley, has been bowling only five years. This was his second ABC tournament. He shoots only two nights a week. His high series is 715 and high game 289.

The team totaled 2,852 on games of 855, 1,092 and 905 in pacing the night's final squad.

Segura No. 1

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 8 (AP)—Pancho Segura, the Ecuadorian with the blazing forehand, has been seeded number one in the $5,000 World Hardcourt Professional tennis championships opening Saturday. The colorful Segura tops the seedings released by tournament Manager Frank Feltrop who announced that because of the large entry list the play starts two days ahead of the original schedule.

Saturday he socked another two-run four-bagger in the Phils' 9-4 romp. Sunday he failed to hit in the Phils' 9-8 victory but starred again yesterday, as the Phils made it four straight over the Cards with a 5-4 triumph at Raleigh, N. C. Willie homered in the eighth to launch a three-run rally that won the game. Catcher Del Rice slammed a pair of homers to keep the Cards in the game.

Home runs also were plentiful at High Point, N. C., where the Philadelphia Athletics outlasted the Boston Red Sox, 12-6. Eight homers were hit with Joe Astroth, Gus Zernial and Allie Clark connecting for the A's and Dom DiMaggio, Vern Stephens, Billy Goodman, Jim Piersall and Faye Throneberry for the Sox.

Dodgers Swamp Braves

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who lost a 1-0 no-hitter to the Braves Sunday, pounded out 11 hits to swamp the Boston Braves, 8-4, at Lynchburg, Va.

Rookie Bill Miller and veteran Joe Ostrowski almost turned in the spring's fourth no-hit, no-run game. The lefthanders pitched the New York Yankees to a 8-0, one-hit victory over the Columbus Cardinals of the Class "A" South Atlantic League at Columbus, Ga. Bill Harris singled in the sixth to spoil the bid.

The Cleveland Indians smeared the New York Giants, 813, at San Antonio, Tex., for their ninth win in 11 starts against the National League champions. The Indians' Bob Kennedy hit a grand-slam homer.

Chicago's Cubs came up with seven runs in the fourth and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 8-6, at Shreveport, La. Ned Garver, the Browns' 20-game winner, was the victim of the big blast.

The Washington Senators edged the Cincinnati Reds, 8-7, at Roanoke, Va., thanks to rookie pitcher Raoul Sanchez. Sanchez took over in the ninth with none out, two runs in and two on, and retired the side.

In night games, the Chicago White Sox nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, at New Orleans and the Detroit Tigers nipped Atlanta of the Southern Association, 10-9, in ten innings at Atlanta.

Seek Candidates For Twi-League

The City Baseball League will accept applications for the important post of secretary-treasurer at its next meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the city court room at city hall. The league would also like to hear from all prospective umpires and groundkeepers. Joe Messinger, secretary in 1951, has announced his resignation because of business reasons.

Curt Simmons Discharge Near

New Brunswick, N. J., April 8 (AP)—Sgt. Curt Simmons starts down the army's mustering-out production line today with his interrupted baseball career waiting at the other end.

The 22-year-old southpaw ace will rejoin the Philadelphia Phillies as soon as he can complete his Army discharge and come to contract terms with Philadelphia owner Bob Carpenter.

Simmons flew back to the U. S. yesterday from Germany, where he had been serving with the 28th Infantry Division.

He stopped off at his home in Egypt, Pa., last night and gave a cautious appraisal of his playing condition.

"When you've laid off as long as I have," said Simmons a little grimly, "the old control ain't what it used to be."

"I won't really know how long it will take me to get in condition until I actually start to work. It's the legs you have to work on."

The young hurler appeared a little on the heavy side and admitted he tipped the scales at 190. He hastened to add that he "had filled out a lot and can carry 185 to 190 pounds without any trouble at all."

Just how long it will be before Simmons starts training for the coming National League grind wasn't clear. It could take three days to turn him back into a civilian—or he could be pushed through in 24 hours.

Youthful Team Steals ABC Show

Milwaukee, April 8 (AP)—A 904-average team, the Crescent Florals, Grand Rapids, Mich., stole the show from such name bowlers as John Small, Joe Wilman, Joe Norris and Bill Kenet last night by posting a new team high game of 1,092 in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The "youngsters" were paced by Jimmy Busch, 26, who put together eight straight strikes for a 267 single. Busch, who works in a bowling alley, has been bowling only five years. This was his second ABC tournament. He shoots only two nights a week. His high series is 715 and high game 289.

The team totaled 2,852 on games of 855, 1,092 and 905 in pacing the night's final squad.

Segura No. 1

Beverly Hills, Calif., April 8 (AP)—Pancho Segura, the Ecuadorian with the blazing forehand, has been seeded number one in the $5,000 World Hardcourt Professional tennis championships opening Saturday. The colorful Segura tops the seedings released by tournament Manager Frank Feltrop who announced that because of the large entry list the play starts two days ahead of the original schedule.

Banquet Speaker

FRANK McGUIRE

Coach Frank McGuire of St. John's College basketball team will be the principal speaker at the annual Church Basketball League banquet, tonight at 7 o'clock at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

One of the country's best known "young coaches" McGuire piloted the Redmen to a 23-4 record this season. The club reached the NCAA finals.

McGuire spent several years of his youth in the Wilbur section of the city.

The banquet is being held on schedule, but a triple tie among top teams has delayed the playoffs for the 1951-52 title. The teams involved are Salvation Army B, St. Mary's A, St. Joseph's B.

Giants Take Long Shot on Wakefield; Al Lopez Believes He Can Click

Houston, Tex., April 8 (AP)—The Dick Wakefield story enters a new chapter today, perhaps the last.

Wakefield, baseball's so-called "problem child," has received another opportunity to prove he belongs in the major leagues.

The New York Giants, in dire straits due to the loss of outfielder Monte Irvin with a broken ankle and the impending induction of flychaser Willie Mays, will give Wakefield a "try out."

Manager Leo Durocher said today Wakefield "will play in the outfield someplace. I don't know, I just want to look him over and see what he's got."

Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, said:

"He can help the Giants, if he really wants to play."

Dick was the first of the big bonus babies. He received around $55,000 and a new automobile when signed by the Detroit Tigers in 1941 while attending the University of Michigan.

Wakefield started off in grand style. He led the Texas League in hitting with Beaumont in 1942 and batted .316 in his first season with Detroit in 1943.

The following season found Wakefield in the Navy but he was released in mid-season and almost slugged Detroit to the 1944 pennant, belting .355 in 78 games.

Nomadic Player

The potential star was called back into the Navy in 1945 but returned to Detroit in 1946 and has been a problem ever since.

Detroit traded Wakefield to the Yanks. He held out in the spring and the Yanks traded him to the Chicago White Sox shortly after the start of the season.

Chicago called the deal off when Wakefield demanded a $5,500 salary increase but former Commissioner A. B. Chandler voided the deal and the stormy petrel returned to the Yanks.

The Yanks finally sold him to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League. He was released by Oakland in 1951 and since has been without a job.

General Manager Hank Greenberg gave the 29-year-old outfielder another chance this spring but he failed to stick.

Perhaps Durocher is the man that can light a fire under Wakefield and tap his potential power.

When Snook Bite, You're Busy

By AL McLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Bounce Anderson, the gent who masterminds the West Palm Beach Fishing Club, roused me out of bed the other day for a little snook fishing. Of course, anybody who's fished for snook knows that staying in bed is usually more profitable, but the waters pouring into Lake Worth are full of "Spanish bass."

We had drawn a complete blank, even with an armada of three, the last time out. We had set sail among the cocoa palms at a time when snook should have been knocking themselves out on surface plugs, but the best we could muster was two minor engagements—won by two midget snook.

But Bounce is one of those indefatigables who insists "you should be here next week," so what happened the next time was the result of waiting around.

● Snook Is Lake Worth's Prize Catch:

Lake Worth is a salt-water enlargement of the inland water-way adjacent to the Palm Beaches. Record fish of all kinds have been taken in this pond, but the local light-tackle addicts specialize in snook, channel bass, sea trout and ladyfish. There's nothing fancy about this kind of fishing; all you need is some kind of casting rod, patience, and a boat. We rented a fancy outboard for five bucks and ten minutes later we were on the snook grounds in the north end of Lake Worth.

Bounce steered us close to a mangrove-smothered island, and there began one of the wildest casting sessions I've ever had. Snook are very smart—most days they just lay around thinking. I suppose they think about some other snook, because they don't give much thought to fishermen. But this morning all they could think about was eating and quick as a plug dropped by the mangrove roots, a fat snook sucked it under.

● The Local Sage Was Right:

Once in a while we'd hit a lady-fish—a long, silvery aerialist with a fast change of pace. But most of the time there were black-striped bombshells exploding under the mangroves. Doubleheaders were common. Toward noon we made passes at the lunch box, but it's awfully hard to eat when the fish are biting.

The fish we caught were small—my biggest was a 12-pounder—but most of them ran from two to five pounds. As the Florida weather warms up through April and May, the snook will run much larger—up to 35 pounds.

I'd hate to think what might happen then, because most of the fishing is done at night. We'd probably starve to death. Anyhow, I was there "next week" and for once I can report, the local sage was right.

Al Roosa's 595 Leads Keglers

Al Roosa's 595, with solos of 190, 202 and 203, led heavy firing in the Tavern Association last night, when 35 keglers rolled "500" or better and 11 were over 540.

Runnerup John Berardi shot 205-208-587 and Ferrell McElrath had 226-586 for place and show. J. J. Provenzano toppled 213-584; Henry Harder 201-569; Jack Dawkins 223-568; W. Sickler 213-557.

Other tall topplers included Aubrey Berry 215-549; W. Conlin 548; Joe Messinger 547; Bill Johnson 214-541; Joe Heidcamp 201-537; Eltinge Auchmoody 537; Joe Enright and D. Costello 532; Lou Nardi and W. Struble 220-531; Charlie Kershaw 214-528; Don Gavis 525.

The stiff tournament conditions at the Ferraro Bowlodrome were reflected in the low scoring session of the City Minor League. Chris Robinson's 597 series led the pack and only 16 "500" series were recorded.

Robinson fired games of 192-236-169-597 and Joe Watzka had 222-559; Harry Dart 219-200-553; Joe Spadafore 200-208-550; Jack Tremper 542; Harry Peterson 201-542; Jack Watzka 530; Harry Baltz 518.

Dot LaRocca reeled off a 487 count on scores of 171, 136, 180 to set the pace in the Pioneer Women's League. Nine pins behind was T. Fondino with 478. D. Myers posted 466, E. Houghtaling 412, R. Amearello 408, Neil Glennon 404 and Fritzi Davis 400.

Jessie Burnett's 443 and a 408 by Betty Lindhurst were the best scores in the Senior and Junior divisions of the BYA League. Mrs. Burnett clicked for 142-146-155-443 on the state tournament conditions, while Fritizi Davis had 441, Nell Glennon 436, Nellie Alverson and Edith Hungerford 402. Lindhurst toppled 143-143-122.

Knicks 5½ Point Choice In Eastern Playoffs

New York, April 8 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers are 5½-point favorites to whip the Syracuse Nationals tonight and gain the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The New Yorkers, leading the best of five semi-final series, 2-1, will be gunning for their 23rd straight victory at home, a streak which dates back to Nov. 19.

The victor of this heated, foul-filled series will meet the Minneapolis Lakers, Western Division playoff winners, in a best of seven series for the top prize money of $7,500. The loser in the final round gets $5,000.

The Knickerbockers are in tip-top condition for tonight's tilt in the 69th Regiment Armory, but Syracuse will be without the services of Bullet Bill Gabor, who suffered a broken collarbone in last Saturday's slugfest.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Houston, Tex., April 8 (AP)—Max Lanier, counted on for "spot" pitching or the New York Giants' fourth starter, is having a rough time getting on the beam.

The former top lefthander of the St. Louis Cardinals was pounded hard for the third straight time yesterday as the Giants dropped a 8-3 decision to Cleveland at San Antonio. The Indians ambushed Lanier for six runs in the first inning, with Bob Kennedy supplying the punch with a grand-slam homer.

Charlotte, N. C., April 8 (AP)—Bill Miller, rookie New York Yankee lefthander, has just about assured himself a job with the world champs this season.

Miller allowed one hit in seven innings yesterday as the Yanks defeated Columbus of the Sally League, 8-0. Miller has given up only 15 hits and two runs in 25 innings.

Richmond, Va., April 8 (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers thinks that bonus pitcher Billy Loes will be of some help to the Brooks this year.

"He might win some games for us," Dressen said today. "He's been firing the ball hard ever since his arm lost that stiffness and he has a heck of a curve."

Roanoke, Va., April 8 (AP)—Bobo Newsom, up from the minors for his fifth tour with the Washington Senators, checked in with Manager Bucky Harris and said he is ready.

Held for Assault

Michael Milano, 28, of 224 Foxhall avenue, was arrested yesterday on a third degree assault charge by his wife Florence Milano. He pleaded guilty when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today and imposition of sentence was postponed for two weeks. Police received a call to the Foxhall avenue address at 5:02 p. m., and officers Frank Sammons and Walter Fitzgerald were dispatched there. The information charges that the defendant struck his wife with his fists. He was paroled pending the date of sentence.

½ UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League

New York—(NEA)—Q. How old was Honus Wagner when he finally quit playing big league baseball?

Beans Reardon

A. The Flying Dutchman, who recently celebrated his 78th birthday, was 43 when he turned in his last game at Pittsburgh.

Q. Yogi Berra won the American League's Most Valuable Player award in 1951 batting .294 and driving in 88 runs. How does this compare with others who won the honor in the past?

A. Not too high. Ty Cobb and George Sisler both batted .420 in winning the award; Babe Ruth won without a single dissenting vote in 1923; Lou Gehrig hit .373 and drove in 173 runs; Jimmy Foxx and Hank Greenberg each hit 58 homers and drove in 175 runs or better in award-winning years.

Q. Who holds the lifetime big league record for bases on balls?

A. Babe Ruth, with 2056. Mel Ott is next, with 1708. The Babe led the American League in walks for 11 years; Ott topped the National wheel for six seasons.

Ten Days in Jail

Joseph Levine, 42, of 2807 Surf avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Saugerties, after he pleaded guilty this morning to a disorderly conduct charge. Levine was arrested by Cpl. Bernard Herron of the Kingston state police substation, who accused him of loitering near some tourist cabins on Route 9W near the village of Saugerties, early this morning.

When Snook Bite, You're Busy

By AL McLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Bounce Anderson, the gent who masterminds the West Palm Beach Fishing Club, roused me out of bed the other day for a little snook fishing. Of course, anybody who's fished for snook knows that staying in bed is usually more profitable, but the waters pouring into Lake Worth are full of "Spanish bass."

We had drawn a complete blank, even with an armada of three, the last time out. We had set sail among the cocoa palms at a time when snook should have been knocking themselves out on surface plugs, but the best we could muster was two minor engagements—won by two midget snook.

But Bounce is one of those indefatigables who insists "you should be here next week," so what happened the next time was the result of waiting around.

● Snook Is Lake Worth's Prize Catch:

Lake Worth is a salt-water enlargement of the inland water-way adjacent to the Palm Beaches. Record fish of all kinds have been taken in this pond, but the local light-tackle addicts specialize in snook, channel bass, sea trout and ladyfish. There's nothing fancy about this kind of fishing; all you need is some kind of casting rod, patience, and a boat. We rented a fancy outboard for five bucks and ten minutes later we were on the snook grounds in the north end of Lake Worth.

Bounce steered us close to a mangrove-smothered island, and there began one of the wildest casting sessions I've ever had. Snook are very smart—most days they just lay around thinking. I suppose they think about some other snook, because they don't give much thought to fishermen. But this morning all they could think about was eating and quick as a plug dropped by the mangrove roots, a fat snook sucked it under.

● The Local Sage Was Right:

Once in a while we'd hit a lady-fish—a long, silvery aerialist with a fast change of pace. But most of the time there were black-striped bombshells exploding under the mangroves. Doubleheaders were common. Toward noon we made passes at the lunch box, but it's awfully hard to eat when the fish are biting.

The fish we caught were small—my biggest was a 12-pounder—but most of them ran from two to five pounds. As the Florida weather warms up through April and May, the snook will run much larger—up to 35 pounds.

I'd hate to think what might happen then, because most of the fishing is done at night. We'd probably starve to death. Anyhow, I was there "next week" and for once I can report, the local sage was right.

Al Roosa's 595 Leads Keglers

Al Roosa's 595, with solos of 190, 202 and 203, led heavy firing in the Tavern Association last night, when 35 keglers rolled "500" or better and 11 were over 540.

Runnerup John Berardi shot 205-208-587 and Ferrell McElrath had 226-586 for place and show. J. J. Provenzano toppled 213-584; Henry Harder 201-569; Jack Dawkins 223-568; W. Sickler 213-557.

Other tall topplers included Aubrey Berry 215-549; W. Conlin-548; Joe Messinger 547; Bill Johnson 214-541; Joe Heidcamp 201-537; Eltinge Auchmoody 537; Joe Enright and D. Costello 532; Lou Nardi and W. Struble 220-531; Charlie Kershaw 214-528; Don Gavis 525.

The stiff tournament conditions at the Ferraro Bowlodrome were reflected in the low scoring session of the City Minor League. Chris Robinson's 597 series led the pack and only 16 "500" series were recorded.

Robinson fired games of 192-236-169-597 and Joe Watzka had 222-559; Harry Dart 219-200-553; Joe Spadafore 200-208-550; Jack Tremper 542; Harry Peterson 201-542; Jack Watzka 530; Harry Baltz 518.

Dot LaRocca reeled off a 487 count on scores of 171, 136, 180 to set the pace in the Pioneer Women's League. Nine pins behind was T. Fondino with 478. D. Myers posted 466, E. Houghtaling 412, R. Amearello 408, Neil Glennon 404 and Fritzi Davis 400.

Jessie Burnett's 443 and a 408 by Betty Lindhurst were the best scores in the Senior and Junior divisions of the BYA League. Mrs. Burnett clicked for 142-146-155-443 on the state tournament conditions, while Fritzi Davis had 441, Nell Glennon 436, Nellie Alverson and Edith Hungerford 402. Lindhurst toppled 143-143-122.

Knicks 5½ Point Choice In Eastern Playoffs

New York, April 8 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers are 5½-point favorites to whip the Syracuse Nationals tonight and gain the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The New Yorkers, leading the best of five semi-final series, 2-1, will be gunning for their 23rd straight victory at home, a streak which dates back to Nov. 19.

The victor of this heated, foul-filled series will meet the Minneapolis Lakers, Western Division playoff winners, in a best of seven series for the top prize money of $7,500. The loser in the final round gets $5,000.

The Knickerbockers are in tip-top condition for tonight's tilt in the 69th Regiment Armory, but Syracuse will be without the services of Bullet Bill Gabor, who suffered a broken collarbone in last Saturday's slugfest.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Houston, Tex., April 8 (AP)—Max Lanier, counted on for "spot" pitching or the New York Giants' fourth starter, is having a rough time getting on the beam.

The former top lefthander of the St. Louis Cardinals was pounded hard for the third straight time yesterday as the Giants dropped a 8-3 decision to Cleveland at San Antonio. The Indians ambushed Lanier for six runs in the first inning, with Bob Kennedy supplying the punch with a grand-slam homer.

Charlotte, N. C., April 8 (AP)—Bill Miller, rookie New York Yankee lefthander, has just about assured himself a job with the world champs this season.

Miller allowed one hit in seven innings yesterday as the Yanks defeated Columbus of the Sally League, 8-0. Miller has given up only 15 hits and two runs in 25 innings.

Richmond, Va., April 8 (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers thinks that bonus pitcher Billy Loes will be of some help to the Brooks this year.

"He might win some games for us," Dressen said today. "He's been firing the ball hard ever since his arm lost that stiffness and he has a heck of a curve."

Roanoke, Va., April 8 (AP)—Bobo Newsom, up from the minors for his fifth tour with the Washington Senators, checked in with Manager Bucky Harris and said he is ready.

Harris welcomed the 42-year-old pitcher but had no comment.

Held for Assault

Michael Milano, 28, of 224 Foxhall avenue, was arrested yesterday on a third degree assault charge by his wife Florence Milano. He pleaded guilty when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today and imposition of sentence was postponed for two weeks. Police received a call to the Foxhall avenue address at 5:02 p. m., and officers Frank Sammons and Walter Fitzgerald were dispatched there. The information charges that the defendant struck his wife with his fists. He was paroled pending the date of sentence.

½ UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League

New York—(NEA)—Q. How old was Honus Wagner when he finally quit playing big league baseball?

Beans Reardon

A. The Flying Dutchman, who recently celebrated his 78th birthday, was 43 when he turned in his last game at Pittsburgh.

Q. Yogi Berra won the American League's Most Valuable Player award in 1951 batting .294 and driving in 88 runs. How does this compare with others who won the honor in the past?

A. Not too high. Ty Cobb and George Sisler both batted .420 in winning the award; Babe Ruth won without a single dissenting vote in 1923; Lou Gehrig hit .373 and drove in 173 runs; Jimmy Foxx and Hank Greenberg each hit 58 homers and drove in 175 runs or better in award-winning years.

Q. Who holds the lifetime big league record for bases on balls?

A. Babe Ruth, with 2056. Mel Ott is next, with 1708. The Babe led the American League in walks for 11 years; Ott topped the National wheel for six seasons.

Ten Days in Jail

Joseph Levine, 42, of 2807 Surf avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Saugerties, after he pleaded guilty this morning to a disorderly conduct charge. Levine was arrested by Cpl. Bernard Herron of the Kingston state police substation, who accused him of loitering near some tourist cabins on Route 9W near the village of Saugerties, early this morning.

Barley Improved

J. Haviland Barley of 116 Hurley avenue is reported much improved at the Benedictine Hospital where he underwent an operation last Saturday.

from the cellar of the Thompson home and it was not until several hours after the alleged assault that it was discovered. Swinton hitch-hiked to New York and then traveled to Florida and out west, using the name of Keele at times. He returned to Brooklyn to visit friends and was arrested there.

Thompson never fully recovered from the wounds he suffered in the attack.

14 Are Arraigned

There were 14 arraignments under sealed indictments Monday afternoon at the opening of County court. Louis G. Bruhn also has 31 criminal cases on the regular calendar.

Araignments were:

Frank Mancuso and Theodore Aposporos, who were indicted for grand larceny, first degree in connection with a robbery at the Highland diner. A third man, Edward Gibson of Red Hook, has already been arraigned on the same charge for a part in the job. The act is alleged to have been committed on January 22. Mancuso and Aposporos both entered innocent pleas and bail was continued.

Charles Palmateer, Jr., charged with burglary, third degree, for an alleged burglary of a gas station at Highland, was represented by Howard C. St. John. A plea of innocent was entered, bail was continued and 10 days were granted for further motions.

Earl Roy Decker, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, growing out of the same gas station entry, entered a plea of innocent. James G. Connelly appeared for Decker.

Five Youths Face Judge

Five youths, all charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, arising out of a series of entries in various parts of the county over a period of several months, were arraigned and entered pleas of innocent to being youthful offenders. Their cases will be disposed of under that statute. These lads are Otis Benton Smith, represented by Cook & Cook; John W. O'Dell, Jr., represented by John Bonomi; Walter Edward Ingham, represented by Benjamin Lonstein; Willis C. Quick, Jr., represented by A. A. Davis, Jr., and Delbert Avery, represented by Robert Stapleton.

Kenneth Stowell of Connecticut, was arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm in violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4 of the Penal Law. He was picked up by state police in a car. He claimed the gun had been left in the car and he did not own it. A plea of innocent was entered.

Alfred Seth Reed and Dominick Amereno, both represented by Hugh Elwyn, were arraigned on a charge of burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, arising out of an entry to a mountain house in the town of Woodstock. They will be treated under the Youthful Offender statute. The act took place on February 10, 1952.

Ernest Osterhoudt of Kingston, charged with driving while intoxicated as a second offender, had M. A. Weishaupt, Jr., assigned after Thomas Saccomon was relieved of an assignment which had been made in City court.

Theodore W. Nelson, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry at Kerhonkson, entered a plea of innocent to being a Youthful Offender and his case will be disposed of under that statute. Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appeared for Nelson.

Woman Pleads Innocent

Margaret Harvey, Kingston, was arraigned on a charge of violation of section 483, Sub. 1, of the Penal Law, the act growing out of the death of a small child who it is alleged had been neglected and suffered from malnutrition. She entered a plea of innocent, bail was continued and the case set down for April 4. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant. Her husband, similarly indicted, had previously been arraigned.

Minnie Hill, charged with abduction and violation of section 483, had her case put over to April 14. Mrs. Hill resides in the town of Gardiner. Victor Tompkins, 20, who is charged with rape as a misdemeanor, and is involved in the Hill case, was assigned counsel and his case put over to April 14. He was also remanded to custody of the sheriff. Hubert Richter was assigned as attorney to Tompkins. The act is alleged to have taken place on May 19, 1951.

Quick Promises to Work

Wilson Quick, town of Shandaken, who has been in jail on a charge of being a disorderly person in that he failed to provide for his family, appeared in court. Quick was sentenced to six months in jail when he failed to provide a $500 bond to guarantee support of his family. He has been in jail since January 9. Judge Cashin suspended the balance of the jail sentence when Quick was offered a job. Quick promised to go to work and support his family.

William Bellemare, Ellenville, charged with grand larceny, first degree, for the taking of a station wagon which later was involved in an accident, entered a plea of guilty to one count of the bill. He was represented by Kirtland Snyder. Bellemare said he was intoxicated at the time and did not remember the act. He has been in jail 75 days and imposition of sentence was suspended. He left, stating he would get a job and get out of the copnty. He comes from New York and was employed at the Grand Hotel, Ellenville, at the time of the act.

Other criminal cases were moved over to April 14 for disposition. Court recessed until 10 a. m. today.

Scalping

The custom of taking scalps from victims in war was originally practiced by only a few tribes of American Indians but was spread to others by the practice of white governments which offered bounties for scalps.

PURR-PLEXING PROBLEM—Cats, lots of 'em. Two jaguar babies, a leopard infant, and a slightly wistful tiger cub, right, are cluttering up the office of the Cleveland, Ohio, zoo. It's the only place for zoo babies before they can fend for themselves. Janet Sommer, left, and Mrs. L. H. Bernhardt say business is business, and kittens are going too fur. The babies must move out.

'Picket' Adds Support

Telephone operator Mrs. Robert Brown and her dog, "Picket," join the line of strikers at the Belleville, N. J., exchange as switchboard workers went out on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. Some 10,000 operators were reported out in New Jersey, along with other strikers in Michigan, Ohio and California. (NEA Telephoto).

WHITFIELD

Whitfield, April 8—The Willing Workers will meet at the home of Mrs. Edsell Osterhoudt at 2 p. m. Thursday, April 10. All members are urged to attend.

A. Kagen, who recently underwent an operation in a New York hospital, is convalescing at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray and son, Gordon, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hornbeck.

Mrs. Clyde Churchwell of Wawarsing visited her sister, Mrs. Robert Roosa, Monday night.

Mrs. Joseph Avery is ill at her home and under the care of a doctor, it is reported.

Mrs. Archie Hall Davis returned home Monday after a stay of several weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Prescott Hubbard, in Connecticut.

Mrs. Roscoe Whittier left Friday for the south.

Mrs. E. Wessel is spending some time with relatives in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelder, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelder and their daughter, Sandra Lee, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Davis Friday evening.

Mrs. Mary Quick has returned to her home after spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barley. Mrs. Barley is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sartorius entertained a number of friends from New York at their home last weekend.

Mrs. Ethel Gillespie and son, Ned, spent Monday afternoon in Kingston.

Mrs. William Whittier spent Friday evening in Ellenville.

Report Plane Collision

Fort Hood, Tex., April 8 (AP)—Two F-51 single engine fighter planes were reported to have collided today as 3,150 paratroopers made a mass jump in Exercise Long Horn, big army-air force maneuvers. The information came from the maneuvers' joint public information bureau here. Newsmen—and many generals who had counted on seeing the spectacular air drop—were not at the scene. A few hours earlier they had been told the mass jump had been canceled. Maneuver headquarters was not able to say immediately whether the planes crashed or managed to stay aloft. Whether there were casualties was not announced.

One reason the government doesn't cut expenses is that too many of the expenses can vote.

Town of Esopus Prepares Folder

Resort owners and business people of the town of Esopus have been requested by Thomas Bohan, president of the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce, to check listings and forward complete information to Mrs. Alice Tinnie, secretary, at Port Ewen immediately so that printing of the 1952 resort folder can be compiled. The folder will go to press very shortly.

It is planned to print 10,000 pamphlets again this year for distribution. This distribution is made through the County Publicity Committee, through over 300 travel bureau agencies and through the New York State Department of Commerce. Last year some 7,000 folders were distributed through these agencies, with distribution in practically every state in the union, Canada and in some foreign countries.

About the middle of April the Ulster County Publicity Committee will begin its annual advertising campaign in metropolitan newspapers and shortly after that requests for information begin to come in. Folders should be ready for distribution at that time. Mr. Bohan requests an early response for listings in the folder of his town.

Congress Would

private affairs of McGrath and other high administration officials. Morris, as cleanup man, was a special assistant to McGrath.

McGrath stepped out of his job officially yesterday with a smiling farewell to a gathering of more than 2,000 Justice Department employes. He wound up by saying, "God bless the Justice Department. God bless the President of the United States."

"No one carries a greater burden than the President of the United States," McGrath said, "with all the world looking to him for help. He needs it. You work for a great government, a great administration, led by a great President."

McGrath called his successor, McGranery, "A fine character, of high intellect." He did not mention Morris by name, but remarked, "I have just undergone political surgery myself."

Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman was named to act as attorney general until the job is filled. All Perlman would tell newsmen was:

"I am just filling in a gap."

Report Plane Collision

Fort Hood, Tex., April 8 (AP)—Two F-51 single engine fighter planes were reported to have collided today as 3,150 paratroopers made a mass jump in Exercise Long Horn, big army-air force maneuvers. The information came from the maneuvers' joint public information bureau here. Newsmen—and many generals who had counted on seeing the spectacular air drop—were not at the scene. A few hours earlier they had been told the mass jump had been canceled. Maneuver headquarters was not able to say immediately whether the planes crashed or managed to stay aloft. Whether there were casualties was not announced.

'Picket' Adds Support

Telephone operator Mrs. Robert Brown and her dog, "Picket," join the line of strikers at the Belleville, N. J., exchange as switchboard workers went out on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. Some 10,000 operators were reported out in New Jersey, along with other strikers in Michigan, Ohio and California. (NEA Telephoto).

One reason the government doesn't cut expenses is that too many of the expenses can vote.

Town of Esopus Prepares Folder

Resort owners and business people of the town of Esopus have been requested by Thomas Bohan, president of the Town of Esopus Chamber of Commerce, to check listings and forward complete information to Mrs. Alice Tinnie, secretary, at Port Ewen immediately so that printing of the 1952 resort folder can be compiled. The folder will go to press very shortly.

It is planned to print 10,000 pamphlets again this year for distribution. This distribution is made through the County Publicity Committee, through over 300 travel bureau agencies and through the New York State Department of Commerce. Last year some 7,000 folders were distributed through these agencies, with distribution in practically every state in the union, Canada and in some foreign countries.

About the middle of April the Ulster County Publicity Committee will begin its annual advertising campaign in metropolitan newspapers and shortly after that requests for information begin to come in. Folders should be ready for distribution at that time. Mr. Bohan requests an early response for listings in the folder of his town.

Congress Would

private affairs of McGrath and other high administration officials. Morris, as cleanup man, was a special assistant to McGrath.

McGrath stepped out of his job officially yesterday with a smiling farewell to a gathering of more than 2,000 Justice Department employes. He wound up by saying, "God bless the Justice Department. God bless the President of the United States."

"No one carries a greater burden than the President of the United States," McGrath said, "with all the world looking to him for help. He needs it. You work for a great government, a great administration, led by a great President."

McGrath called his successor, McGranery, "A fine character, of high intellect." He did not mention Morris by name, but remarked, "I have just undergone political surgery myself."

Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman was named to act as attorney general until the job is filled. All Perlman would tell newsmen was:

"I am just filling in a gap."

St. Peter's Holy Name Has Communion Breakfast

Among the officers and guests attending the annual communion breakfast of St. Peter's Holy Name Society in the Sunday school hall following the 8 a. m. Mass Sunday were, seated, (l. to r.) the Rev. Joseph A. Geis, pastor; the Rev. John P. Tackney, guest speaker; the Rev. Theodore J. Schulz, moderator and W. Kenneth Geary, president of the Holy Name Society. Standing are William Polk, secretary; Joseph W. Huber, treasurer; Nicholas T. Huber, vice-president; William F. Leehive, president of Division 8, Holy Name Societies; and Richard A. Hinkley, chairman of the breakfast program. (Lane Photo)

Reds Bid Nurses, Missionaries, Get Out, Priest Says

Father John P. Tackney of Maryknoll Missions, near Ossining, told an audience of 300 men attending the annual Corporate Communion breakfast of St. Peter's Holy Name Society yesterday that the Communists had bluntly advised missionaries and nurses to get out of the Orient or be driven out.

Father Tackney, who served as an army chaplain and was imprisoned for more than a year by the Japanese, said that the Russians realized their anti-American propaganda could not be effective while competing with the obvious good works of the missionaries.

Indoctrinate Children

He described how children were taken from their parents before they reached the age of individual reason and given Communist indoctrination. He pointed out also that the Russians take American Travelogues and show them with Russian sound tracts to make it appear that the scenes in the film are Russian ones. They would take a film showing New York, for example, and exhibit it to the Chinese hill people with the claim that it was Moscow. Or they would take a film in which were depicted pieces of American farm equipment in action, perhaps on a large western tract, and claim that the scenes were taken on one of Russia's collective farms.

Father Tackney said that the Communists would torture, even decapitate, missionary converts and exhibit their heads in the villages to frighten the people.

Frame Missionaries

They also devised means to frame and convict local missionaries. For example, a pistol might be planted under the pillow of one of the missionaries. In hospitals set up by missionaries the nurses are Chinese converts. On several occasions the Communists prepared affidavits to the effect that the missionaries were distributing poison medicines and demanded that the nurses sign it. When they refused they were executed and replaced with Communist nurses who signed the forms.

He said that the Communists were extremely suspicious and that at one check point along the road the Chinese soldiers, examining a thermometer which he carried in his medical kit, expressed the belief that it was a broadcasting unit.

Father Tackney pointed out also that the missionaries and converts who rode bicycles often carried extra wire to make repairs on the wheels when it became necessary. The Communists refused to permit them to carry wire because they feared it might be used as material to set up a broadcasting unit.

Father Tackney said that the Communists conscript women as well as men and they fought with just as much viciousness.

Mass and Communion were followed by a breakfast served by the Christian Mothers Society under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Diamond, president of the society. Chairman Richard Hinkley introduced President Kenneth Geary as toastmaster and he, in turn, presented Father Joseph Geis, William Leehive, president of Division 8, Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society, and Father Theodore J. Schulz, moderator of the Holy Name.

'Tragic Mistake' Causes Death at Hospital

Middletown, Conn., April 8 (AP)—A nurse's mistake at the state mental hospital here has caused the death of one patient and made another critically ill, Superintendent Edgar C. Yerbury reported yesterday.

He told the police that a psychiatric aide mistook a bottle of disinfectant for a cathartic, both liquids being similar in color, and gave two women doses of the disinfectant.

Mrs. Isabelle Lowe of Meriden died Saturday, and Mrs. Jenny Sorbo, 84, of New Britain, is critically ill.

Dr. Yerbury said the "tragic mistake" was made by Mrs. Dorothy Callahan, 41, whom he described as having compiled an outstanding record during her more than 10 years of service at the hospital. She was named "psychiatric aide of the year" in 1949.

Mrs. Callahan wears glasses but did not have them on when she picked the wrong bottle, the superintendent said.

He added that she had been suspended from the staff, pending an inquest to be held by Coroner Morris Wrubel. He did not immediately explain the delay in reporting Mrs. Lowe's death.

Mrs. Lowe had been a patient at the hospital for seven years, and Mrs. Sardo was admitted 17 years ago.

Beautiful Square

In old Czarist days, krasny, the Russian word for "red," also meant "beautiful," and Red Square was so named because it was so beautiful.

James Simmons and Mrs. Anna Moore are patients at the Dale Sanitarium, Barclay Heights.

Announcement has been made of the birth of a son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Limpert of Canton. Mrs. Limpert is the former Mary Anne Thornton, daughter of Eugene Thornton of Bennett avenue this village.

The Rev. and Mrs. Milton Ryan of Shokan visited friends here last week.

Mrs. Howard Pareis and sons, of Malden, have moved to Schenectady, where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCabe of Jane street are among many in the township suffering from virus.

Miss Sarah Ohley of Second street has recovered from an attack of virus.

Rhoads to Address 1952 Cancer Meeting

Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads, director of Memorial Center, New York, will address the annual dinner of the Ulster county branch of the American Cancer Society at 6:30 p. m. Monday, April 21, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. His subject will be Progress in Cancer Research.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert R. Rodie, 83 Albany avenue, Kingston, until April 17. The dinner will cost $3 a plate.

No Evidence Found

New York, April 8 (AP)—Magistrate Peter M. Horn in vehicular accident court yesterday dismissed a charge of vehicular homicide against Vincent Abate, 21, of 960 Broadway, Bayonne, N. J., driver of a truck involved in an accident in which one man was killed and another injured. Magistrate Horn said he found no evidence of criminal negligence on the part of Mr. Abate.

22,000,000 Will Die

If cancer continues at its present death rate, more than 22,000,000 Americans alive at present will eventually die of cancer. The American Cancer Society says this toll can be reduced if everyone supports the cancer control program by giving to the annual Cancer Crusade.

Heroes to Receive Medals of Honor

They are: Marine M/Sgt. Harold E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wilson, Birmingham, Ala.; 1st Lt. Lloyd L. Burke of Stuttgart, Ark., and Cpl. Rodolfo P. Hernandez, whose mother lives in Fowler, Calif.

Wilson, a 30-year-old reservist, ran from foxhole to foxhole passing ammunition to his platoon and shouting encouragement April 23, 1951, although he was wounded four times and both arms were almost disabled, the Marine Corps said.

When the attack on his position was beaten off, Wilson personally accounted for all of his men before walking half a mile unassisted to an aid station, the citation added.

The exploits of Wilson and Burke in winning the nation's highest military honor were announced earlier.

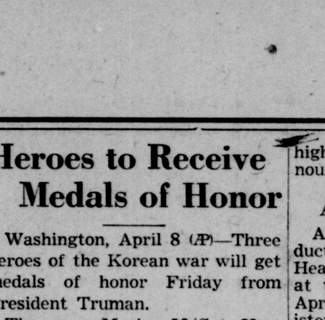

Allaben Health Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Allaben April 14 from 2 to 4 p. m., administering immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. The conference originally scheduled for Woodstock April 16 has been postponed to April 23.

On Stage

On the night President Lincoln was assassinated there, the Ford theatre, in Washington, D. C., was playing "Our American Cousin." starring Laura Keene, the English actress.

St. Peter's Holy Name Has Communion Breakfast

Among the officers and guests attending the annual communion breakfast of St. Peter's Holy Name Society in the Sunday school hall following the 8 a. m. Mass Sunday were, seated, (l. to r.) the Rev. Joseph A. Geis, pastor; the Rev. John P. Tackney, guest speaker; the Rev. Theodore J. Schulz, moderator and W. Kenneth Geary, president of the Holy Name Society. Standing are William Polk, secretary; Joseph W. Huber, treasurer; Nicholas T. Huber, vice-president; William F. Leehive, president of Division 8, Holy Name Societies; and Richard A. Hinkley, chairman of the breakfast program. (Lane Photo)

Reds Bid Nurses, Missionaries, Get Out, Priest Says

Father John P. Tackney of Maryknoll Missions, near Ossining, told an audience of 300 men attending the annual Corporate Communion breakfast of St. Peter's Holy Name Society yesterday that the Communists had bluntly advised missionaries and nurses to get out of the Orient or be driven out.

Father Tackney, who served as an army chaplain and was imprisoned for more than a year by the Japanese, said that the Russians realized their anti-American propaganda could not be effective while competing with the obvious good works of the missionaries.

Indoctrinate Children

He described how children were taken from their parents before they reached the age of individual reason and given Communist indoctrination. He pointed out also that the Russians take American Travelogues and show them with Russian sound tracts to make it appear that the scenes in the film are Russian ones. They would take a film showing New York, for example, and exhibit it to the Chinese hill people with the claim that it was Moscow. Or they would take a film in which were depicted pieces of American farm equipment in action, perhaps on a large western tract, and claim that the scenes were taken on one of Russia's collective farms.

Father Tackney said that the Communists would torture, even decapitate, missionary converts and exhibit their heads in the villages to frighten the people.

Frame Missionaries

They also devised means to frame and convict local missionaries. For example, a pistol might be planted under the pillow of one of the missionaries. In hospitals set up by missionaries the nurses are Chinese converts. On several occasions the Communists prepared affidavits to the effect that the missionaries were distributing poison medicines and demanded that the nurses sign it. When they refused they were executed and replaced with Communist nurses who signed the forms.

He said that the Communists were extremely suspicious and that at one check point along the road the Chinese soldiers, examining a thermometer which he carried in his medical kit, expressed the belief that it was a broadcasting unit.

Father Tackney pointed out also that the missionaries and converts who rode bicycles often carried extra wire to make repairs on the wheels when it became necessary. The Communists refused to permit them to carry wire because they feared it might be used as material to set up a broadcasting unit.

Father Tackney said that the Communists conscript women as well as men and they fought with just as much viciousness.

Mass and Communion were followed by a breakfast served by the Christian Mothers Society under the supervision of Mrs. Charles Diamond, president of the society. Chairman Richard Hinkley introduced President Kenneth Geary as toastmaster and he, in turn, presented Father Joseph Geis, William Leehive, president of Division 8, Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society, and Father Theodore J. Schulz, moderator of the Holy Name.

'Tragic Mistake' Causes Death at Hospital

Middletown, Conn., April 8 (AP)—A nurse's mistake at the state mental hospital here has caused the death of one patient and made another critically ill, Superintendent Edgar C. Yerbury reported yesterday.

He told the police that a psychiatric aide mistook a bottle of disinfectant for a cathartic, both liquids being similar in color, and gave two women doses of the disinfectant.

Mrs. Isabelle Lowe of Meriden died Saturday, and Mrs. Jenny Sorbo, 84, of New Britain, is critically ill.

Dr. Yerbury said the "tragic mistake" was made by Mrs. Dorothy Callahan, 41, whom he described as having compiled an outstanding record during her more than 10 years of service at the hospital. She was named "psychiatric aide of the year" in 1949.

Mrs. Callahan wears glasses but did not have them on when she picked the wrong bottle, the superintendent said.

He added that she had been suspended from the staff, pending an inquest to be held by Coroner Morris Wrubel. He did not immediately explain the delay in reporting Mrs. Lowe's death.

Mrs. Lowe had been a patient at the hospital for seven years, and Mrs. Sardo was admitted 17 years ago.

Beautiful Square

In old Czarist days, krasny, the Russian word for "red," also meant "beautiful," and Red Square was so named because it was so beautiful.

Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads, director of Memorial Center, New York, will address the annual dinner of the Ulster county branch of the American Cancer Society at 6:30 p. m. Monday, April 21, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. His subject will be Progress in Cancer Research.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Robert R. Rodie, 83 Albany avenue, Kingston, until April 17. The dinner will cost $3 a plate.

No Evidence Found

New York, April 8 (AP)—Magistrate Peter M. Horn in vehicular accident court yesterday dismissed a charge of vehicular homicide against Vincent Abate, 21, of 960 Broadway, Bayonne, N. J., driver of a truck involved in an accident in which one man was killed and another injured. Magistrate Horn said he found no evidence of criminal negligence on the part of Mr. Abate.

22,000,000 Will Die

If cancer continues at its present death rate, more than 22,000,000 Americans alive at present will eventually die of cancer. The American Cancer Society says this toll can be reduced if everyone supports the cancer control program by giving to the annual Cancer Crusade.

Heroes to Receive Medals of Honor

They are: Marine M/Sgt. Harold E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wilson, Birmingham, Ala.; 1st Lt. Lloyd L. Burke of Stuttgart, Ark., and Cpl. Rodolfo P. Hernandez, whose mother lives in Fowler, Calif.

Wilson, a 30-year-old reservist, ran from foxhole to foxhole passing ammunition to his platoon and shouting encouragement April 23, 1951, although he was wounded four times and both arms were almost disabled, the Marine Corps said.

When the attack on his position was beaten off, Wilson personally accounted for all of his men before walking half a mile unassisted to an aid station, the citation added.

The exploits of Wilson and Burke in winning the nation's highest military honor were announced earlier.

Allaben Health Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the Health Center in Allaben April 14 from 2 to 4 p. m., administering immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. The conference originally scheduled for Woodstock April 16 has been postponed to April 23.

On Stage

On the night President Lincoln was assassinated there, the Ford theatre, in Washington, D. C., was playing "Our American Cousin." starring Laura Keene, the English actress.
